On the importation into, or exportation from, any Port in British India of any goods not liable to Duty, or liable to fixed Duties according to weight or quantity only, or to Duties on fixed Tariff valuations, the owner, consignee, importer, exporter, or agent of such goods shall, in his bill of entry or shipping bill, truly declare their real value to the best of his knowledge and belief. In case of doubt, it shall be lawful for the Officer in charge of the Custom House to require any such person or any other person who shall be in possession of any invoice, broker's note, policy of insurance or other document, whereby the value of any such goods can be ascertained, to produce the same, and to furnish any information relating to the value of such goods which it shall be in his power to furnish. And it shall thereupon be the duty of such person to produce any such document or to furnish any such information so required by such Officer.

Undervalued goods how to be dealt with.

XXVII. If, upon the examination of any goods entered for Duty and chargeable with Duty upon the value thereof, but for which a specific value has not been fixed by the Local Government, with the sanction of the Governor-General of India in Council, it shall appear to an Officer of Customs that such goods are properly chargeable with a higher rate or amount of Duty than that to which they would be subject, according to the value thereof as stated in the bill of entry or shipping bill, it shall be lawful for such Officer to detain such goods. Nothing in this Section shall prevent the Chief Officer of Customs of the Port, when he shall have reason to believe that any such undervaluation was solely the result of accident, from permitting the person entering the goods, on his application for that purpose, to amend such entry, as regards valuation, on payment of such increased rate of Duties, or on such other terms as he may determine. When goods are retained under this Section on account of Government, the Duties payable thereon shall in no case be levied from the person entering such goods.

Goods brought to be passed through the Custom House for importation or exportation, to correspond in all particulars with description given of them in the application to pass.

If goods produced or manufactured in British India be imported into any Port in British India from any Foreign Port or place, such goods shall be treated as Foreign goods, and shall be liable to all the Duties, conditions, and restrictions to which Foreign goods of the like kind and value are liable on the first importation thereof.

EMIGRATION TO SAINT CROIX.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill relating to the Emigration of Native Laborers to the Danish Colony of Saint Croix be taken into consideration. He said that, in making this motion, it was desirable that he should read the last paragraph of the Report of the Select Committee, which was in the following terms:—"As we "understand that the consolidation and amend-"ment of the Acts relating to Emigration are "under consideration of the Supreme Govern-"ment, and likely very soon to be undertaken, "we refrain from suggesting, on the present occa-"sion, any alteration of the Law which would be "applicable only to the small Colony to which "this Bill relates." When the Select Committee assembled, there was found to be considerable difference of opinion among the Members, both with respect to the principle of the Bill and the machinery by which its object was to be carried out. But he (Mr. Maine) had been in a position to inform the Committee that it was the intention of the Government, when the sittings of the Council were intermitted, to take into consideration the laws relating to Emigration with a view to their consolidation and amendment. As respected this particular Bill, the community of Saint Croix was but small, so that the drain upon the labor of India would be insignificant; and, on the other hand, the Danes, as His Excellency, from his West Indian experience, was doubtless aware, bore such an excellent reputation for kindness to their servants, even in the days of slavery, as afforded strong ground for believing that emigrants would be treated with even exceptional humanity and consideration. He would therefore move that the Report be taken into consideration, and the Bill be passed without prejudice to any question that might arise hereafter on the subject of the amendment of the Emigration Laws.

The Hon'ble Mr. Cowie said, it was no doubt their bounden duty to pass this Bill, since it merely carried out a Convention already entered into at Home by Her Most Gracious Majesty. But he wished to suggest to the Executive Government the expediency of pointing out to Her Majesty's Ministers the apparent fallacy on which these Conventions were based, viz., the notion that India was over-populated, and that the remedy of emigration, which had brought such enormous advantages to England, Scotland and Ireland, must prove of equal service here. It was true that, in many towns, and, perhaps, in some districts, there was an excess of population but then these were balanced by other districts very sparsely populated, and it would be more expedient for Government to encourage Natives to migrate from one part of India to another, rather than to carry their labor to Foreign Colonies with which we have no commercial reciprocity. In making these remarks, he wished to guard himself against any imputation of narrow views in reference to free trade. He professed himself a free-trader in the item of labor, as in other things, and he desired to see every man at liberty to carry his labor to the best market, whether in his own country or out of it, but it was one thing to bring that liberty to the notice of Natives, and quite another to tempt them to emigrate by various modes of encouragement, and even by a kind of licensed impressment. He hoped the subject might receive the impartial attention of His Lordship and the Executive Members of this Council.

The Hon'ble Mr. Fitzwilliam said that his Hon'ble friend, Mr. Cowie, had so fully expressed the opinion of the commercial community of Calcutta, and, he believed, of India, that he could add but little to his arguments, in all of which he agreed. He admitted the right of free emigration to every Native of India. But believing, as he did, that the supply of labor in this country was now inadequate to meet the demand, he thought that the Government should, when legislating for the protection of the emigrant, avoid doing anything that would encourage him in emigrating. The time was, in his opinion, not far distant when the question of immigration would probably occupy their attention much more than emigration.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ellis said, that it was not his intention to raise any objection to the Bill before the Council, because he conceived it had become necessary to pass that Bill, in consequence of the Treaty concluded by Her Majesty's Government with that of Denmark. The measure before the Council was merely an extension of Act XXXI of 1855, as modified by Act XLIX of 1860, which Act was passed for the protection of Natives emigrating from the British Territories in India to British Colonies:—and as it was the intention of Government shortly to make a revision and consolidation of the laws relating to emigration from India, he agreed with the other Members of the Select Committee in thinking it unnecessary to make any alteration in the Law as applicable to the Danish Colony of St. Croix only. But although he was not disposed to oppose the Bill before the Council, he confessed that he very heartily concurred in the opinions expressed by his Hon'ble Colleagues, that the extension of emigration at the present time was a matter of very serious regret, and that such extension would prove very injurious to the interests of this country. Some persons in England, and Foreign Governments generally, labored under the erroneous impression that British India had a surplus population, which it could afford to send out of the country as emigrants either to our own Colonies or to Foreign Possessions. Those best acquainted with India would certainly not concur in this opinion. In reality the future progress of India, speaking not of particular portions of the country, but, of the Empire generally, ran a serious risk of being interrrupted and delayed, by the want of a sufficient population. This deficiency of labor was likely to retard an object in which His Lordship's predecessor in the Government of this country, and the English public generally, had shown so great an interest, the reclaiming of the vast tracts of jungle and waste land, and the application to the soil of English capital under the superintendence of English settlers. When they reflected upon the vast extent of Railways still remaining incomplete; the tramways, feeders, and roads required to bring the great lines of Railway into profitable operation; and the vast works of irrigation which were being undertaken with the object of fertilizing and enriching the country; when they knew that all these great enterprizes were not looming in the distance, but were already in progress he (Mr. Ellis) confessed that he thought they should view any increase in the number of emigrants, and any measures which, like the present Bill, have a tendency to encourage emigration, as matters of regret, and as a serious evil. He was aware that it might be said that the inhabitants of India should be free to carry their labor to the best market which they could find, and that it would be unbecoming and illiberal in the British Government to throw obstacles in the way of emigration, either to our own or Foreign Colonies. It would also be objected, that the legislative measures passed in respect of emigration have not had for their object the encouragement of emigration from India, but that they have been framed so as to protect the Natives of this country from being entrapped and deluded, when making their engagements; to guard their interests when they had reached their destination; and to ensure their return to their native country when they had fulfilled their contracts. He was prepared to admit that at first sight there was great force in such observations; but although laws might be framed with care, and be thoroughly correct in principle, it behoved the Council, especially in regard to this country, to observe very carefully the practical effect of the Law when applied. The laws relating to emigration would, he did not doubt, be found very sufficient in countries where the people were more civilized and self-reliant than they were in India; but he did not believe that the law, in its present state, was sufficient to guard the Natives of the interior of the country from being deceived and enticed from their homes on false, or what was nearly as bad, on insufficient information. He believed that if we could follow the recruiters of emigrants into the interior of the country, and if we could watch their proceedings more closely than had hitherto been done, we should find them holding out the most exaggerated prospects to the most ignorant class of the population, and making promises as extravagant as those of the recruiting Serjeant to the bumpkins of a village in England, when a few fine men were wanted for service in India. The Natives in the interior completely misapprehend the position and powers of these recruiting agents. These agents displayed before their eyes a Purwannah, as they styled the document they receive from the Emigration Agent, and they were invested, in the eyes of the people, with a certain degree of official authority. They were listened to all the more readily in consequence of its being supposed that their objects had the support and approval of the Government. When once a gang of Coolies was collected, care was taken to gain over a few of the most intelligent among them. These were appointed as Sirdars over small companies of the Coolies, were favored by the recruiter, and combined with the recruiter to keep up the illusions which caused the Coolies to enlist. These Sirdars obtained, during the march to Calcutta, a very great influence over their respective gangs, and, by the time the Coolies reached their depôt at Calcutta, they were fully persuaded of the reality of the promises held out to them when they left their homes, and that these would be speedily realized. Acting under the direction of their leaders they, parrot-like, expressed their contentment when questioned by the Protector, and their entire willingness to fulfil their engagements. He (Mr. Ellis,) must beg to observe that he believed the work of the Protector, so far as lay in his power, was most conscientiously performed at Calcutta by the Officer appointed for that purpose ; but he maintained that the bands of intending emigrants were deceived before reaching the depôt and the influence of their Sirdars dictated their answers to the Protector. Those who were best acquainted with Natives knew how easily men could be tutored, and how difficult it was to make them give any answers but those which have been taught them. Their health was carefully and skilfully guarded during the time they remained at the depôt. It had been found necessary on the ground, it was stated, of health, to give the intending emigrants, while awaiting their embarkation, a very superior diet to that to which the laborers in this country were accustomed, and spirits formed one of the sanatory precautions which it had been found necessary to employ. Further, athletic sports were encouraged by pecuniary rewards, so that the happy life which was promised to them at the time of their recruiting, commenced to be realized during their sojourn at the depôt, and it was only when they were fairly at Sea that they commenced to find how illusory the promises made had been. He (Mr. Ellis) did not think that he exaggerated when he said that the majority of Coolies who emigrated, (and this was especially the case with regard to Foreign emigration) were completely ignorant of that which they were undertaking. He did not wish to dwell upon the lamentable and excessive mortality which had recently occurred among the emigrants to the Island of Re-union, and which had engaged, he believed, the attention of the Government of Bengal, and the Government of India, for he had no doubt that efficient remedies would be applied. This mortality, which was nearly double that which occurred among the emigrants to the Mauritius, amounted to 4¼ per cent during the short time occupied in the voyage, and in the distribution of the Coolies. With reference to this particular branch of emigration from this country, he had carefully examined the reports regarding Cooly labor, inserted monthly in the Commercial Gazette published at St. Denis. He gathered from those reports some important facts. It appeared that the mortality among the Coolies received from Calcutta was of the very serious character which he had already noticed, that this mortality was continuous during a great part of the year, and also that the Coolies received from Calcutta were physically ill-suited for the labors assigned to them in the sugarcane plantations and in the sugar factories. It was added, and he thought this a very significant remark, that the demand for labor in the Island was so great, that in spite of the large numbers already sent, the planters and manufacturers were eager to obtain these Coolies, although it was admitted that their physical condition was unsuited for these labors. When it was remembered that the Island of Re-union did not admit of much extension of cultivation, and that the climate, though favorable to Europeans, is considered fatal to Africans, and hostile to Asiatics, he very much feared, from the facts he had mentioned, that it had been found, as was the case with imported slave labor, in America, that it paid to employ at extensive labor an Indian Cooly, even for a limited period, and that a large proportion of those employed succumbed to this labor. In Article X of the Convention made by Her Majesty with the Emperor of the French, provision had been made that the emigrant should not be required to work more than six days in seven, nor more than nine hours and a half a day, and by Article XIX, that the British Consular Agent should be informed of the allotment of the emigrants, and of all deaths and births which might occur during the period of engagement. He (Mr. Ellis) should be glad to learn that these statistics had been furnished to the Government of India by the British Consular Agent during the last eighteen months, and that they indicated a better state of things than would appear from the report which he had quoted. He (Mr. Ellis) was led to believe that this state of things continued in Re-union ; for he observed in a late issue of the Commercial Gazette above quoted, dated 15th December 1862, the following remarks : —" The Allumghir has arrived with 400 Coolies on board. These will be allotted in a few days. The Coolies from Bengal are still out of favor because the truth is the numerous shipments of these men are not of the kind required. It is to be hoped that the present lot will prove better than those which preceded it. But wherever may be the composition (" materiel") of it, the want of labor is so great everywhere, that in all probability not one of these Indians will remain unplaced in a very few days after their distribution is allowed." He did not wish without further information to draw any positive conclusion from this recent account of the labor market in the Island of Re-union, but he feared the deficiency of labor indicated a continuance of mortality after the emigrants reached the estates. He thought it might however be safely affirmed, that the experience of the results of the emigration of Natives from India to Foreign Colonies was not of a nature to make any one interested in the welfare of India wish for the extension of such emigration, and rendered it very desirable that stringent provisions should be introduced into the laws relating to emigration, to guard the Natives of India from being enticed by false promises to a country and to labors which were unsuited to them; the more so, that every adult laborer was certain of remunerative work either in his own country, or in countries forming part of the British dominions in India, and under the protection of the British Government. His object in making these remarks had been to hasten the revision and consolidation of the laws relating to emigration. Whether it would be desirable to send a commission to enquire, before the evil extended, into the condition of Natives who had emigrated to Reunion must be left to the discretion of the Executive Government, but he thought this Council would fail in the performance of an important duty if a careful amendment of the law relating to emigration was delayed. He observed that an important step in this direction had been taken by the Council of His Honor the Lieutenant Governor of Bengal, in a "Bill for the "regulation of the transport of Native laborers "to the districts of Assam and Cachar and Sylhet." Sections X and XI of that Bill contained important provisions for keeping the recruiter of Coolies under the eye of the district Magistrate, whose signature must be obtained before the recruiting could commence. No laborer was to be allowed to leave his district until he had been produced before the Magistrate, and until that Officer had carefully examined the intending emigrant as to the nature of his engagement, and if the Magistrate was not of opinion that the person examined comprehended his engagement, he was required to refuse to register his name, and without such registration no laborer could be forwarded to the Cooly depôt. It was before the Cooly left his own district that protection was most required, and could be most efficaciously extended to him. He trusted that these useful provisions would be introduced into the consolidated law relating to emigration, and that the Magistrates would most carefully question the Natives who proposed to emigrate, so as to ascertain that they had not been kept in ignorance on such important points as the climate of the country to which they were about to proceed, and the nature of the labor required of them. He must ask the indulgence of the Council for the length of his remarks on this subject, but it was one of great and increasing importance, as affecting the welfare of very large numbers of the Natives of this country, and indirectly those important interests to which he had already alluded, and which would seriously suffer by any increase in emigration from British India. As it was, the emigration from the Port of Calcutta alone had reached very considerable proportions. The total number of emigrants from this Port from December 1860 to December 1862 was 37,598, of whom 8,957 went to the Colony of Reunion.

The Hon'ble Mr. ERSKINE said that, as one of those who had signed this Report, he wished, after the statements which had just been made, to offer a few remaks on one portion of this subject. Abstaining from any allusion to the economic aspect of the question, he could not but think that, in dealing with it as a legislative question, Mr. Cowie and Mr. Ellis had hardly given sufficient prominence to considerations connected with the actual state of the law. The Acts which had been passed from time to time, of late years, for the purpose of regulating emigration from British India, could not, he thought, be correctly described as Acts to encourage emigration. Mr. Cowie had declared himself to be a free-trader in respect to Labor, as well as to other things; and he (Mr. Erskine) might therefore just remind him, that, since the passing of the Act of 1839, the general law had recognised it as a penal offence to contract with any Native of India for labor in a Colony beyond the Seas, or to aid any Native of India in emigrating for employment as a laborer. The laborer had indeed been left nominally at liberty to carry his labor to the place in which it would be most productive. But, practically, this liberty of choice could hardly be exercised, owing to the penalties enacted against all who aided emigrant laborers. And even under the special laws passed from time to time, to exempt certain Colonies from the prohibitory provisions of the Law of 1839, a Native emigrant could not be carried as a passenger unless he personally expressed his desire to go; nor unless he had been engaged on the part of the Government of the Country to which he was proceeding; nor unless he showed a passport signed and countersigned by the Emigration Officers; nor unless the vessel had been specially licensed to carry emigrants; nor until the rules relative to accommodation and treatment of emigrants, and provision of return passages to India, had been fulfilled; nor to any place but one at which a Protector to Emigrants had been recognised. It was not easy to see how the Indian Legislature could go much further than this in restricting the freedom of action of emigrant laborers, and of Commanders of Vessels. Acts past in this spirit could hardly, he thought, be described as Acts to encourage emigration. In the practical working of those Acts great evils might arise, and no doubt did arise, as Mr. Ellis had pointed out; and the Council were obliged to him for bringing some of those evils so distinctly to notice. But still it was uncertain, and was a difficult question to decide how far and in what way the Legislature could advantageously interfere for the purpose of remedying those evils? and how far they must be left to the vigilance of the executive administrations in India and elsewhere? The question, as regarded practical abuses or evasions of the law, seemed to divide itself naturally into two parts; one relating to the proper protection of emigrants while still in British India; the other to their protection after they had left the limits of British India. In connection with the former, he was disposed to think with Mr Ellis that some better arrangement should be made for ascertaining, before an emigrant left his own district, that he was fully informed of the meaning of the engagement into which he was entering, and of the risks he would have to run. Some provisions for this purpose, in the nature of those recently proposed in the Bengal Council, would probably be desirable. Other measures, too, of a similar kind might be practicable; and he had no doubt that when the consolidated Bill announced by Mr. Maine was introduced, full justice would be done to every proposal for the better protection of intending emigrants. In like manner, with reference to the treatment and protection of those who had passed beyond the limits of British India, it must be remembered that an Act of 1856 empowered the Governor-General in Council to suspend any Act permitting emigration to any Colony, if there were reason to believe that proper measures had not been taken there for the protection or re-transmission of emigrant laborers. He (Mr. Erskine) was not sure that there was any other precautionary measure which the Indian Legislature could take in view to this last contingency. His object in making these observations was not to indicate dissent from the views expressed by his Colleagues on such questions as the supply of labor in India, and the value of that supply; and he fully sympathised with those who desired to protect intending emigrants from being misled or deceived by designing agents. When proposals for affording better protection against such abuses should come before the Council, they would all be anxious to do full justice to them. In the meantime he could not but think that sufficient prominence had hardly been given on this occasion to the fact that the law as it stood might be described as generally restrictive, rather than as affording encouragement to emigration.

The Hon'ble Sir Charles Trevelyan said, that he fully admitted the correctness of the views of the previous speakers as to the population of India. There was no doubt that, so far from being over-populated in the proper sense, India was under-populated. One-third, if not one-half, of the land, including a large proportion capable of high cultivation, remained waste. There were great works in progress, but much difficulty was experienced in executing them owing to the deficiency of labor. In the Central Provinces, there were two lines of Railway—that from Bombay to Jubbulpore—and that from Mirzapoor to Jubbulpore—having for their object a continuous line of communication across India. There was also a great navigation work on the Godavery; and even now there was a serious deficiency of labor on those Railway lines, and still more on the Godavery works, the progress of which was obstructed by that cause, and it was to be feared that the line from Mirzapore would not be pushed on with the activity which the great interests depending upon its completion imperatively required, because sufficient labor would not be forthcoming. On both sides of the Madras Presidency, there were ranges of mountains intersected by passes, which it was the object of the Government to open. But so great had been the difficulty in procuring labor that they had been compelled to organize bodies of laborers by a kind of military arrangement, and to induce them to remain by entering into a long engagement with them. Another instance occurred in Scinde, where the Government had actively promoted the formation of canals; but it was found that the population was so scanty, that, by the withdrawal of labor for those works, the ordinary cultivation was seriously interfered with: other instances of a similar kind might be mentioned. There could be no doubt that every laborer removed from India was a loss to it. To support the highly stimulated consumption of the great bodies of laborers, employed on the great works in progress in various parts of India, and to meet the constantly increasing demand for exports of different kinds, immense supplies of agricultural produce were required; and when labor was withdrawn from the soil, the value of the produce became artificially enhanced. There was already a dearth of labor, and every man who emigrated aggravated that dearth. It was also true, that the people—the lower orders especially—stood in need of protection. They were ignorant of Foreign Countries; were singularly docile, and were accustomed to yield to every semblance of authority. The very words "Purwannah" and "Sirdar" had an influence over them. But this was not the whole case. There were great evils and great dangers connected with emigration; but there was great good also. The emigrant went where he earned higher wages, and could acquire that which was to him a little fortune. He saw life in new aspects, and drank in new ideas, so that he returned a changed man. The emigrants who returned from the Mauritius, to which emigration had been going on for many years, came back an improved people; well clothed, and well fed; with an aspect of contented independence, and with property which they ordinarily invested in agriculture, and it was partly to these investments that the great extension of agricultural industry in the Madras Presidency was attributable. An annual efflux of the Madras laboring population had also been going on for many years to the Coffee estates in Ceylon. They cross the Straits of Manaar for the Coffee Season, as the Irish laborers cross St. George's Channel for the haymaking and harvest in England and Scotland, and return home at the end of the season with the savings of the year. He (Sir Charles Trevelyan) might mention another instance of the advantage arising from emigration. In his official tour in Tanjore he held free conferences with all classes, and especially with the landholders, the Meerassidars, who were a very important class in that part of the country. After other topics had been discussed, they asked that the people, whom they had formerly held in a kind of serfdom, should be prohibited from emigrating. He (Sir Charles Trevelyan) told them, that every subject of Queen Victoria was free to go where he chose, and that the remedy was in their own hands, as they had only to give higher wages to induce their people to remain at home. If emigration had been stopped, this servile class would have remained in their old condition, but emigration had emancipated them from those who had exercised a qualified ownership over them. It had given them a new sense of freedom, and had elevated their condition, and there could be no doubt that, in various ways, the freedom which the people now possessed to go where they liked, was a great benefit to them.

The practical conclusion to which he (Sir Charles Trevelyan) came was that, while there was some evil, there was more good in emigration, and that it was the duty of Government to allow perfect freedom, but at the same time to take care that it was not emigration through compulsion, nor through deception; and also to do all in its power to protect Indian emigrants in the Foreign lands in which they were temporarily sojourning.

The Hon'ble Rajah Dinkar Rao said that he was aware that it depended on the will of each emigrant whether he would elect to leave the country or not; still that there was so much difficulty in arranging for the proper transport of emigrants, and for their treatment and protection after arrival at their destinations, especially in places under Foreign Governments, that the subject seemed to him to require careful consideration.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington said,—Upon the general question as to whether, regard being had to the interests of the country at large, it was desirable or proper to encourage emigration from India either to British or to Foreign Colonies, he did not understand that there was any great difference of opinion. Most persons who had any knowledge of the interior of the country would confirm what had fallen from Honorable Members as to the fact that India had not an excessive population, or a population in excess of the wants of the country, or beyond its means of support. The motives, therefore, which led to the encouragement of emigration in other countries, did not exist here. He believed he was not wrong in saying that, at the present time, India could find full employment for every one of its millions of inhabitants. But while this was admitted to be the case, and while they all felt that most exaggerated notions prevailed at home and elsewhere as to the capability of India to furnish labor for other parts of the world, not only without injury, but with positive advantage to itself, he was glad to find that no one supposed that the restrictive laws which were passed in 1837, and which prohibited contracts from being entered into with the Natives of India for labor to be performed in any British or Foreign Colony, an exception being made in favor of menial servants and seamen, could or should be maintained, and that the privilege which was enjoyed by the laboring classes at home, and, he believed, in most other civilized countries, of taking their labor to any market where it was likely to prove most profitable to themselves and their families, ought to be denied by legislative enactment to the labouring classes in India, or that they should be debarred by law from seeking their fortunes in other countries whenever they felt inclined to do so. The impossibility of maintaining, in their integrity, the restrictive laws to which he had referred, became apparent very soon after the passing of those laws, and, in the period which had since intervened, it had been found expedient to relax them in favor of different Colonies. He was not aware that any inconvenience or injury to the country at large had been produced by this relaxation of the law, while, as regarded the labouring classes of India, who, availing themselves of the relaxation of the law, had sought employment out of India, he believed that the result had been exceedingly beneficial. No doubt some cases of individual hardship had occurred, which were to be regretted. This must be the case under any system of emigration, however well managed. A modification of the Act of 1839 having been forced upon the Government, it obviously became the duty of the Government, at the time that it relaxed that law, to pass other laws, which should protect the labouring classes in India from misrepresentation, or from being deceived by interested parties, and should secure for those classes proper accommodation and care on the voyage from India; good treatment on reaching their destination; and the fulfilment of the conditions which had been mutually agreed upon. As had been pointed out by Mr. Erskine, these were the only objects sought to be accomplished by the laws relating to emigration which had been passed at different times But it was suggested that these laws had had the effect of encouraging emigration! Whether this was really the case he could not say. He could only repeat that the sole object of the laws in question was not to encourage emigration, but to protect emigrants. If the effect of the laws had been to promote emigration, it only shewed how careful the framers had been so to frame their legislation that it should afford substantial protection to the classes for whose benefit it was designed. He could not think that it would be wise in the Government now to alter the policy which it had pursued for some years in respect to emigration. In the proposed Bill for consolidating and amending the Emigration laws, upon the preparation of which Mr. Maine had told them he was engaged, it might be advisable to introduce some additional safeguards, shewn by the experience of past years to be necessary, in order to secure to every Native wishing to emigrate full knowledge of what he was about to do, of the country to which he was going, and of what would happen to him there. He had no doubt Mr. Maine would make ample provision in his Bill with this view. He (Mr. Harington) saw no reason to suppose that emigration would ever reach such a height in this country as to become positively injurious. He thought that there was an influence at work which would serve as a check and prevent excessive emigration. This was the great rise in the value of labor, which was steadily increasing. He fully expected that at no distant date the Colonies, whether British or Foreign, which looked to India to supplement their home supply of labor, would find themselves unable to offer sufficient inducement to the Indian laborer to leave the country, and that the Indian laborer, content with the remuneration for his labor, procurable at home, would have no desire to try to better his fortunes elsewhere. To this check on emigration no one could object. It appeared to him that it would prove a better preventive means than any which human ingenuity could devise, whether in the form of legislation or otherwise. With regard to what had been stated about the mortality amongst emigrants to Re-union, whether on board ship, or after arrival, he could only say that returns of deaths on board of emigrant ships were required by the Government. These returns were carefully scrutinized. Any great or unusual mortality was enquired into, and such orders were passed in each case as appeared proper. He had no knowledge of many of the facts mentioned by Mr. Ellis. He thought that Mr. Ellis had made out a sufficient case for enquiry, and he felt sure that His Excellency the Governor-General would concur with him that there should be an investigation into the circumstances stated by Mr. Ellis, with a view to the adoption of such remedial measures as might seem to be called for. The Natives, who had emigrated to the neighbouring Island of Mauritius, were, he believed, generally well satisfied with the treatment which they received there, and he had heard of Natives going back to the Island after a short return to India, taking with them numbers of relatives, friends and fellow-villagers, who were induced to accompany them by the favourable reports which they were able to give of the climate and of the treatment which they had received.

The Hon'ble Sir Robert Napier said, that the general result of the discussion had been to show that no restriction could be placed on the right of the Native of India to take his labor to the best market, and the question was therefore reduced to the nature of the protection to be afforded prior to emigration, and of the watch to be kept on the subsequent treatment of the emigrant. He felt certain that every possible attention would be given to these important subjects, with a view to remove any painful doubts that might now exist. But he (Sir Robert Napier) thought it fair to the Government to state that, so far as he was aware, during the two years he had been connected with it, every representation respecting the mortality among emigrants on their voyages had received the most serious consideration, and had been published, with the view of calling the attention of all who were interested in the subject to the facts, and to show that there would be no concealment of any circumstances of that nature.

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine, in reply, said that, like his Hon'ble friends, Mr. Harington and Sir Charles Trevelyan he agreed with the Hon'ble Mr. Cowie, that very unfounded impressions of the state of population in India where abroad in Europe. It was no doubt a mistake to suppose that India was filled with a superabundant population, which could supply every labor-market in the world from its overflowings. The probability was that India, since it had been known to Europe, had never been over-populated relatively to its natural resources; the population was only accumulated, and, as it were, congested in particular localities. The natural resources of the country were now being rapidly developed by English capital and energy, and he might add, by Native capital and energy stimulated by English example; and he (Mr. Maine) fully believed it would soon appear that India had not more laborers than she required for herself. The time was near at hand when European nations and British Colonies would have, to a great extent, to relinquish the notion that the void caused by the abolition of slavery would always be filled up from India. At the same time he must say that, in his opinion, the stoppage of the supply of labor from India would be brought about, not by any increased stringency of positive law—though he guarded himself against stating that no increase of stringency in some respects would be required,—but by the operation of natural laws: by the natural gravitation of labor towards the nearest field of remunerative employment. They must not forget that it was only by accident that any legislation of the kind now proposed was required. All emigration laws, such as the Bill before the Council, were preceded and underlain by the principle laid down by the Hon'ble Mr. Harington, the right of every subject of Her Majesty to go any where he pleased—to the very ends of the earth if he thought fit—for the sake of bettering his condition; that principle, he took the liberty of saying, ought to be denied, least of all men, by an Englishman in India. These emigration Bills only restored the fundamental principle which had been exceptionally, temporarily, and for particular causes suspended. When a Native of India was solicited to go to St. Croix or elsewhere, the burden of proving that he ought not to be allowed to expatriate himself rested on those who opposed his going. It was not enough to show that he had mistaken his interest; it must be established that he exposed himself to actual danger, suffering, or cruelty. No doubt, considering how impressionable were the Natives of India under the influence of their Governments, it would be very wrong in Government actively to encourage emigration. On this point the suggestions of the Hon'ble Mr. Ellis were most valuable, and on the part of the Government, he (Mr. Maine) might assure the Council they would receive the fullest attention when the measure of consolidation was prepared.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine then moved that the Bill be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned.

Government of Bengal.

Negociation with the Abors.

From Major H. S. Bivar, Deputy Commissioner of Luckimpore, Upper Assam, to the Officiating Agent, Governor General, North-East Frontier, and Commissioner of Assam, Gowhatty,—(No. 146, dated the 27th November 1862.)

With reference to Abor matters, and to the instructions of Government as laid down in a letter No. 256 T. of the 8th August 1862, which were conveyed to me with your letter No. 11 of the 11th October, I have the honor to submit the following Report as to my proceedings and the result attained.

2. I left Debrooghur on the 20th October for Lallee Mookh on the Upper Berhampooter, there to receive, on the 30th October, agreeably to previous appointment, a deputation from their hostile Meyong Abors to hear what they had to say relative to their message to the effect that, if past offences were overlooked, they would behave peaceably in future and make their submission.

3. With a view to obviate any unnecessary delay I deputed, whilst I was progessing up stream, Meerie interpreters to ascertain whether the Abors had assembled and were ready to keep their engagement.

4. This led to two emissaries from the Meyongs coming down to my boats on the 29th October, by which time I had progressed up stream to within a short distance to within sight of the appointed place of meeting.

5. The emissaries, two Abors, when admitted to audience, represented that they had come to state that the height of the river and the heavy jungle would prevent the Meyongs coming to Lallee Mookh, and that they would ask me to go higher up to the Lallee Kompal.

6. As the Lallee Kompal is above the rapids, and I felt that to make any alteration in the place fixed upon for the meeting would bear a political significance, which I could not accept, I told the emissaries in reply that Lallee Mookh was but one day's journey from Pashee, the chief of the Meyong villages; that the place had been fixed upon and agreed to by the Abors and could not be altered; and I added furthermore, that I should move to the Lallee Mookh the next morning so as to be ready to meet the Meyongs as arranged.

7. The emissaries having received this reply begged to be allowed to remain in camp over night. To this request I acceded, and the next morning when I opened out for the Lallee Mookh, which I reached at an early hour, the emissaries took their departure, stating they would bring down their clansmen.

8. According to arrangement, which had been determined on as far back as the 1st October, the 30th was the day on which the Meyongs ought to have reached Lallee Mookh; there were, however, no signs of them on that day.

9. During the night of the 30th, a little after midnight, the camp was disturbed by the advent of two Abors, who were stopped by Policeman on sentry.

10. When questioned as to their coming at such an unseasonable hour the Abors said that they had come in to say that the Meyongs could not meet me unless I moved up to Lallee near to their villages.

11. To this representation I signified in reply that I was surprised a the message, and felt distrustful at what was taking place that I had come at the solicitation of the Meyongs to hear on what terms they wished to make their submission; that I had arrived at the place appointed to meet them, and could not understand why they failed to attend.

12. Having spoken to the above effect I dismissed the emissaries, and, with a view to ascertain how matters really stood, I deputed a party of Dooaneeahs, who volunteered for the service, to proceed up the Lallee towards "Pashee" to see whether the Abors had assembled, and, if so, what they were doing.

13. The Dooaneeahs, who left on the errand assigned them, about 10 A. M on the 31st, returned over night. In the morning, on the 1st November, they reported that they had seen the Abors who are assembled at the site of the old "Rokang" Meerie village; that they were in number about 200, and had with them two Methons and some pigs. The Dooaneeahs furthermore stated that the Abors behaved in a friendly manner, gave them food, but that they, the Abors, seemed undecided whether to come in or to return to their villages.

14. With reference to the intelligence rendered by the Dooaneeahs, as from personal knowledge of the locality I knew that Rokang was distant about three hours' journey from my camp at Lallee Mookh, and feeling that it was necessary to take some step that would decide the altitude of the Abors, I sent them, through the Meerie Kottokies, the following message:—

15. That, on the understanding that the Meyong Abors were desirous to renew friendly relations with the British Government and make their submission, I had come to Lallee Mookh to meet them; that the time fixed for the meeting, and to which they, the Abors, had given their adherence, was the 30th October; that that date had passed, and I had remained over two days to give them full time; that I now understood they were undecided, were demurring about coming in, and such being the case, as I had other business to transact in the quarter, I should proceed to attend to it; that I might be engaged for three or four days, after which, having disposed of what I had to do, I would return to the Lallee Mookh to give them, the Meyongs, an opportunity of shewing whether they were sincere; and that, if they did not then come in, I should conclude they had repudiated their overtures, and with this impression I should return to Debrooghur.

16. I was not wrong in my anticipations as to what would result from the course I had adopted. About two hours after I had opened out my boats, as I was progressing up streams three Abors were observed coming in haste towards my boats. On their reaching it was apparent that they were Meyong Abors and had come with a message. I admitted them to an audience, at which they explained they had come on behalf of their clansmen to say that they wish to keep their appointment; that they had been delayed in coming owing to the height of the river and to the density of the jungle through which they had to cut their way, but that if I would return to Lallee Mookh they would contrive to reach tomorrow.

17. The emissaries being men of note, upon their repeated assurance that they were in earnest that the Meyongs had in no way altered their intention, I signified that I would accede to their solicitations for my return to Lallee Mookh, and expressed that I was gratified to find that the Meyongs were desirous of adhering to their overtures for the re-establishment of peace.

18. I returned to the Lallee Mookh on the afternoon of the 2nd November. On the forenoon of the 3rd the Meyong Abors came in, and after preliminaries it was arranged that I should meet them the next day.

19. On the 3rd November the representatives of the following eight communities of the Meyong Abors were admitted to audience:—

1. Monkoo Pasheeal.
2. Rom Kang Pasheeal.
3. Bokoong.
4. Padamneh.
5. Kemi.
6. Lekang.
7. Galong.
8. Ledoom.

20. I opened the conference by addressing the Abors on the reason of my coming, that as they had signified their wish to sue for pardon for past offence, and their desire to establish peaceable relations, that I was prepared to hear what they had to represent.

21. The Abors in reply stated that it was true they had sent a message to the effect that, if their past offences were overlooked, they would behave peaceably in future and make their submission, and they begged that pardon might be granted.

22. When questioned relative to the raids which they had perpetrated they represented that the attacks had originally been made owing to the "Beeheeahs" having resisted their demands for black mail; and with respect to the cutting up of "Birdhun Bhooyah" village, they stated that they had done this out of hostility to the British Government, by way of retaliation for the attack on those villages by the last expedition, on which occasion they had suffered losses.

23. The question of raids having been thus accounted for, and the responsibility of the outrage of Birdhun Bhooyah's village having been assumed generally by the Meyong Tribe, who had committed it in a hostile spirit, the first point towards a settlement of difficulties was disposed of.

24. Having, in reply to the statement of the Abors, expressed that upon their explanation I would, in dealing with measures for the re-establishment of peace, proceed on the understanding that the raids were perpetrated by them as an enemy to the Government, and not as offenders individually, I next told them that I required to know that, upon the past being overlooked, what security they were prepared to give as to their future good intentions.

25. I explained that hitherto the Abors had been in the habit of swearing by the sun, by the earth, and by biting the barrel of a musket, but that such professions had proved valueless; and I therefore proposed that, in earnest of their good intentions, the Chief men or representatives of the Meyong communities should enter into a written engagement which I would draw up, and to the provisions of which they should subscribe.

26. It was late when matters had proceeded as far I have detailed; consequently I was obliged to break up the conference that day.

27. Over night I drew up an engagement, copy of which is annexed in Appendix A., and in framing its provisions I adhered strictly to the policy as enjoined by the Orders conveyed in the Government letter No. 265T. of the 8th August.

28. It is unnecessary I should enter into a detail of the clauses of the agreement as they are on record, suffice to say that, on the morning of the 5th November, I commenced the day's proceedings by explaining to the Abors the provision seriatim.

29. Much discussion took place in respect to the clause as to the limit of the British Territory. The Abors vehemently asserted that the whole of the country from their hills to the Berhmpooter belonged to them, and that the "Meories" and "Beeheeahs" were their subjects. They evinced so much excitement on the point that at one time the breaking up of the conference was imminent, as they declared peace could not be maintained on such grounds.

30. By degrees patient discussion brought the Abors to reason. By various argument I explained the futility of asserting preposterous pretensions to British Territory. I dwelt on the disadvantages both to themselves and to the country entailed by their maintaining any claim; that at present the country was a wilderness, whereas peace and quiet being re-established under the fostering care of the British Government the country would improve; security to person and property would encourage settlers; by degrees confidence would be restored; the uncultivated waste would disappear before population; markets would be established and communication facilitated; circumstances which would tend materially to benefit the Abors whose industry would thereby be promoted.

31. Of course much time was taken up in argument. The clauses of the engagement were discussed one by one, and by degrees the Abors yielded. All points settled, the agreement was read out, after which, with some little delay owing to the disinclination of the chief men of communities to affix their marks or signatures, which was at length overcome, the engagement was ratified. The offerings of the Abors, two Methons and some pigs, were then accepted, and suitable acknowledgments made, after which the stipulated provision for enabling the Meyongs to keep up a Police for maintaining quiet on the border on their side was given and peace proclaimed, the ceremony being concluded by giving the representatives of the Meyongs a counterpart of the agreement entered into.

32. The provision of the engagement, Clause 11, relative to the subsidy for Police requires explanation, inasmuch as it departs a little from the exact wording of the Government orders.

33. In paragraph 6 of Mr. J. D. Gordon's letter, No. 265T., it was enjoined that small stipends might very properly be allowed to the Chiefs on the border by way of enabling them to keep up among their own people a Police; but I could not adhere to this owing to the constitution of the Meyong Abors, which is decidedly democratic. To secure the object in view I had to deal with the tribe individually and generally, again any money payment would not have answered, and, under the circumstances, I decided for a provision in kind, which extending to every individual of the tribe would be a hold upon all, and would give all a direct interest in maintaining the agreement.

34. I would further beg to notice that in dealing with the question of the subsidy it was essential to act with liberality. Savages are slow to comprehend the value of a promise, and it was therefore expedient, in earnest of observance of a provision for the future, to give the Abors the stipulated allowance for the current year at once.

35. I have entered at length into what took place to shew exactly how matters had to be proceeded with. The written engagement conveys the result, which, I trust, will meet with approval. It provides for all questions which suggested themselves, and I am of opinion that the Meyongs will respect it. I was particular in impressing upon them the strict observance of the provisions of the 9th Clause, that on the occasion of any grievance or dispute they should appeal to the Deputy Commissioner for redress, and it is to be hoped that with proper management the peace of the District on the Meyong Abor border will not again be disturbed.

36. Having disposed of the Meyong Abors, as time admitted and the occasion was opportune, I proceeded up stream to the junction of the Dihang Dibang Rivers, there to meet the Abors who occupy the Hill tract on the Frontier of the country east of the Dihang.

37. The Abor clans or communities to the eastward of the Dihang consist of the "Meyboh," the "Padoo," the Boomjeon, the Silook, and the Bor Abors. These people outwardly have always been friendly, but since the accidental death at Debrooghur, last year, as reported in my letter No. 103 of the 15th December 1831, of two men of Meyboh, I have had reason to suspect that the Abors of the communities mentioned had been imbued with a spirit of discontent which the slightest thing might have kindled into open hostility.

38. With the object to allay any turbulent disposition, and to arrange for permanent friendly relations, I met the Abors of the Dihang Dibang Doars at the place abovementioned.

39. When matters were discussed with them the Abors spoke out. They wished to maintain that the Government was answerable for the death of the men of Meyboh; talked with some arrogance, going so far as to express that it was a Casus belli. I explained to them quietly that the death of the two men of Meyboh was entirely accidental; that sickness could not be controlled that the men would not have been detained at Debrooghur, but that one of them, the deceased "Pomad," who got himself into a quarrel in the Bazar, had speared a man, wounding him dangerously, and that such a proceeding being opposed to the laws he was of necessity apprehended that his subsequent demise in Jail Hospital ensued; that the second man died in the Station from cholera which prevailed, and, under the circumstances, the Government would not accept any responsibility for what occurred.

40. The question of the accident gave much trouble, but the Abors tempered down by degrees, and the question was disposed of as settled.

41. I next proceeded to the consideration of measures for the continuance of friendly relations and for the maintenance of quiet. As in the case of the Meyong Abors I drew up an engagement which I proposed to the Dihang Dibang Abors, and the provisions were carefully explained. They were not agreed to without much discussion, particularly as to the question of the limit of the British Territory, which the Abors endeavoured to make out to the Berhampooter. They even asserted that Suddyah was theirs, had been taken from them. All opposition was at length overcome, and the chief men of the Dihang Dibang Abors, on behalf of the communities they represented, then gave their adherence to the agreement by affixing their marks to it.

42. The following day, the 9th August, the Abors came forward to receive their subsidy for Police arrangements for the first year. In doing so they confirmed their assent of the previous evening to the engagement, and a counterpart of the document having been furnished to them took their leave evidently well pleased.

43. With regard to the engagement with this second Section of the Abors, a copy of it marked B. is appended, its provisions are similar to the agreement with the Meyongs, with the exception that the Dihang Dibang Abors being more numerous than the Meyongs it was necessary to make them a somewhat larger allowance.

44. It is necessary here to notice that, in connection with the settlement of the Abors, it was requisite to appoint men from amongst the chief of the Meeries, who are Abors of the plains as Kottokies.

45. In relations with other hill tribes, the Duffolahs and the Chang Meeries in North Luckimpore, Kottokies, i. e. interpreters, are required. These Kottokies are men who, from their intimate acquaintance with tribes, are made of use to communicate with them when necessary, and are sent into hills as occasion requires.

46. On the Abor side the Meeries are intimately acquainted with the Abors with whom at times they intermarry. These people, the Meeries, have great influence, and the advantage of commanding the services of a few of their chief men is politically expedient.

47. Being alive to the consideration I deemed it proper to nominate eight Meerie Kottokies for the Meyong Dooar and five for the Dihang Dibang Dooar, being, in either case, one Kottokee for each of the Abor communities.

48. In dealing with the question of Kottokies who are remunerated by a small yearly money payment, I adhered carefully to economy in as far as the importance of the question would admit.

49. I annex in Appendix C., for sanction and audit a Contingent Bill for the expense which has been incurred for the settlement of Abor affairs. The charge, which in making out my Budget Estimate for 1863-64 I had set down at Rupees 2,000, amounts in all to Rupees 1,207, which, considering the importance of the question involved, is, I submit, moderate.

50. It would take one Regiment, if not two, properly to guard the Frontier in the Abor quarter from marauding attacks, and, under the arrangement now made, the Abors will keep up a Police, the yearly charge for which, Rupees 1,207, is less than the yearly cost for pay of seventeen Constables of the lowest grade on 6 Rupees a month.

51. The charge for the Abor Police subsidy, I would advocate, should be dealt with as it is now, as a contingency in the Political Department, the Bill being submitted separate from the regular Monthly Bill.

52. Another consideration in dealing with the charge now incurred is, that it is virtually a saving.

53. In connection with measures for the protection of the Frontier in the vicinity of the Abor hills, under arrangement which still obtain, Guards, as per margin, at Pobah, at Lallee Kompal, and at Dihang Dibang Mookh are required; and although the Guard at Pobah will, under any circumstances, be necessary, and I would recommend it should be looked upon as a permanent Station, yet as the Abor have been quitted, the Lallee Kompal Post and the Dibang Station, which have not been occupied, need not be created; and this circumstance will render the services of Police, as per margin, available for duties in other parts of the country.

Number.	Station.	Strength of Guards.
		Officers.	Men.
1	Pobah ...	5	50
2	Lallee Kompal .	4	30
3	Dihang Dibang ...	1	12
	Total ..	10	92

5 Officers.
24 Men.

54. Whilst on the subject of Frontier Guards, as a further reason for dispensing with the proposed Guards at "Lallee Kompal," and at Dihang Dibang Mookh, I would notice that posting new Guards just after the execution of the engagements entered into by the Abors would be objectionable, as it might give rise to an impression that their good faith was doubted to a policy of questionable expediency.

55. Again, on the other hand, the removal of any established Post such as "Pobah" is to be deprecated, inasmuch as it would seem as if a retrograde to the state of things which formerly existed was contemplated.

56. Whilst on the one side it is expedient to shew the Abors that their professions are not distrusted, it is well, on the other hand, to shew that the Government intend to maintain the integrity of the British Territory, towards the improvement of which the maintenance of the Police Guard at Pobah is the first step, and it would be expedient not only to keep up that Station, but the road between Pobah and Dimoh, which was cleared last season, should be kept open and regularly repaired.

57. Having entered at length on all points which have suggested themselves to me in connection with the Abors, I would urge that the successful termination of the Abor difficulty is a matter for congratulation. I have great hopes that the quiet now attained will be permanent; that instead of having to resort to measures tantamount to the subjugation of the Abro Tribe a never ending policy as it leads to things beyond, for as an advance is made other tribes have to be encountered, the present arrangement giving the Abors a share in preserving the security of the Frontier and remunerating their services, thereby attaching their interest to maintain the policy of Government will effectually guard against the occurrence of any difficulty in future.

58. Although this Report, as far as the Abor question is concerned, rightly terminates here, yet, before concluding, I consider it will not be out of place to record a remark in connection with other Frontier matters, which, as I am about to quit Assam for Chota Nagpore, I deemed it expedient to attend to before leaving.

59. I have already brought to notice the inclination which the Singhphoes and Kamptees have evinced to cultivate Opium, and, in a letter No. 108 of the 21st August 1862, I had the honor to submit a Report in which I explained the method which I proposed adopting effectually to autevert the feeling.

60. My measures, which were approved* of, comprehended my devoting as much time as I could afford during November and December to moving about the Singhphoe and Kamptee Settlements, East of the Noa Dihing, but, as my approaching departure prevented this, I called in the most influential of the Singhphoe and Kamptee Chiefs to meet me.

* Agent, Governor General's letter No. 7 of 29th August 1862.

61. After disposing of business with the Abors I repaired to Lohit Mookh, and the Singhphoes and the Kamptees having assembled, I addressed them on the subject of the disposition which some of their people had evinced to cultivate Opium. I demonstrated the folly of any endeavor to infringe the established laws, dwelt on the inevitable consequence, the misery and punishment offenders subjected themselves to, and I explained to the Chiefs that the Government looked to them to support the cause of order, and that honor and duty bound them to use their best efforts to keep their followers in the right path.

62. In reply the Chiefs, after expressing their loyalty towards Government, stated their desire at all times to maintain the cause of order: they represented that the stoppage of Opium cultivation was advantageous, inasmuch as Opium eating to the extent formerly obtaining was injurious to industry: they reiterated assurances rendered on former occasions, that, as in duty bound, nothing should be wanted on their part to check any attempt at Opium cultivation; that they would exercise their influence to prevent it and would bring offenders to notice.

63. Having expressed my gratification at the reply given by the Chiefs, I spoke to them further on other matter, discussed the advantage of good government, the prosperity attained by an observance of the Laws which give security to person and to property, and the consequent attainment of content, well-being, and wealth.

64. The meeting with the Kamptees and Singhphoes was, as I have shewn, most satisfactory: they all seemed earnest and well pleased, and in dismissing them I furnished the headmen with Certificates under my own hand. In delivering them I spoke a few words to the Chiefs individually, expressing a hope that they would act up to the good opinion I had recorded of them, and that I hoped I should hear good accounts of them and of their countrymen in whose welfare I should always feel a lively interest.

65. This Report has already reached a great length, and I have little else to add except that, being on the eve of quitting the District, I would remark that I am able here to place on record that at this present time all is quiet. The Abor difficulty has been settled, there is every prospect of peace not being again easily disturbed in that quarter. The Singhphoes and the Kamptees do not incline to turbulence in connection with the Opium cultivation question, and I have great hopes that the influences of the Chiefs will effectually check any desire to offend. Measures adopted on the Frontier above Suddyah to keep in check the hitherto marauding Choolee Kotta Mishmis have succeeded; the Nagas on the Makoom side are quiet; the District of Luckimpore generally is improving; the revenues since 1857† have increased from Rupees 97,000 to Rupees 2,48,379; the people are prosperous, and, I submit, that there is every reason at present to feel hopeful for the future.

† Since I have been in charge of the District.

A.

WHEREAS it is expedient to adopt measures for maintaining the integrity of the British Territory in the District of Luckimpore, Upper Assam, on the Meyong Abor Frontier, and for preserving peace and tranquillity, and whereas by virtue of a letter No. 11 of 11th October 1862, from the Officiating Commissioner of Assam, transmitting orders from the Government of Bengal, conveyed in a letter No. 265T., dated 8th August 1862, from the Officiating Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal, the Deputy Commissioner of Luckimpore has been authorized to proceed in this matter, an engagement to the following effect has been entered into with the Meyong Abors, this 5th day of November A. D. 1862, at Camp Lallee Mookh:—

First.—Offences committed by the Meyong Abors in a time of hostility towards the British Government and for which the assembled Heads of Villages have sued for pardon are overlooked and peace is re-established.

Second.—The limit of the British Territory which extends to the foot of the hills is recognized by the Meyong Abors, who hereby engage to respect it.

Third.—The British Government will take up positions on the Frontier in the plains, will establish Stations, post Guards or construct Forts, or open roads as may be deemed expedient, and the Meyong Abors will not take umbrage at such arrangements, or have any voice in such matters.

Fourth.—The Meyong Abors recognize all persons residing in the plains in the vicinity of the Meyong hills as British subjects.

Fifth.—The Meyong Abors engage not to molest or to cross the Frontier for the purpose of molesting residents in the British Territory.

Sixth.—The communication across the Frontier will be free both for the Meyong Abors and for any persons, British subjects, going to the Meyong villages for the purpose of trading or other friendly dealings.

Seventh.—The Meyong Abors shall have access to markets and places of trade which they may think fit to resort to, and on such occasions they engage not to come armed with their spears and bows and arrows, but merely to carry their dhaos.

Eighth.—Any Meyong Abors desiring to settle in or occupy lands in the British Territory engage to pay such revenue to Government as may be fixed upon by the Deputy Commissioner; the demand, in the first instance, to be light.

Ninth.—The Meyong Abors engage not to cultivate Opium in the British Territory, or to import it.

Tenth.—In event of any grievance arising on any dispute taking place between the Meyong Abors and the British Territory, the Abors will refrain from taking the Law into their own hands, but they will appeal to the Deputy Commissioner for redress and abide by his decision.

Eleventh.—To enable the Meyong Abors of the eight khels or communities, who submit to this engagement, to keep up a Police for preventing any marauders from resorting to the plains for sinister purposes, and to enable them to take measure for arresting any offenders, the Deputy Commissioner, on behalf of the British Government, agrees that the communities referred to shall receive yearly the following articles:—

100 Iron Hoes, (one hundred.)
30 Maunds of Salt, (thirty.)
80 Bottles of Rum, (eighty.)
2 Seers of Abkaree Opium, (two.)
2 Maunds of Tobacco, (two.)

Twelfth.—The articles referred to above, which will be delivered for the first year on the signing on this engagement, will hereafter be delivered from year to year to the representatives of the eight khels or communities of the Meyong Abors as aforesaid, on their meeting the Deputy Commissioner at Lallee Mookh, or at any other convenient place on the Meyong Dooar side.

Thirteenth.—On the occasion of meeting the Deputy Commissioner the Meyong Abors, in earnest of their continued friendly feeling, engage to make a tribute offering of a Methon, pigs and fowls, in exchange for which they will obtain usual suitable acknowledgments.

Fourteenth.—In event of Meyong Abors infringing or failing to act up to any of the provisions of this engagement it will be considered null and void and will no longer have effect.

Fifteenth.—The original of this engagement, which is drawn up in English, will remain with the Deputy Commissioner of Luckimpore, Upper Assam, and a counterpart or copy will be furnished to the subscribing Meyong Abors.

Seal.

Sixteenth.—In ratification of the above engagement contained in fifteen paragraphs the Deputy Commissioner of Luckimpore, Assam, on behalf of the British Government, puts his Hand and Seal, and the recognized headmen or Chiefs of the eight khels or communities of the Meyong Abors affix their signatures or marks this 5th day of November A. D. 1862.

WHEREAS, with a view to maintain the integrity of the British Territory and to preserve peace and tranquillity in the District of Luckimpore, Upper Assam, in the Frontier bordering on the "Padoo," the "Meyboh," the "Silook," the "Bompen," and the "Bor Abor" hills, it is expedient to adopt certain measures, and whereas that the policy enjoined under a letter from the Officiating Commissioner of Assam, No. 11 of the 11th October, conveying the Orders of the Government of Bengal in a letter No. 265T., dated 8th August 1862, might with advantage be adopted towards the Abor clans aforesaid, pursuant thereto at a meeting between the representatives of the Abor communities named, and the Deputy Commissioner of Luckimpore, Upper Assam, at Camp Dihang Dibang Mookh, on the 8th day of November A. D. 1862, the following engagement was entered into:—

First.—The British Territory, which extends to the foot of the hills, will be respected by the Abors of the communities named in the preamble.

Second.—The Abors hereby recognize all persons residing in the plains to be British subjects.

Third.—The Abors engage to take measures for preventing any parties from amongst their clansmen from molesting residents in the British Territory.

Fourth.—The British Government may take up positions in the Frontier in the plains, may establish Stations, post Guards or construct Forts or open roads, as may be deemed expedient, and the Abors will not take umbrage at such arrangements, or have any voice in such matters.

Fifth.—The communication across the Frontier will be free for the Abors and for residents in the British Territory going to the Abor villages for the purpose of trade or other friendly objects.

Sixth.—The Abors shall have access, as heretofore, to markets and places of trade in the British Territory they may think fit to resort to, but when trading they, the Abors, engage not to come armed with their spear, bows and arrows, but merely to carry their dhaos.

Seventh.—Any Abors settling or occupying lands in the British Territory engage to pay such revenue to Government as may be fixed upon; the demand, in the first instance, to be light.

Eighth.—The Abors engage not to cultivate Opium in the British Territory, or to import it.

Ninth.—In event of the Abors having any grievance, or in case of any dispute arising between them and British subjects, the Abors will refrain from taking the law into their own hands; but they will in all cases appeal to the Deputy Commissioner and abide by his decision.

Tenth.—To enable the Abors of the clans or communities mentioned in the preamble to keep a Police for preventing any marauders from resorting to the plains for sinister purposes, and to enable them to take measures for arresting any offenders, the Deputy Commissioner, on behalf of the British Government, undertakes that the Abor communities referred to shall receive yearly the following articles.—

One hundred Iron Hoes.
Forty maunds of Salt.
One hundred bottles of Rum.
Two maunds of Tobacco.

Eleventh.—The articles referred to above, which will be delivered for the first year on the signing of this engagement, will hereafter be delivered from year to year to the representatives of the communities or clans named in the preamble.

Twelfth.—On the occasion of the yearly meeting of the Deputy Commissioner and the Abors the usual exchange of offerings and presents will take place.

Thirteenth.—In event of the Abors failing to act up to the provisions of this engagement it will be null and void.

Fourteenth.—The original of this engagement, which is drawn up in English, will remain with the Deputy Commissioner of Luckimpore, Upper Assam, and a counterpart or copy will be furnished to the representatives of the Abor communities aforesaid.

Fifteenth.—In ratification of the above engagement contained in fourteen paragraphs the Deputy Commissioner of Luckimpore, Upper Assam, puts his Hand and Seal, and the representatives of the Abor communities affix their marks or signatures this eighth day of November 1862.

From J. Groghegan, Esq., Under Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Officiating Agent to the Governor-General, North-East Frontier,—(dated the 22nd January 1863.)

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your endorsement, No. 37, dated the 31st ultimo, submitting a final Report from Major Bivar of his negociations with the Abors and of the engagements he has concluded with them.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor has already expressed his satisfaction with Major Bivar's proceedings in connection with the agreement entered into with the Meyong Abors, as reported in Major Haughton's letter No. 34, dated the 22nd November last. The further agreement now reported to have been completed with the Dihang Dibang Abors is also approved and confirmed; and I am desired to request that you will convey to Major Bivar His Honor's acknowledgment of the tact and judgment displayed by him and the satisfactory manner in which he appears to have performed this difficult and important duty.

3. The Bill submitted by Major Bivar for Rupees 1,207 on account of expences incurred by him for the settlement of the Abor affairs has been passed and forwarded to the Civil Pay-Master, with instruction to return it to you after audit, the charge being met from the Budget Grant under the head BIV., which is the proper heading, and not H.* as indicated in the Bill.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor concurs with Major Bivar that the charge for the Abor Police subsidy, whether paid in money or in kind, should be treated as a contingent charge of the Political Department, and submitted for audit in a separate Bill, due provision being made for this charge in the Deputy Commissioner's Budget Estimate for future years.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor also approves of the suggestion that the proposed Police posts at Lalle Kopal and Dibang should not be established, but that the post already established at Pobah should be permanently retained, and His Honor accordingly sanctions this measure.

6. Instructions will be issued from the Public Works Department of this Office with a view to the road between Pobah and Dimoh, which was cleared last season, being kept up and regularly repaired.

7. This successful termination of the Abor difficulty is no doubt a matter for congratulation, and the Lieutenant-Governor joins with Major Bivar in expressing a hope that the result of the measures now adopted will be the permanent restoration of peace on this Frontier.

Roads in the Rajshahye District.

From Captain W. S. Trevor, R. E., Officiating Superintending Engineer, Northern Circle, to the Officiating Chief Engineer, Bengal,—(No. 804, dated the 31st December 1862.)

Sir,—I have the honor to report, for your information, that I have, in compliance with recent orders, just inspected the Nulhattee and Jeagunge, and Bugwangolah and Berhampoor, Roads, the latter comprising the Amiparah and Pheelkhana improvements. I accompanied Mr. Scott, the Commissioner of Rajshahye, along the first of these roads to give him such information as he needed with reference to the report required from him in Government of Bengal's No. 4759 of 13th October 1862. My own remarks on the condition and requirements of these roads are as follows:—

1st. Road from Nulhattee to Jeagunge.

2. This road is in good order throughout, and all the metal to the width of twelve feet is laid and consolidated, with the exception of about three miles, where it is still stacked on the sidings. Orders have been issued by me to the Executive Engineer to spread this metal encentrically to a width of seven feet only and of half the usual thickness. This is done to accommodate the Engineers of the Light Railway Company, to whom the road is about to be made over almost immediately. Metal sufficient for the remaining half thickness will be left in the stacks and made over to the Company with the road. A considerable saving will, I trust, be effected by thus reducing the width of metalling, as doubtless the Railway Company will be glad to buy for ballast all such surplus materials as may be left on our hands after laying down the seven feet width.

3. After a careful examination of the site of the breach in the first mile of the road, and an enquiry into the causes which produced it, I have come to the conclusion that an Iron Girder Bridge of nine openings, of eleven feet each in the clear, will be best adapted for the locality. I have accordingly directed the Executive Engineer to prepare a design for a bridge of the above capacity, giving the piers a thickness at top of two feet six inches, and the abutments of three feet. The foundations to rest on inverted arches and to have the down-stream channel well secured against pooling by a brick-work flooring. I have moreover directed the immediate preparation of about five lacks of bricks for this bridge. The cost of the masonry of the bridge, roughly estimated, will not much exceed Rupees 5,000, and I believe from fifty-four to seventy-two of the thirteen feet iron girders in store in Calcutta will be required for the platform, but as I have not yet seen these girders, I cannot speak with sufficient certainty. The bridge to have a roadway of sixteen feet clear width.

4. The next work which engaged my attention was the Gumbhera Bridge. The best and apparently most economical plan to adopt in building a permanent bridge on the present alignment of the road is, I think, to give up the existing channel and to build on the dry land, subsequently diverting the stream through the bridge by a new cut. The lowest part of the valley which is drained by this Nullah is about 200 feet to the west of the present crossing, I have therefore chosen it as the site of our new bridge. This is designed to be of nine spans of twenty-two feet clear opening each, with a platform sixteen feet wide, supported on iron girders, twenty-four feet long, at eight girders per bay. The cost of the masonry part of this bridge will be about Rupees 11,000 and that of the earth-work of the cutting about Rupees 2,000: an additional expenditure of Rupees 2,000 may be set down for embanking across the bed of the Nullah and for temporary works to accommodate the Railway traffic, pending the completion of the permanent bridge. Altogether a sum of Rupees 1,500. As in the last I make no mention of the cost of girders and platform, and for the same reason—

5. Arrangements for the manufacture of ten lacks of bricks are in progress at this place, and the Executive Engineer has been directed to lose no time in commencing the excavations for the new channel and for the bridge itself.

6. The waterway given in the design for this bridge corresponds to that which was formed by the last inundation at the opening left near the old bed.

7. As both these bridges are in the immediate neighbourhood of localities selected for Stations on the Railway, any excess of materials manufactured on their account under the orders now reported will be gladly taken over by the Railway Company at cost price.

8. In the 15th mile I am informed that the heavy flood of last rains topped the road, though without breaching it. On examination of the locality I am convinced there is a deficiency of waterway, and I would recommend an additional bridge being built to relieve the pressure on those already provided. There are a bridge of three spans of sixteen feet and two culverts, the discharge through all of which is said to have been extremely violent with a considerable accumulation of water on their up-stream sides. No orders have been as yet given by me to proceed with this work; but should you concur in my views of the practical economy if not engineering necessity of providing additional vents for floods wherever these are shewn to be in excess of the provision made for their escape, I would recommend a Girder Bridge of five spans of eleven feet each being built as soon as practicable.

9. There is nothing further to remark on till we get to the extension through the Jeagunge Bazar on the east of the Bhaugirutty River.

2nd. Jeagunge Bazaar Extension.

10. I have carefully examined the ground which the improved line proposed by the Executive Engineer would traverse. With some slight alterations in the alignment by which several deep tanks and ditches will be avoided I have approved of it, and I think no better or cheaper line can be found. The extension begins on the river bank immediately opposite the terminal point of the road on the west or Azimgunge side, and, after running perpendicularly to the river for about a 150 yards without intruding on any pucca houses, changes direction by a double or single curve, and finally, makes a neat junction with the road to Bugwangolah close to the Pheelkhanna Road branch. The curves above mentioned have radii of not less than 1,000 feet. The width of the road in this improved extension will be limited to sixteen feet, agreeably to orders communicated in No. 5629 of the 29th November last. Only one culvert of ten feet opening will be required.

3rd. Jeagunge and Bugwangolah Road.

11. The earth-work, levels, and alignment of the road to Bugwangolah are undergoing thorough revision, and preparations for burning ballast are in progress

12 Until the Plan and Section of the revised line are ready, it is impossible to say what the cost of the earth-work will be. Very few deviations from the existing line appear to be necessary, though a considerable amount of embanking will be required, as the old roadway from long neglect has generally worn into hollows, below the ordinary level of the country, which to all appearance is deeply inundated in the rains.

13 The Gobra Nullah is the only considerable stream to be crossed. A fine old bridge already exists, which, I am of opinion, can be easily and economically brought into use for our road.

14. It appears that about the close of the last or the beginning of this century a new cut was made on the south side of the Nullah with the intention of diverting the stream, and the bridge above alluded to was built over this cut The Nullah itself, as far as I can learn, was however never closed, at all events there are, at this date, no traces of a bund across it. The stream therefore continues in its old channel though the new one is the most direct, and the bridge is at present quite thrown away. The accompanying sketch illustrates the position of the bridge and my proposal for utilizing it.

15. The bridge has a single semi-circular arch of fifty feet span, with a depth from the springing to the bottom of the Nullah of about ten feet. Circular flood escapes also exist in the spandrill faces. A very old man, resident in the neighbourhood, informed me that he remembered the bridge being built when he was about ten or twelve years of age, and that the foundations were carried to a great depth on wells. I have directed a close examination of the brick-work to be made, and also levels to be taken along the cut, with a view to the removal of any obstructions, &c, which may have formed since its excavation. As far as I could see the bridge itself is quite perfect.

16. Hearing that the remains of another old bridge existed about two miles up the Nullah I proceeded to examine it also, and found that nearly half had been carried away The remainder is still standing. It seems to have originally consisted of seven arches, of which the central and largest has a span of about twenty feet. The arches all spring from one level, apparently the highest flood level, and the aggregate areas of the openings up to this level must have been about 400 feet with a wetted perimeter of 133 feet, giving a mean hydraulic depth of three feet.

17 On the other hand the single arched bridge gives an open area below the springing of the arch of 500 square feet, but a wetted perimeter of only seventy feet It follows therefore that, cæteris paribus, the discharge capacities of the two bridges would be as $4 \times \sqrt{3}$ to $5\sqrt{7}$ or 4 to 7·5 very nearly. I have not included the large additional area of the semi-circular arch in the above, though from the low springing level of the arch the floods must rise about half way up to the crown. The sections, &c, ordered to be taken will very shortly furnish us with full particulars for determining the adequacy of the waterway of this bridge

18 About a mile beyond the Gobra Nullah the road crosses a low swampy piece of ground of some width, which evidently becomes a watercourse in the rains. Two six feet culverts were built here last year and are now standing There is, however, little or no embankment to restrain the floods, and the water flows freely over the road for a considerable distance either way. It was only just getting dry enough to be passable when I saw it; but at times during the rains I am informed, the road here becomes impassable even for elephants.

19 I propose building two Girder Bridges here of twelve and nine spans respectively, and of the same general description as the one near Nulhattee These will cost together about Rupees 12,000 irrespective of the girders and platform.

20. With the exception of about half-a-dozen small culverts which may be put down in the aggregate as likely to cost Rupees 2,000 no other bridging appears to be needed on this part of the line.

4TH PHEELKHANA AND AMIPARAH ROAD

21. The re-alignment of the Pheelkhanna and Amiparah Road ordered in the Government of Bengal's No. 5723 of 4th instant has also been accomplished. With a few trifling alterations, which I have directed to be made on economical grounds, the improved line marked out by the Executive Engineer may be accepted as suitable in every respect.

22. Complete projects for all the works touched upon in this Report will shortly be submitted

23 If an Assistant Engineer of some experience in road-making could be attached to the Division to take charge of the road from Jeagunge to Bugwangolah in lieu of the Assistant Supervisor, who is not altogether fitted for a charge of such importance, the work would no doubt be materially expedited, and we might reasonably expect to be in a position to make over this road to the Railway Company at the close of the current working season.

24. Probationary Assistant Overseer Bany Kanto Deb is in charge of the Amiparah and Pheelkhanna Road improvements, and is giving great satisfaction from his manner of carrying on the work. This Subordinate lately applied to be examined for promotion to the grade of Assistant Engineer, and also to be appointed, permanently, to the Department, having served the prescribed period of probation. The latter application was not complied with, failing a recommendation from the Superintending Engineer I beg now to supply the omission having personally satisfied myself of his fitness

25. Mr. Assistant Engineer Black will be fully employed for the next two months in completing the projects for, and laying out the bridges on the Nulhattee Road of which he has charge, or I should have directed his immediate transfer to the other line.

From LIEUTENANT-COLONEL J. P BEADLE, Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Public Works Department, to the Officiating Superintending Engineer of the Northern Circle,—(No. 704, dated the 27th January 1863).

From Nulhatee to Jeagunge
Jeagunge Bazaar Extension
From Jugunge to Bugwangolah and Pheelkhannah and Amipara

Your Inspection Report No. 804, dated the 31st ultimo, on the roads named on the margin, has been placed before the Lieutenant-Governor.

2 Nulhatee and Jeagunge Road.—It is understood that Mr. Wilson, the Agent of the Indian Branch Railway Company, has recently examined the Nulhatee and Jeagunge Road in your Company, and that he is satisfied with your proposed arrangements for completing this road, which had previously been discussed in this Office.

These are to construct an Iron Girder Bridge in the breach at the first mile from Nulhatee, nine opes of eleven feet.

A similar Girder Bridge of five opes in the 15th mile, where the waters just topped the road.

A Bridge over the Gumbhera Nulla, nine opes of twenty-two feet clear each. All the Girders for these Bridges to be supplied from the stock at the Presidency.

Your orders respecting metalling are approved.

3. Jeagunge Extension.—Your remarks on this line have been noted, no orders appear to be required.

4. Jeagunge and Bugwangolah Road.—Your proceedings and recommendations with respect to the Jeagunge and Bugwangolah Road meet with the Lieutenant-Governor's approval.

As this road is to be made sixteen feet wide at top, which width is accepted as amply sufficient for the purposes of the Light Railway Company, the expenditure on earth-work will not be excessive, although the road must be formed to a considerable height.

The existing Bridge over the Gobra Nullah is a favorable incident; the proposal, in your 19th paragraph, to put in two Girder Bridges, of twelve and nine opes of eleven feet each, is approved, and it is noted that about six small culverts will complete the necessary waterway for this road.

5. The re-alignment of the Pheelkhannah and Amipara Road appears to have been carried out satisfactorily.

6. Your remarks respecting the Establishment required have received attention.* Probationary Assistant Overseer Bany Kanto Deb has been permanently appointed, and Mr. Assistant Engineer Vernon was transferred to your Circle, Gazette Orders No. 18, dated the 16th instant, for employment on the Jeagunge and Bugwangolah Road.

* Notification No. 7, dated the 10th January 1863. Vide Calcutta Gazette of the 14th idem, page No. 83.

7. I am instructed by the Lieutenant-Governor to convey to you his thanks for your clear Report under acknowledgment, and to add that he trusts the Executive Engineer will be able to complete these roads promptly and in a workmanlike manner.

On the importation into, or exportation from, any Port in British India of any goods not liable to Duty, or liable to fixed Duties according to weight or quantity only, or to Duties on fixed Tariff valuations, the owner, consignee, importer, exporter, or agent of such goods shall, in his bill of entry or shipping bill, truly declare their real value to the best of his knowledge and belief. And it shall thereupon be the duty of such person to produce any such document or to furnish any such information so required by such Officer.

Undervalued goods how to be dealt with.

XXVII. If, upon the examination of any goods entered for Duty and chargeable with Duty upon the value thereof, but for

In every such case the detaining Officer shall forthwith give notice in writing, to the person entering the goods, of their detention and of the value thereof as estimated by him; and the Officer in charge of the Custom House shall, within two clear working days after such detention, or within such reasonable period as may with the consent of the parties be arranged, determine either to deliver such goods on the entry of such person, or to retain the same for the use of Government. If the goods be retained for the use of Government, the Officer in charge of the Custom House shall cause the full value at which such goods were entered to be paid to the person entering the same, in full satisfaction for such goods, in the same manner as if such goods had been transferred by ordinary sale, and shall then cause the goods to be sold by public auction after due notice in the Official Gazette. If the proceeds arising from such sale shall exceed the sum paid to the person entering the goods, together with the Duty to which the goods are liable, and all charges incurred by Government in connection with them, a portion not exceeding one-half of the overplus shall, at the discretion of the Chief Officer of Customs of the Port, be payable to the Officer who detected the undervaluation of the goods. Nothing in this Section shall prevent the Chief Officer of Customs of the Port, when he shall have reason to believe that any such undervaluation was solely the result of accident, from permitting the person entering the goods, on his application for that purpose, to amend such entry, as regards valuation, on payment of such increased rate of Duties, or on such other terms as he may determine. When goods are retained under this Section on account of Government, the Duties payable thereon shall in no case be levied from the person entering such goods.

Goods brought to be passed through the Custom House for importation or exportation, to correspond in all particulars with description given of them in the application to pass.

XXXI. If goods produced or manufactured in British India be imported into any Port in British India from any Foreign Port or place, such goods shall be treated as Foreign goods, and shall be liable to all the Duties, conditions, and restrictions to which Foreign goods of the like kind and value are liable on the first importation thereof.

No. 1029.

Fort William, the 13th February 1863.

Notification.—The following letter from the Colonial Secretary, Colombo, and the Ordinance therewith received, are published for general information :—

COLONIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE;
Colombo, 17th January 1863.

No. 1.

THE SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT,
Fort William.

No. 17 of 1862. SIR,—I AM directed to transmit to you, for the information of the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council, an Ordinance passed by the Legislative Council of this Colony, "To ascertain the proportion of mortality amongst the Natives of India employed in agricultural and other labor in Ceylon."

2. This Ordinance was passed in order to remove a misapprehension which existed in some quarters as to the extent of the mortality amongst the Coolies coming into this Island. There has always been a great disproportion between the number of those arriving here and of those leaving the Island, and the difference has been ascribed, erroneously it is believed, to deaths amongst the Coolies; whereas there are good grounds for supposing that a large number of Immigrants have not returned to India, but have settled in Ceylon with their families. As it was desirable that this erroneous impression as to the cause of the discrepancy between arrivals and departures should be removed, this Ordinance has been enacted by the Governor and Legislative Council.

I have, &c.,
(Sd.) W. C. GIBSON.

Ordinance enacted by the Governor of Ceylon with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof.

No. 17.—1862.

CHARLES JUSTIN MACCARTHY.

An Ordinance to ascertain the proportion of mortality amongst the Natives of India employed in agricultural and other labor in Ceylon.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to ascertain the proportionate amount of deaths occurring amongst the Natives of India employed in agricultural or other than domestic labor in Ceylon:

It is therefore enacted by the Governor of Ceylon, by and with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof, as follows:—

Interpretation.

1. In construing this Ordinance the word "Employer" shall be taken to mean any person actually employing Indian Coolies and possessing the chief supervision and disposal of their services and labor. The words "Indian Coolie" shall be taken to mean any Indian Native, male or female, employed in agricultural or other than domestic labor.

Employers to make Returns.

2. Every employer of Indian Coolies shall, on the 31st day of March, on the 30th day of June, on the 30th day of September, and on the 31st day of December of each year make a Return to the Government Agent of the Province in which he employs such Coolies, or to some other Officer appointed by the Governor for that purpose, of the following particulars, that is to say,—

The number of male Indian adults, the number of female Indian adults, and the number of Indian children then in his employ or on the property in his charge.

The number of male Indian adults, the number of female Indian adults, the number of Indian children who shall have died in his employment, or on the property in his charge during the three months ending on the days aforesaid.

The name, sex, age, ascertained or supposed, of each person so deceased, the name of his village, and the probable cause of death.

Provided that, if any of the aforesaid days should be a Sunday or public holiday, the said Return shall be made on the next following day, not being a public holiday. And every such Return shall be, as near as is material, in the Form in the Schedule to this Ordinance annexed.

Power to examine Employers, &c.

3. The said Government Agent or such other Officer as aforesaid may, when, and as often as he shall deem it necessary, for the purpose of testing any Return, summon and call before him such persons as he shall think fit and examine them touching matters concerning and connected with the truth and correctness of any Return, and call for such documents and other evidence as he may deem necessary for the purpose aforesaid.

Penalties on persons not making Returns, producing papers, or answering.

4. Any person refusing or neglecting to appear before the Government Agent or such other Public Officer as aforesaid when summoned, or refusing or neglecting to make any Return by this Ordinance required to be made in the terms and within the periods herein specified, or refusing or neglecting to produce before the Government Agent or such other Officer as aforesaid any such documents and other evidence as he shall have been lawfully required to produce, or refusing to answer any question lawfully put to him by the Government Agent or such other Officer as aforesaid, shall, for every such refusal or act of neglect, be guilty of an offence, and on conviction thereof be liable to a fine not exceeding five pounds.

Penalty for making a false Return.

5. Any person negligently or wilfully and knowingly making any incorrect Return shall be guilty of an offence, and on conviction thereof shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds, and to imprisonment, with or without hard labor, for any period not exceeding three months.

Persons answering falsely guilty of perjury.

6. Any person willfully and knowingly giving any false answer to any question lawfully put to him by the said Government Agent or such other Officer as aforesaid shall be guilty of wilful and corrupt perjury.

Returns may be corrected.

7. Whenever the Government Agent, or such other Officer as aforesaid, shall test the truth of any such Return by the documents and examinations aforesaid, it shall be lawful for him to correct such Return.

Returns to be sent to Colonial Secretary.

8. The Government Agent, or such other Officer as aforesaid, shall forward all Returns when examined by him, or if the same be incorrect, when corrected by him, with a note thereon signed by him, notifying that the same have been examined, or examined and corrected by him, to the Colonial Secretary, who shall, so soon as convenient, publish or cause to be published in the Government Gazette a General Abstract of the Returns sent in for any one quarter in such form as the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, shall from time to time require. And an Annual General Abstract of all such Returns for each year shall be laid before the Legislative Council.

General Abstracts to be published.

Government of India.

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament 24 and 25 Vic., Cap. 67.

The Council met at Government House on Wednesday, the 11th February 1863.

Present:

Major-General the Hon'ble Sir R. Napier, K. C. B., presiding.

The Hon'ble H. B. Harington.

The Hon'ble H. Sumner Maine.

The Hon'ble Rajah Deo Narain Singh Bahadoor.

The Hon'ble Rajah Dinkar Rao Rugonauth Moontazim Bahadoor.

The Hon'ble R. S. Ellis, C. B.

The Hon'ble A. A. Roberts, C. B.

Partition of Estates Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Partition of Estates paying Revenue to Government.

Mahoba and Jeitpore Bill.

Also the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to bring the Pergunnahs of Mahoba and Jeitpore, in the District of Humeerpore, under the operation of the General Regulations.

Straits Municipal Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to authorize the extension of the term of office of the Municipal Commissioners in the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca.

High Court (Bombay) Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine moved for leave to introduce a Bill to empower Judges of the High Court, and other Authorities at Bombay, to direct Convicts to be imprisoned either in the House of Correction or in the Common Jail. He said that the object of the Bill was described with sufficient accuracy in the Title. It was a Bill to empower the Judges of the High Court, the Justices of the Peace, and Town Magistrates at Bombay, to direct the Common Jail to be the place of imprisonment for certain classes of convicts, as well as the House of Correction, which appeared to be inconveniently crowded. The Bill, it was necessary to state, had been originally introduced into the Council of the Governor of Bombay, and, after being passed, had received the assent of His Excellency the Governor. It was found, however, to be open to the objection that it amended certain provisions of an Act passed last year by the Council of the Governor-General, and known as Act XVIII. of 1862, by which Act the House of Correction was solely appointed to be the place of imprisonment under the circumstances contemplated. Indeed he (Mr. Maine) perceived that the Bill, in the form in which it had first been brought into the Bombay Council, was denominated, with perfect correctness, "a Bill to amend Act XVIII. of 1862," and the nature of the measure was clearly indicated in the last Clause, which was to the effect that nothing in Act XVIII. should be construed to interfere with the provisions of the Bill. The Select Committee of the Bombay Council had altered the Title and struck out the last Clause; but of course the mere omission of the express reference to Act XVIII of 1862 did not render the Bill in any less degree an attempt to amend the Imperial enactment. Now the Indian Councils' Act had empowered the Councils of the Presidencies for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations to amend or repeal any Law or Regulation made by Imperial authority in India previously to the passing of the Councils' Act, and had therefore, by direct implication, forbidden those Councils to amend any Imperial Law or Regulation passed in India subsequently to that epoch. Indeed, the very existence of such a power would be inconsistent with the whole scheme of distributed legislation which the Indian Councils' Act had established. His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General had therefore been under the necessity of withholding his assent from the Bill. At the same time it seemed to be most desirable that its object should be carried out, and accordingly he (Mr. Maine) proposed to introduce the Bill with merely verbal changes into the Governor-General's Council. As its policy seemed to have been thoroughly discussed at Bombay, he should, unless any Member objected, request the President to suspend the Standing Orders at the next sitting, in order that the Bill might be at once passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

Confinement of Prisoners Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill for the amendment of the law relating to the confinement of Prisoners convicted of offences in Native States be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington then applied to the President for the suspension of Rule 26 of the Rules for the Conduct of Business, and, on the suspension of the Rule, said that the High Court had an ordinary original Criminal Jurisdiction extending beyond the local limits of its ordinary original Civil Jurisdiction, and, as the proviso to Section II. was intended to extend only to Jails and House of Corrections within the local limits of the ordinary or original Civil Jurisdiction of such Court, he would move that the word "Civil" be substituted for the word "Criminal."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington also moved that the Bill be passed as amended.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

Peons Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington said that as there were errors in the copies which had been circulated among the Members of the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the employment and remuneration of Peons for the service and execution of Civil Process in the Courts of the North-Western Provinces of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, he would, with the permission of the President, postpone his Motion for the passing of the Bill until next week.

Civil Procedure Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington also moved that the Bill be passed with the amendment recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

Administration of Civil Justice (Darjeeling) Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to improve the administration of Justice in the District of Darjeeling be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

He also applied to the President to suspend Rule 26 of the Rules for the Conduct of Business, and, on the suspension of the Rule, said that there were a few verbal amendments that appeared to be required in the Bill, and he moved that the Bill be therefore amended as follows:—

Section I., line 7, the omission of the word "other," and line 9, the substitution of the words "Judge of any such Court as aforesaid" for the words "such Judge as the case may be."

Section II., line 6, the substitution of the words "Judge of any Court constituted as aforesaid" for the words "such Judge as aforesaid as the case may be;" and in line 9, the omission of the word "such."

Section III., line 1, the substitution of the words "Judge as aforesaid" for the words "such Judge as the case may be."

Section VII., line 7, the substitution of the words "Judge as aforesaid" for the words "such Judge as the case may be"; in the same line, the substitution of the word "aforesaid" for the words "as the case may be."

The Motion for the adoption of the amendments was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Maine also moved that the Bill be passed as amended.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned.

Report on the voyage of the Ship "Alnwick Castle" with Indian Emigrants to Trinidad.

From Captain C. Eales, Protector of Emigrants at the Port of Calcutta, to S. C. Bayley, Esq., Officiating Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 1, dated the 2nd January 1863.)

Sir,—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a Despatch from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, dated 1st May 1862, forwarding a Report from Dr. Pearse, with other enclosures, relating to the voyage of the Ship Alnwick Castle with Indian Emigrants from this Port to Trinidad.

The Medical Inspector of Emigrants and myself having given the suggestions of Dr. Pearse the most careful consideration, are of opinion that it is scarcely necessary to report upon the different questions in detail, as the views therein expressed do not appear to be so much opposed to the generally accepted sentiments on the subject as the Emigration Commissioners seem to think, the majority of the proposed alterations having been already adopted under the recent recommendations of the Emigration Committee.

The amount of ventilation now invariably provided in Emigrant Ships has been proved by experience to be amply sufficient for all purposes, and is capable of being easily and efficiently controlled. The degree of regulation must necessarily depend upon the circumstances of each individual voyage, and must per force be left to the judgment of the Medical Officer in charge; while the necessity of having the lower deck kept thoroughly clear for a certain period daily must be acknowledged. There can be no question that Dr. Pearse's opinion, that to keep a person by force exposed on the upper deck who is manifestly suffering from the low temperature, must be injurious.

Throughout Dr. Pearse's Report there seems to be the clearest evidence that the successful issue of the voyage of the Alnwick Castle is primarily owing to the great care and judgment displayed in selecting the Coolies in Calcutta, to a judicious use on the voyage of the means and appliances he had actually at his command, as well as to the unceasing personal supervision exercised by him over the minutest details connected with his charge, and finally, in regulating the ventilation and temperature of the lower deck generally, so as to protect the Emigrants from the injurious effects of chilly draughts and dampness. The adoption of these wise and salutary measures have been followed by the most favorable results, affording in themselves the strongest evidence in support of employing men of Dr. Pearse's experience in preference to all others possessing less energy of character and discernment.

Adverting to Dr. Pearse's personal allusions to myself in connection with the fitments and provisionery of the Alnwick Castle, I beg to annex herewith an explanation from him on the subject, and have only to state in conslusion, with respect to the supply of dried milk, that he was applied to solely on the ground of there having been at the time but a very limited supply of this article available in the market for the use of other Emigrant Ships then under Charter.

The means of protecting the hatchways by hooby hatches, as described by Dr Pearse, is, now invariably adopted in every Emigrant Ship sailing from this Port to the entire exclusion of the old tarpaulin method.

From W. H. Pearse, Esq, M. D., Government Emigration Service, to Captain C. Eales, Protector of Emigrants at the Port of Calcutta,—(dated the 30th December 1862.)

Sir,—I have the honor to ask your attention to a remark in my Report of the Ship Alnwick Castle, dated Trinidad, January 15th 1862.

After stating some omissions in the supplies proper to have been put on board, and alluding to my having failed to obtain them in Calcutta, the Report goes on to say—"The influence of the Authorities at Banks' Hall should rather be to enforce the full supply."

I beg you to accept my expressions of regret at that remark, because, however true it might be that omissions occurred, I was not at liberty to suppose and state that the influence of any one was other than doing his utmost to secure for the Coolies the full supplies of the Charter Party. I was not then aware of the difficulties which prevented the fulfilment of the Charter Party, and that the states of the market might be such as to make it impossible for you to obtain in Calcutta that which was due. Permit me to add, as some explanation of that remark, that it was written at the time I had very much needed the articles in question. I have since been informed that the steam pipes to which I referred were not at that time under your supervision; and remember that the fittings of the hatch-houses, steam pipes, &c., were arranged by a gentleman from Banks' Hall. I regret that these details over which your Office in its transition stage had not the supervision should have been held responsible for arrangement over which it had no control.

Government of Bombay.

Roads to Railway Stations.

Resolution passed on a Minute by His Excellency the Governor, concurred in by the Hon'ble Board,—(dated the 16th October 1862.)

The special attention of the Consulting Engineer for Railways should be drawn to the obligation of the Railway Companies to provide Roads from their Stations to the neighbouring town or made Road, and each Deputy Consulting Engineer should be called on for a Special Report on the extent to which these works have been carried out, and as to what further is still required for their completion.

2. This Report should be the result of a personal inspection of the Roads at each Station, either in company with, or after communication with, the Collector or his Assistant in charge of the District, and the Executive Engineer.

3. The Report should not be confined to what the Railway Company can be required to do. It should shew what is needed to connect the Railway Station with the nearest town or village, and also with the nearest line of local traffic, whether made or unmade, and what authority, whether Railway, Public Works, or local Revenue Officers, should be held resposible for making and maintaining in order the means of such connection. At present, above the Ghats, there is rarely any visible Road to any Station, and where, as at Patus, a Road exists, it appears to be due to the volunteer exertions and zeal of the Assistant Collector.

4. Except at Poonah, there is not a single Road at any Station between Tannah and Sholapoor which is not a discredit and blemish to the great work with which it ought to communicate. This state of things cannot but be most unsatisfactory to all parties, whether responsible for the defect or not, and Government feel sure that they may rely on all concerned in co-operating cordially to ensure a better state of things in future.

5. The Deputy Consulting Engineer should forward his Report to the Collector, who should countersign it if he agrees in all his remarks and suggestions, adding any further observations of his own should he have any to offer, and transmitting it to the Revenue Commissioner of his Division for submission to Government, with any comments which he, the Revenue Commissioner, may think necessary.

6. Opportunity should be taken by the Officers named in paragraph 2 while visiting the several Railway Stations to ascertain,—

1*st*.—What has been done for the convenience of travellers beyond conveying them along the Railway?

2*nd*.—What has been done for the accommodation of traffic?

3*rd*.—What remains to be done in both respects?

4*th*.—By whom it should be done?

7. As regards these points the following observations occur to Government:—

I.—The passengers' waiting rooms are not always suitable or sufficient; a lady's room is rarely provided, but there ought to be one, clean and exclusive, however small, at every Station.

In this climate, and with our low rates of speed, such a room will be needed frequently, especially by invalids, in passing Stations, and will not, as in Europe, be generally occupied only by persons waiting for a train.

One room will suffice at the smaller Stations for both 1st and 2nd class passengers, but there should always be at least one lady's room, to which any respectable female who may require it can retire without, as is now generally the case, requiring gentlemen to vacate the only sitting room in the Station, some times, when the gentleman is an invalid, to his very serious inconvenience.

Much more attention should be paid to cleanliness in the Stations, especially in the waiting rooms and conveniences.

At many Stations the resort of European and respectable Native travellers is sufficient to maintain a Travellers' Bungalow: where this is the case, it should be provided by the Public Works Department, after communication with the Railway Authorities, and in close proximity to the Station. It should be properly furnished, like other Travellers' Bungalows, and either let to a Messman, or furnished with a servant who can provide what travellers want under the usual rules: at places where there is much European passenger traffic and at intervals along the lines which are too long to be traversed in a day by ordinary travellers, something more than this will be required. The Report now called for should embrace suggestions for promoting the opening of good and commodious Hotels at such places in close proximity to the Railway Stations.

There is rarely any special accommodation for Native travellers. Such as cannot find shelter under a goods shed, or in a verandah, have to seek it in the nearest town or village. This is a serous inconvenience to travellers coming to the rail from a distance when, as often happens, there are no good houses or lodgings near the Station, and the defect must greatly interfere with the use of the Railway by Native passengers for short distances.

This defect should be supplied by building a good Durumsala or Serai, fairly proportioned to the traffic at each Station, and always furnished with one or more private rooms suitable to any Native family of respectability which may require it and prefer it to the accommodation in the Travellers' Bungalow.

The supply of water should also be looked to. It is often deficient or distant, or appropriated by the Railway: a good well, with trees for the shelter of men and cattle in hot weather, and decent necessaries for the Native passengers, with separate accommodation for men and women, should always be provided as an adjunct to the Serai.

II.—The Goods Sheds at Stations seem rarely sufficient. They must of necessity be in the Station on the Railway premises, and the Railway should provide them, but standing places for carts and cattle should be provided outside the Station, metalled, to prevent mud or dust accumulating, and furnished with drinking troughs for cattle; hay and straw and firewood yards detached, so as to obviate danger from fire; a range of stalls which can be let out to Banyans, who will sell grain and supplies together with other necessary conveniences likely to be needed where there is a concourse of Native carriers and traders.

Where there is likely to be much traffic, or where a considerable population is likely to settle at or near the Station, due provision should be made for it in time by taking ground required for roads and streets, and laying them out under suitable regulations as to the style, character, and materials of the buildings to be erected, and as regards drainage, ventilation, and other sanitary arrangements.

If the present powers of the Collector and Magistrate, and the provisions of the Municipal Acts, are not sufficient for this purpose, further powers should be applied for, but the existing powers are probably amply sufficient if duly exercised without resort to legislation.

Provision must also be made for Police arrangements outside the Railway Stations.

It may sometimes be possible to move a Thanna to the Railway Station, but it will be more often desirable to appoint a fresh Officer, or to give increased powers, and sometimes increased pay and establishment, to an Officer on the spot.

Where the Foujdar, Patell, and other local Officer is capable of doing all that is required, there are many advantages in the last mentioned plan; but, except at the smallest Stations, the eixsting arrangements seem rarely sufficient for existing exigencies.

III. and IV.—The Report should be full and precise on each of the above heads as regards each Station. It should embrace all that at present seems likely to be required for some years to come. It should state the order in which the works should be undertaken and by what Department, which will often vary at different Stations.

But in every case all authorities concerned, Railway, Public Works Department, Revenue, Police, and Judicial, should be consulted, as well as any trading communities whose interests are involved, if any such are on or near the spot; and the exact portion of the work for which each Department is to be held responsible should be clearly shewn.

8. Copies of this Resolution should be sent for the information of the Revenue Commissioners, and for communication to the Collectors on the line of Railway, and also to the Superintending Engineer.

Government of Bombay.

New Town at Konay.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of Bombay, in the Revenue Department, dated 27th October 1862.

READ the following letters:—

Letter from MR. W. HART, Revenue Commissioner, S. D., to the Acting Chief Secretary to Government,—(dated 9th October 1862, No. 2525.)

I HAVE the honor to report that, on receipt of the Government Order No. 2909, dated 28th July 1862, I forwarded a copy of it to the Acting Collector of North Canara for his guidance.

2. In reply Mr. Goldfinch forwarded to me a copy of a letter to him No. 1252, dated 5th August, from Captain Baker, the Executive Engineer, from which the following is an extract, paragraph 2:—

"2. I shall have much pleasure in lining out a new Town at Konay, but before I can decide what amount of ground is to be taken up I must know whether Beitkul (i. e., Konay) is to be the Head-Quarter Station of this District or not. If it is, a large amount of space must be secured for a Cutcherry and Treasury, Adawlut, Moonsiff's Court, Jail, Hospital, Barracks, Police Lines, Executive Engineer's Office, Church, Forest Conservator's Office, Post and Telegraph Offices, and other Government buildings. If it is not the Head-Quarters, many of these buildings will not be required, and those that are required will probably be smaller and require less ground. The Town and Bazar will also cover more ground if this is to be Head-Quarters than if the greater number of Government Officers reside elsewhere."

3. In sending me this letter Mr. Goldfinch* begged for the early decision of Government, "as it is very desirable that no time should be lost in defining the limits of the land to be taken up for the new Town at Konay."

* No. 845, dated 6th August 1862.

4. I replied as follows (No. 1988, dated 15th August 1862) to the Acting Collector:—

"I have the honor to remind you that Government have already stated in their Resolution No. 1970,† dated 19th May 1862, paragraph 2, that they will not decide where the Head-Quarters of North Canara should be until they have received from you a Report to be furnished by you after you have had a twelve months experience of the country; and to inform you that, as Government cannot at once decide as to what Establishments they will retain at the Port of Beitkul, and as there is no doubt that, whatever Public Offices are established there, the greater part of them will be situated either close to Beitkul Cove, or between Beitkul and Konay, and not in the limits of the Town to be laid out at the latter place, I shall feel obliged if you will, after consulting the Public Works Department, state your opinion as to whether it would not be sufficient for Government to obtain for all purposes at Konay an extent of from 150 to 200 acres, of which about thirty might be retained so as to be available for Government purposes, and the rest laid out in building lots."

† Copy sent to you with my endorsement No. 1703 of 22nd idem.

5. I have now the honor to submit appended to this letter Mr. Goldfinch's reply‡ with its accompaniment, and also a Memorandum§ of three days later date, forwarding a correspondence between the Acting Collector and Messrs. Nicol and Co.'s Agent, Mr. Maxwell, respecting which I have (No. 2519, dated 8th October 1862) written to Mr. Goldfinch as follows:—

‡ No. 909, dated 23rd September 1862.

§ No. 1008, dated 26th September 1862.

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 999, dated 23rd September 1862, forwarding Captain Baker's proposals for the arrangement of a new Town at Konay, and also the correspondence forwarded with your endorsement No. 1008, dated 26th idem.

"2. You will, I presume, have duly received the message telegraphed by me from the Deeksal Railway Station on receipt of the latter, in which I requested you to assure Messrs. Nicol and Co. and Messrs Brice and Co. that no portion of their land at Konay will be taken by Government unless required for roads or other purely public purposes.

"3. It does not appear that, in preparing his Plan of a Town at Konay, Captain Baker was acting with the cognizance of the Superintending Engineer of the Southern Circle, without whose professional opinion Government would, of course, be unwilling to come to any decision on the matter.

"4. Government would also desire that, before being called on to decide on particulars, the representatives of the several Mercantile Firms who have been the foremost in shewing their appreciation of the Port of Beitkul by obtaining land for bonâ fide mercantile premises should be consulted, and have an opportunity of stating their opinions on the proposed arrangement of the site of the new Town.

"5. I know that Government would also be most reluctant to deprive any of the Firms to whom I allude of land purchased by them for the legitimate purposes of their business unless forced to do so for the sake of the public good, and it does not appear from any of the papers submitted by you that such a necessity exists as respects the land now held by those who are mentioned in your correspondence as unwilling to give it up.

"6. The only objects of Government in wishing to obtain possession of any land at Konay are to secure what will be necessary for Public Offices, for Roads, and perhaps for Railway premises, and to ensure proper drainage and other sanitary arrangements in what is set apart for building lots, and these objects could probably be obtained without ousting any of the Merchants whose prosperity and convenience may indeed be regarded as creative of the success of the Port.

"7. I would therefore suggest that, before taking any further steps in the matter of the projected Town at Konay, you should endeavor to arrange a meeting at Beitkul with the gentlemen whom the Manchester Company, and Messrs. Nicol and Co., and Brice and Co. may wish to represent their opinions, and that Lieutenant-Colonel Kennedy should be duly consulted on the subject."

6. In reporting my proceedings so far I beg that you will kindly obtain, as soon as possible, any further orders which Government may deem it necessary to issue on the subject of the proposed appropriation of land for the purpose of a Town at Konay, and as to any precautions which they may desire to adopt to prevent mere speculators in land from being able hereafter to cause inconvenience to the public.

Letter from Mr. W. A. Goldfinch, Acting Collector of North Canara, to Mr. W. Hart, Revenue Commissioner, S. D.,—(dated 23rd September 1862, No. 999.)

With reference to your letter No. 1988, dated 15th August 1862, I beg to forward copy of letter* from Captain Baker, and accompanying Plan of the proposed new Town at Konay.

* No. 1525, dated 18th September 1862.

2. The Plan appears to me to be a good one, and I recommend its adoption.

3. I have not yet been able to obtain detailed particulars of the land included in its limits. So soon as I receive them I will serve Notices on the owners under Act VI. of 1857, and prepare a general one for insertion in the Government Gazette.

4. With reference to that part of your letter under reply in which you state that Government will not decide where the Head-Quarters of North Canara shall be established until I furnish a Report after twelve months' experience of the country, I have the honor to state that I am perfectly prepared to report on this point and that nothing can be gained by delay in settling it.

5. I think Government should consider that Officers employed in this District are unable to arrange for suitable accommodation for themselves and families so long as the situation of the future Station is kept in uncertainty. At Sircy every house (there are only three, and two of them barely habitable) is occupied. The same is the case at Honore, where, I believe, Mr. Wedderburn is obliged to hold office in the Travellers' Bungalow, while at Beitkul there is no shelter at all.

6. People will not build, or indeed spend money in serious repair of existing houses, so long as they are uncertain how long they may expect to find tenants, and as houses, especially in North Canara, are not built in a month or two, the result of putting off a decision for a year will be that the Station, wherever it may be, will not be habitable for two or three years from the present time.

Letter from Captain W. A. Baker, Executive Engineer, North Canara, to the Collector of North Canara,—(dated 18th September 1862, No. 1525.)

I have the honor to forward a rough Plan for the proposed Town at Konay. The details may be altered slightly when the crops are off the ground and a more detailed survey can be made. The Kyga road, which should have a surface width of forty feet, divides the Town in half; the main roads should be twenty-four feet wide, and the streets eighteen feet; the blocks of houses 100 feet wide, one block to be appropriated for Police Lines. The green color along the main roads represents avenues of "Kaju" trees. There are some clumps of trees which will be left standing. I have only shewn a few houses, as most of the European residents will probably build on the hill sites.

I have consulted Mr. Maxwell regarding the best site for a cotton green, and have placed it in front of the Town on the ground now occupied by Messrs. Nicol and Co. and Messrs. Brice and Co., as in his opinion that was "decidedly the best site."

Letter from Mr. H. Maxwell, Agent of Messrs. W. Nicol and Co., to Mr. W. A. Goldfinch, Collector of North Canara,—(dated 16th September 1862.)

When you informed me last month at Sircy that Konay had been chosen as the site of the new Town of Beitkul, you stated that the land I have leased from Baboo Habboo would not be interfered with. I have therefore been much surprised to learn from Captain Baker (not officially) that it is the intention of Government to resume all land, and after laying out the roads, streets, &c., to allow of any one purchasing at auction the sites they may find it desirable to compete for. I have also been informed by Captain Baker that Colonel Kennedy expresses his surprise that Konay should have been fixed on as the site of the new Town without his knowledge, and, as Plans have yet to be made and laid before the Government for approval, it is perfectly impossible that any arrangements for the sale or disposal of land can be completed within the next two months.

The Cotton Pressing Machinery for Messrs. W. Nicol and Co. is now on the way, and will probably arrive at Beitkul in November, and as it is absolutely necessary to have the foundations of the Press Building and Godowns for the reception of valuable stores completed, and some progress made with the buildings by the time the machinery is to hand, I earnestly solicit you will re-consider the proposal to resume this portion of Baboo Habboo's land, and leave me what I have now leased, with the exception of that required for public roads.

As you are probably aware I waited the convenience of the Government of India for the purpose of obtaining land from October 1859 till January last, and then, by the advice of Mr. Fisher, Collector of North Canara, I leased the land now held by me from a private proprietor, the rent of which has been paid to Government by the present proprietor and his father for the last thirty years. It is therefore hard on me, after making all my arrangements for the erection of buildings, supply of stone, lime, timber, labor, &c., to be so unceremoniously turned out without any immediate prospect of obtaining land anywhere for the erection of my machinery.

I have little doubt you will see the justice of my claims, and trust to learn from you that my land at Konay will not be interfered with beyond the Public Works Department's requirements for roads.

Should you have received instructions for the resumption of this land from the Bombay Government from which you cannot deviate, I have the honor to request you will forward my letter to the Secretary to Government, and, as the case is of very great importance to myself, I beg to solicit you will forward it with your favorable recommendation.

Letter from Mr. W. A. Goldfinch, Acting Collector of North Canara, to Mr. H. Maxwell, Agent of Messrs. W. Nicol and Co.—(dated 19th September 1862, No 983.)

In reply to your letter dated 16th instant, I have the honor to inform you that you must have misapprehended anything I may have said to you in private conversation regarding the land you hold at Konay. I am of opinion that it will be necessary to take the whole of it for the purposes of the new Town, and the objections you urge to the measure may, with equal reason, be brought forward by Messrs. Brice and Co. and every other person whose land will be included in the limits of the Town.

2. As soon as I receive the Plan from Captain Baker shewing the land it is proposed to take, Notices under Act VI. of 1857 will be served to all the land-owners concerned.

3. Until. Captain Baker furnishes the Plan I am unable to state positively how much of the land you hold will be required, and, therefore, it would be premature to address Government on the subject at present.

Letter from Mr. H. Maxwell, Agent of Messrs. W. Nicol and Co., to Mr. W. Goldfinch, Collector of North Canara,—(dated 23rd September 1862.)

I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your No. 983 of 19th instant, and regret you consider the conversation I had with you at Sircy was private. I called at your Office for the express purpose of ascertaining the intentions of Government regarding land arrangements at Beitkul, not only on my own account, but for the information of several Bombay Cotton Merchants who are anxious to obtain land there, and considered I was at liberty to make use of a conversation entirely relating to business. I now beg to apologize for having officially referred to it.

No other land-holder can, with reasons equal to those I urge, object to the resumption of their land by Government. I am not aware of any one of them having made preparations for buildings of any kind, whereas I have expensive machinery and stores now on the way from England, a large quantity of stone cut and ready to be laid down at Konay, lime contracted for at Mangalore, and timber (of which I cannot get an adequate supply here) ordered from Cochin, besides having arranged for a supply of labor for immediately proceeding with the Press Building, Office, and Godown at Konay. I consider, therefore, that it would be great injustice to deprive me of a site on which to erect the necessary buildings without any immediate prospect of the Plan of the new Town being so matured as will enable Government to dispose of the land by auction, and that you are placing me at very great disadvantage with the Manchester Cotton Company, who were also guided by the advice of Mr. Fisher, the Collector of North Canara, previous to the transfer, and through the personal exertions of another Government servant secured land from private proprietors.

I now formally protest against Government resuming the land at Konay leased by me from Baboo Habboo further than what is actually required for roads, and should I be obliged to defer all building operations in consequence of my land being resumed, shall hold the Government responsible for any loss I may sustain in the event of cotton arriving in quantity, or damage that my machinery and stores on their arrival may sustain through being stored in temporary buildings during the monsoon, besides adequate compensation for land better adapted for my purposes than any other site round Beitkul Bay.

I have the honor to request you will lay this letter, and mine of 16th instant, on the same subject, before Government.

Memorandum from Mr. W. A. Goldfinch, Acting Colector of North Canara, to the Revenue Commissioner, S. D.,—(dated 26th September 1862, No 1008.)

Forwarded to the Revenue Commissioner, S.D., with the letter of the 16th September 1862, alluded to, and a copy of Collector's reply thereto.

Resolution.—The instructions given by the Revenue Commissioner, S. D., as reported in his letter No. 2525 of the 9th instant, may be entirely approved.

2. It is clearly, as pointed out by the Collector and Executive Engineer, of the greatest importance to determine, as speedily as possible, where the Capital of the District is to be, and Government do not know that there is any additional information, or advantage of any kind, to be gained by delaying the decision on this point.

3. The choice lies between Sudasewghur and some other spot either above or below the Ghauts. Now, it is clear from what is on record that, apart from all commercial considerations, no spot below the Ghauts can fail to be most distasteful to all the native inhabitants of the District who live above the Ghauts, and vice versa the best possible spot above the Ghauts will be very distasteful to all the natives living below the Ghauts.

4. It seems, therefore, that Government are driven to choose on purely commercial grounds, and on such grounds there can be no doubt that some spot in the Bay of Sudasewghur must be selected. Whatever the merits of the harbour, there can be no doubt that it is the best and most improvable in the District—all our roads are to tend to it—all commerce and communication must gravitate to it, and it will be, whether otherwise convenient or inconvenient, very surely the centre of all private business, and consequently the natural Capital of the Province.

5. Any inconvenience which may arise from the remoteness of Sudasewghur from particular Districts can be easily and surely remedied by establishing local Courts and local Officers with extended powers in such Districts so as not to compel the people unnecessarily to resort to a distant Station for the settlement of their every-day transactions in which Government is a party.

6. There can be equally little doubt that Konay and its neighbourhood is the best spot in the Bay for the new Capital of the District.

7. The first thing to do is to provide for the management of the Town which will soon grow up there.

8. For some time to come it will require more exclusive and constant attention than the Collector and Magistrate can devote to it without prejudice to his other duties. The Governor in Council, therefore, proposes to appoint Dr. Forbes as Superintendent of Sudasewghur, to be the local Deputy of the Collector and Magistrate in all Departments at and near the Port.

9. Dr. Forbes will require the aid of a Municipal body in all his plans for the new Town, but the Collector should point out to all parties concerned that the law requires the initiative in the creation of a Municipality to be taken by them, and not by Government.

10. In the meanwhile, till the necessary steps can be taken, he should request those Officers and gentlemen who are chiefly concerned to afford him their aid and assistance and appoint them a Provisional Committee; their opinion he should submit to Government with his own, or that of the Superintendent, on all points connected with the laying out, or Municipal administration, of the new Town and suburbs, whether at Konay, Beitkul, or any other place in the vicinity.

11. The Provisional Committee may be thus constituted:—

1. The Collector and Magistrate, to be Chairman, with a casting vote...	ex-officio.
2. The Superintendent, to be Chairman in the Collector's absence...
3. The Executive Engineer ...
4. The Superintending Engineer...

12. Two leading members of the non-official European community, and two of the Native community, to be selected by the Collector and Magistrate for their intelligence, influence, and stake in the place, to hold office for a year, or till a Municipality is created, and to be eligible for re-appointment.

13. A Surveyor should be appointed under the Executive Engineer: his services will be at the exclusive disposal of the Superintendent for duty at and near the new Town, and his duties will hereafter merge in those of Surveyor to the Municipality.

14. As regards Captain Baker's plan for laying out the Town, the Governor in Council observes that it gives a contracted sea frontage and extends unnecessarily inland, contrary to the usual and inevitable natural tendency of sea-side towns to extend along the sea shore. It also, His Excellency in Council considers, interferes unnecessarily with private property, taking from Messrs. Nicol and Co. and Brice and Co. large portions of land which they destine for cotton stowage, in order to make it public ground for the same purpose.

15. The first points to be settled, and which the Provisional Committee should decide, are—

I.—The main roads and approaches, the direction and breadth of which should be laid down.—A road from Beitkul, one from Kyga Ghaut, and one along shore are obvious suggestions, but there may be others which the Committee will be best able to decide upon.

II.—Cross-roads.—In laying out these a standard width should be fixed, and the direction of the prevailing winds and other sanitary considerations must be borne in mind.

III.—The best position for a Railway terminus, and the best line of approach for a Railway.—A moderate sea or creek frontage for the terminus will be sufficient, but land must be secured so as to allow of extensions hereafter inland for workshops, warehouses, &c., to as great an extent as any Railway in the Presidency.

IV.—Suitable sites for public offices as per margin, and for any other that may be considered necessary, should be provided.—Many of these offices will be at Beitkul, some between that and Konay, and probably a few at Konay itself. But the sites of all should be settled at once and land reserved for them either on the sites selected by Colonel Turner and Mr. Hope, or on any other sites which may be considered preferable. Land must also be reserved for residences for the public officials on sites as near as may be to their offices.

1. Cutcherry and Treasury.
2. Adawluts, European and Native.
3. Jail and Police Lines.
4. Hospital.
5. Barracks.
6. Church.
7. Engineer's and Forest Conservator's Offices.
8. Post Office.
9. Telegraph.
10. Custom House and Port Officer's Quarters.
11. Travellers' Bungalow.

16. No present advantage is to be derived, and much future inconvenience must result from crowding; ample room should, therefore, in every case be taken. It must at the same time be borne in mind that the objects of laying out the Town are mainly commercial, and that no valuable commercial advantages, such as frontage to the sea, a creek, or main road, should be appropriated to Public Offices further than is needed for public convenience, which, of course, to some extent, includes the convenience of Public Officers, for whose accommodation office-room is needed.

17. All these points having been considered, the Collector and Superintendent should take the requisite steps to secure the land and have it properly marked off, mapped, and reserved.

18. The Provisional Committee should consider and state their opinion as to the order in which the public works, including the Offices above specified, should be undertaken. In this they will probably be mainly guided by the opinions of the Collector and Executive Engineer. But the opinions of the Provisional Committee as to what Offices and what lines of roads, streets, &c., are most wanted by the public will be valuable.

19. The particular attention of the Committee should also be drawn to the subject of drainage and sewerage, water supply, and prospective conservancy and sanitary arrangements.

20. If no topographical survey has been made, one on a large scale should be at once commenced of all land within four or five miles of Konav. The scale should be as large as can be hereafter required for any Municipal purpose. Registers should also be prepared shewing exactly the ownership and liabilites of every portion of the land included in the survey.

21. The Provisional Committee should consider whether any and what rules or restrictions are necessary as to the character or materials of the buildings to be erected in any part of the Town, and whether, if the general law, or Municipal Act, do not give the requisite powers, application for the purpose should be made to Government for a special legislative enactment.

22. Owners of ground to which Government has no claim, and which is not required for any of the public purposes referred to in paragraph 15, may be told that, subject to the rules or restrictions the Committee may lay down, they are at liberty to build as they please on their own ground.

23. The Government land should be divided by the Provisional Committee into suitable lots, which should be marked off and numbered on the Plan to be prepared, and the lots will, when applied for, be parted with on such terms, and after such public competition, as rules to be framed under the advice of the Provisional Committee may prescribe. No time should be lost in submitting these rules for sanction.

Government of Bombay.

Public Works to be undertaken in North Canara.

COPY of the Resolution passed by Government on a Memorandum from the Chief Engineer at the Presidency No. 137, dated 15*th September* 1862. Forwarding a communication from the Superintending Engineer, Southern Circle, handing up one from the Executive Engineer, North Canara, treating of his prospect of the coming working season, and requesting to be informed what funds are at disposal for expenditure then, and stating that in the absence of Plans and Estimates he is unable to recommend the large expenditure which Captain Baker contemplates.

1. It is greatly to be regretted that Government have not Plans and Estimates of all these works, and every exertion must be made to prepare them at once by placing at Colonel Kennedy's disposal any amount of additional aid he may require in the shape of trained Surveyors, Draftsmen, and Calculators, and every other means and appliance which can be needed to enable him to submit such Plans and Estimates as are necessary to guard against loss of money and confusion in the execution of the works.

2. His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief has repeatedly pointed out the great resources of the Engineer Corps, both in Officers and men of the Sappers. Government are assured of His Excellency's most cordial assistance in making those resources available to the last man. Nothing has apparently yet been done to draw forth the aid which Government may expect from this valuable reserve.

3. When the Engineer Corps is exhausted there will still be a large body of Officers of the Line which His Excellency has placed at the disposal of Government. Some of these Officers are accomplished Surveyors and Draftsmen, fully competent to aid in the preparation of Plans and Estimates, either as principals or assistants, and all are, more or less, able to give valuable aid in superintending large bodies of laborers and in seeing that they work properly and are duly paid. The Superintending and Chief Engineers have only to ask for such Officers and they shall have them.

4. When the Army is exhausted there is a large body of Civil Engineers available, some in the employment of Government, and others willing to undertake it.

5. All these resources are more than sufficient to complete, in a few weeks, such Plans and Estimates as are needed to prevent waste of money or time in the execution of those works in North Canara which are necessary to give immediate facilities for exporting the cotton crop of the Southern Mahratta Country.

6. The Chief Engineer and Colonel Kennedy should be assured of the anxious desire of Government to give them every possible support and assistance in this matter if they will only call for what they want, the confident expectation of Government should be expressed to them that the required Plans and Estimates of the works to be undertaken will be prepared at once.

7. They should further bear in mind and impress on their subordinates that what is required this year is simply such Plans and Estimates as shall prevent waste of money and confusion in the execution of the works specified by Captain Baker, or of any others which may have been sanctioned to facilitate the exportation of the cotton crops, and that no more than this is required.

8. There is no doubt much truth in what is pointed out by the Secretary that there is no certainty that the lines of road which Captain Baker proposes to undertake are the best which can be laid out; indeed it might be almost taken for granted that improvements of these lines would be discovered whenever a very careful and thorough survey of the whole country can be made, and some of the lines now proposed might no doubt ultimately be entirely superseded by better lines.

9. But this is not the present question. In order to ascertain beyond a doubt the very best line procurable an examination would be required which would extend not over one season, but over two or possibly more, and the delay of even one season is more than the urgency of the present case will admit.

10. A cotton crop far larger and more valuable than any which has ever yet been grown in the Southern Maharatta Country is now growing and will be ready for exportation before the end of the season. The money value of this crop to India is very great, but its value to England cannot be told in money, and every additional thousand bales which we can get down to the sea coast before the season closes in June may not only save scores of weavers from starvation or crime, but may play no unimportant part in ensuring peace and prosperity to the manufacturing Districts of more than one Country in Europe.

11. These are not considerations to be weighed against improved gradients or even a few miles more or less of road to be made. Government know that by the lines on which Captain Baker propeses to work cotton carts can travel and have travelled, and that by the work which he proposes to do these roads can be greatly improved, secured, and made still more easy for cart traffic. The utmost which he can fairly spend upon them during this season will be repaid and more than repaid by the results of this very season without looking to future years.

12. The Chief Engineer is therefore directed to inform Colonel Kennedy and Captain Baker that all the plans of the latter Officer are fully approved, with this sole reservatian that for every Rupee laid out the cotton traffic shall have a fair Rupee's worth of increased facilities, and that Government are prepared to obtain sanction to any sum which they may find they are able fairly and honestly to spend with this object in view.

13. It is not only in preparing Plans and Estimates that Captain Baker will want assistance. He will require it in looking after the execution of the works and in keeping the accounts, and he should be informed that in both respects Government are willing to give him all the aid he can require. Colonel Kennedy, it is believed, has paid particular attention to such means of increasing the working powers of Executive Officers, and Government will be glad to be favored with his views in the shape of practical suggestions.

14. Among the subsidiary arrangements which may contribute to the end Government have in view the following should be noted.

15. As early as possible in the season after carts begin to travel down the Kyga and the Arbyle Ghauts, which will, it is hoped, have been so far repaired as to be rendered practicable and fit for immediate use, Captain Baker should employ competent persons to move continually from point to point along these roads, and to take care that the more permanent improvements which may be in progress are not so conducted as entirely to stop the present use of the road. For example, where a bridge is being built, a temporary diversion should be made and the sides of the Nullas smoothed down, &c., &c., so as to furnish a passage as practicable as possible past the obstacle.

16. It should be made the special duty of the person thus employed to devise and see executed every possible facility for the present traffic which may not come within the scope or the permanent improvement of the road.

17. Much, it is believed, may be done at the Ferries, at some of which, and between Mullapoor and Beitkul, small Steamers might be useful in towing the boats in which cotton or carts have been loaded. Colonel Kennedy's attention might be drawn to the point by telegraph, and descriptions sent him of the small Tug and other Steamers of which there are some procurable and to spare in Sind. No time should be lost in this as the next two months are the only favorable season for such small vessels coming down by sea. In a tideway their deficiency of power would not be such a bar to their utility as on a stream like the Indus.

18. No doubt every effort will be made to facilitate the passage of rivers and swamps by means of timber bridges such as have been erected with such good effect. by Captains Baker, Playfair, and others in parts of the Southern Mahratta Country where timber abounds. They have the great advantages of requiring a material and kind of labor to erect them different from that used for smaller bridges and very abundant, and this joined to the speed with which they can be erected will, for our present purpose, more than compensate for their comparative want of durability.

19. Captain Baker should select points at which to take an accurate account of the traffic in carts and laden cattle passing along each of the principal lines to the sea coast. These should be embodied in one Return and sent in monthly for publication, as in the case of the Railway traffic. Cotton should be distinguished from other goods.

20. Similar Returns should be kept on every great line of road. Captain Baker's and Colonel Kennedy's letters should be sent to the Government of India and H. M.'s Secretary of State, with a Special Report of our proceedings on them, and on all connected with North Cannara and Sudasewghur, and similar Reports should be continued monthly during the present scarcity of cotton. Copies of the Returns of cotton traffic above ordered should always be enclosed, and any information relating to our proceedings to facilitate the transport of cotton in other Districts should be either quoted or distinctly referred to, so as to enable the Secretary of State to see distinctly at one view all that has been reported on the subject since the date of last advices.

21. The Secretary of State and Governor General in Council should be informed that the sum for North Canara this season will probably be greatly exceeded; that every precaution has been taken to ensure economy and a judicious application for the money spent; that it may be some time before this Government are able to specify the precise sums that will be laid out with good effect; that it by no means follows that our total Budget allotment will be exceeded, but that they may rest assured the money will be well applied to facilitate the cotton export, and Government have every hope of its producing a marked effect on the quantity reported.

Jarrah Timber.

From the Acting Chief Engineer to the Agent, Kurrachee,—(dated the 13th September 1862.)

Replying to your letter No. 1497, dated 4th September, I have the honor to inform you that we have tried Jarrah Timber in four different situations, viz.,—

1*st*.—Piling temporary Viaduct, Chimnee Creek.

2*nd*.—Piling under Piers-Mullcer Viaduct.

3*rd*.—Longitudinals under floating stage, Kotree Ferry.

4*th*.—Floor of General Stores, Ghizree Junction.

1*st*.—The piles were driven about two years ago; they were examined during last month, when it was found that they had suffered to a considerable extent from the attacks of the sea worm, but not to a greater extent than any other timber (pucka teak included) under similar circumstances would have done.

2nd.—The Piles at the Mulleer were examined a few days ago when they were found to be in as sound a condition as when first driven.

3rd.—The timber at the Kotree Ferry have been under water during the last six months, we are consequently unable to make any examination of their state.

4th.—The floor of the General Stores was fixed about two years ago; the timber continues much in the same state as when first laid down.

2. The last cargo appears to have been shipped in a green state; the timber remained some time uncovered at Keamaree; those logs most exposed suffered very much, while the undermost became gradually seasoned and turned out well.

3. From the opportunities we have had of judging of the qualities of this wood there can be no doubt that, if properly seasoned before being shipped, it will prove most useful as a building material, and I should strongly recommend that a couple of ship loads should be purchased, as during the next two years it is to be expected that a great quantity will be wanted for the proposed station buildings.

4. This wood has not been used for sleepers neither in any situation exposed to the attacks of white ant, I can therefore say nothing of its qualities in this respect.

Report by the Deputy Consulting Engineer for Railways.

A FURTHER report on the Jarrah Timber procured in 1859-60 from Australia for the use of the Sind Railway Company is submitted to Government.

The Acting Chief Resident Engineer of the Company furnishes a favorable report of such of this timber as appeared to be well seasoned before being used, and seems to believe, like Mr. Brunton, that were the wood properly seasoned before being despatched from its place of growth it would be found serviceable and economical.

As previously reported to Government much of the last consignments of this wood was damaged either on the voyage or immediately on its arrival at Kurrachee, so that, owing to "cracks" and "shakes," a comparatively small amount of it was capable of furnishing sound baulks or planks of any size, although even the faulty logs supplied good piles for bridge foundations.

From a Report on Jarrah Timber by Captain Ducane, Royal Engineers, lately forwarded to Government by Her Majesty's Secretary of State, there seems reason to believe that the Officers of the Sind Railway Company are correct in attributing the indifferent condition of former consignments to the fact of those having been shipped in a green state.

The Acting Chief Resident Engineer of the Company reports that piles of this timber driven in the salt marsh at Kurrachee have been attacked by a species of sea worm or borer although apparently to no great extent.

The undersigned has heard gentlemen who have seen this wood employed in sea jetties, &c., in Australia mention that it was exempt from the attacks of the worms or borers in those seas.

The discrepancy between the experience of Australia and India may arise from a difference in the species of worm.

Major Malcolm while in Sind was asked by Mr. Brunton to inspect a piece of Jarrah Wood which had for some time been placed near nests of the white ant.

This had been attacked by the ants but had not been penetrated by them beyond half an inch from the surface.

POLITICAL.

CAMP AGRA, THURSDAY, 12TH FEBRUARY 1863.

HIS Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General held a Durbar at Benares on the 7th instant, for the reception of the principal Native Nobility, the Residents of the City and Division of Benares, and the Divisions of Patna and Allahabad.

The undermentioned Princes and Gentlemen were admitted to private audiences with the Governor General :—

1.—Descendants of Mirza Koorum Bukht, a Member of the ex-Royal family of Delhi—

Mirza Fyazoodeen.
Mirza Laul.
Mirza Nadir Bukht.
Mirza Secunder Bukht.

2.—Descendants of Mirza Shigooftah Bukht of the same family—

Mirza Nasiroodeen Mahomed Munsoor Bukht.
Mirza Ruheemoodeen Bukht.

3.—Descendants of Mirza Ali Kudr of the same family—

Mirza Mohamed Mohsun Bukht.
Mirza Azizoodeen Bukht.

4.—Princes of Nepal—

Rupendra Bikram Sah.
Birendra Bikram Sah.

5.—Maharajah Isree Persad Narain Sing Bahadoor, Maharajah of Benares, and his Nephew.

6.—Rajah of Vizianagram.

7.—Sumboo Narain as representative of his Father, the Hon'ble Rajah Deo Narain Sing Bahadoor.

A Salute of thirteen Guns was fired on the arrival and departure of the Maharajah of Benares.

Afterwards the Gentlemen abovenamed, with the exception of the Members of the Delhi family and of the Nepal Princes, together with other Native Gentlemen entitled to the privilege, and the principal Civil and Military Officers of Benares and the neighbourhood, assembled in general Durbar. The Viceroy and Governor General entered and took his seat under a Royal Salute.

The Native Gentlemen present were introduced to the Viceroy and Governor General in the order of their precedence, and presented the usual offerings, which were accepted by the Governor General, but returned to those who did not receive Khilluts. His Excellency conferred Khilluts on those who were received in private Durbar, the Chief Nobility of the Patna Division, and the Rajahs of Manda and Bansee from the Allahabad Division.

After the Native Gentlemen had been introduced to the Viceroy, and before the presentation of the Khilluts, His Excellency addressed the Gentlemen assembled in Durbar as follows :—

"It affords me much satisfaction to find myself surrounded here by so many Native Gentlemen of high character and influence, Gentlemen who, in times of confusion and trouble, gave proof of their loyalty and fidelity to the British Crown. I welcome more especially the Maharajah of Benares, and I beg to assure him that if I omit to return his visit to-day I shall do so because the multiplicity of my engagements prevents me from carrying my intention into effect. I welcome also the Maharajah of Vizianagram, who, although he be a visitor here, occupies a high position and enjoys deservedly a high reputation in the part of India where he resides. I welcome, too, the Maharajahs of Doomraon and Bettia, who have come to this place from the District of Patna, which is under the able administration of my esteemed friend, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and I welcome, generally, the Rajahs and Gentlemen who have come here from the Districts of Benares, Patna, and, I believe, Goruckpore and Allahabad. I have, moreover, a special word of welcome for the son of my trusty Councillor, Rajah Deo Narain Singh. The Rajah offered to accompany me from Calcutta to this place in order to be present at this Durbar; but I declined to accept his offer, because I wished him to remain with my Council while it is engaged in the work of legislation. It is the desire of Her Majesty the Queen that the Native Gentlemen of India should be represented in the Council of the Governor General, in order that when Laws are made for India their opinions and wishes and feelings may receive due consideration. It is my intention and duty to do everything in my power to give effect to Her Majesty's gracious intention in this respect. Among the Rajahs and Gentlemen here to-day are many who have large Estates in the neighbourhood and along the line of Railway which we travelled over yesterday. The value of those Estates will be greatly enhanced by the completion of the important work of which we are about to-day to celebrate the opening. I need hardly remind them that they will owe this advantage to the introduction of British Engineering skill and British Capital into this Country. I trust that the consideration of this fact, and of similar facts which are of daily occurrence, will tend to produce a kindly feeling between the races by shewing them to what an extent they may be mutually useful to each other. Meanwhile I hope that the Gentlemen whom I am addressing will turn these advantages to account by doing their utmost to improve their properties and to promote the happiness and welfare of their Ryots and Dependants."

On the conclusion of the ceremonies, His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General left the Durbar under a Royal Salute, and the assembly broke up.

Owing to other engagements, the Viceroy and Governor General was unable on this occasion to pay the usual return visit to His Highness the Maharajah of Benares.

By Order of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General,

H. M. DURAND, Colonel,
Secretary to the Government of India,
with the Governor General.

This cancels Government General Order No. 1101, dated 12th December 1862.

No. 135 of 1863.—The usual Annual Examination is to be held, as soon as practicable after the receipt of the Order, in each of the Stations of the Bengal Presidency to which Deputy Inspector-General of Hospitals are attached, for the purpose of filling up vacancies in the Military Class of the Medical College. The College Session commences on the 15th June.

2. All Candidates will be required to possess a knowledge of the Hindoostanee language, sufficient to enable them to read and write common letters and petitions, and Hospital Registers of Sick, in the Devanagri or Persian character, and to converse with a Sepoy in the Hindoostanee language.

3. Although a knowledge of English will not be insisted on in all cases, a preference in selection is to be given to those Candidates who possess a competent knowledge of English, in addition to Hindoostanee.

4. The preference in selection, attainments being equal, will also be given to those who have already been attached to or served in Civil or Regimental Hospitals. Beyond this, preference will not be given to men of any particular class; but respectable young men, especially those educated in the Schools of Behar, the North-Western Provinces, and the Punjaub, are encouraged to offer themselves, bringing Certificates of character and acquirements from the Inspectors or Head Masters of the Schools.

5. Those holding such recommendations from the School Authorities, and Certificates of physical fitness from the nearest Medical Officers, will not be required to appear before the Committees. As, however, the number who can be admitted to the College from each Division is very limited, it is necessary that the School Authorities should send the papers of all Candidates, as soon as possible after the promulgation of this Order, to the Superintending Surgeon of the Division, who, the recommendations being equal, will select, in preference, those whose nominations are earliest received.

6. The Examination is equally open to the sons of Soldiers and of persons engaged in Civil occupations.

7. The Candidates must be between the ages of fifteen and twenty years.

8. No Candidate will be allowed to present himself for examination who is physically unfit for the duties of a Soldier, and who cannot produce a written Testimonial of his conduct and character. The strictest care and attention are to be exercised in examining the Credentials of all Candidates who will, in addition, be required to bring regular Descriptive Rolls, in order that they may be identified.

9. The Deputy Inspector General of Hospitals is to prepare a General Roll (in the Form hereafter given) of all Candidates to be laid before the Committee, the Qualification Columns being left blank for the Committee to fill up.

10. Committees for the examination of Candates will be convened by the Officer Commanding the Station, upon the requisition of the Deputy Inspector General of Hospitals, and will consist of two Medical Officers and an Interpreter.

11. These examinations will in future be final as regards the admission of the Candidates into the Medical College, no subsequent examination in the College of Fort William being required.

12. Each passed Candidate is to be furnished by the Deputy Inspector General of Hospitals with a Descriptive Roll in the subjoined Form, which he is to present to the Principal of the College, and which will be his warrant for admission as a Student :—

Government of India, Foreign Department.

The Field of Cotton and the area under Cotton cultivation in the Central Provinces.

From C. BERNARD, ESQ., Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, to COLONEL H. M DURAND, C. B., Secretary to the Government of India, Foreign Department,—(No. 307, dated Nagpore, the 19th January 1863.)

SIR,—I AM desired by the Officiating Chief Commissioner to report as follows, for the information of His Excellency the Governor General of India in Council, regarding the produce of Cotton and the area under Cotton cultivation in the Central Provinces during the season 1862, compared with the season 1861.

2. The subject may be treated of in three parts, corresponding with the three main topographical Divisions of the Country, viz., the Wurda Valley and lands South of the Sathpoora Range of Hills, the Nerbudda Valley, North of that Range, and the Chutteesgurh Plateau and the Mahanuddy and Godavery Valleys. Their relative importance, in respect to their Cotton producing capabilities, will be found to be in the order in which they are named.

3. First then, in respect to the Wurda Valley and lands South of the Sathpoora Range, under this heading, may be included the administrative Sub-Divisions of—

Nagpore	...	Nagpore Division.
Wurda	...
Chanda	...
Bhundara	...
Chindwarra	...	Jubbulpoor Division.
Seonee	...
Baitool	...	Saugor Division.

4. The Districts of Nagpore and Wurda, only recently divided into two separate charges, may be considered together, the statistics of each not being readily separable; they, moreover, jointly form what may be called the Cotton Field of the Central Provinces. The extent and capabilities of this tract have already been so fully described in the Administration Report, submitted with this Office letter No. 20, dated 5th August 1862, and in the Report on the Godavery Navigation projects now in the press, and which will be submitted in a few days, that a recapitulation here may be unnecessary. The extent of land under cultivation during the season of 1861 in the Valley of the Wurda is stated at 2,82,648 acres, whilst in 1862 it had increased to 3,53,310. The estimated yield of cleaned Cotton is for 1861 19,845,394lbs, and for 1862, 31,954,908lbs. Thus showing an increase of area brought under Cotton cultivation equal to 25 per cent., and an increase of production equal to 60 per cent. But the year 1861 was not an average year; the latter rains almost entirely failed, affecting the growth and development of the plant. The increase might, therefore, be considered more relative than real. But if, as is very generally admited, the average yield of cleaned Cotton per acre is 68lbs, then a small increased production has actually been obtained in 1862 over antecedent years. The Local Authorities are of opinion that the increased cultivation is due to the greater demand and higher prices existing in 1862, and to the larger area available for autumn sowings by reason of the inability of the cattle, weakened by the drought of 1861, to prepare the land for the Rubbee crops.

5. Chanda.—The Valley of the Wurda penetrates into this District along the left bank of the Wurda River, gradually becoming narrower as it approaches the old City of Chanda. The extent of land under Cotton cultivation along this tract, and to some small extent more in the interior of the District, is estimated at 18,000 acres in 1861, and 15,000 acres in 1862; and the yield at 1,180,800lbs of Cotton in 1861, against 8,20,000 in 1862. This estimate is considered very low, but the season has been very unfavorable; and if anything untoward occurs to the Cotton, the land is immediately taken up for other purposes.

6. Bhundara is principally a rice growing country, lying to the East of the Wurda Valley, from which it is separated by some hilly country. It is reported to produce no Cotton.

7. Chindwarra, Baitool, and Seonee are Districts rather in the Sathpoora Hills than South of them. The climate or the soil, or both, are considered inimical to the Cotton plant. The scanty produce of Cotton in these uplands will be found in accompanying Table.

8. Taking the Wurda Valley with the lands in and South of the Sathpoora Range of Hills, as above described, the total area under Cotton cultivation during 1861 may be stated at 3,15,064 acres against 3,86,768 in 1862, whilst the total yield during 1861 may be stated at 21,642,178lbs against 33,706,838lbs. in 1862. Now if, as has been shown above, the greater demand and higher prices in 1862 has contributed towards increasing the cultivation of Cotton, it might be reasonable to suppose that a larger proportion of the gross yield will be exported this season than heretofore, when the demand and prices were comparatively much lower. The proportion exported in past years is well known to be about one-third the gross produce. At that rate alone we should export this season some 5,000 tons of Cotton; and if the circumstances of the times be taken into consideration, it might not be very far wrong to say that half as much again will be exported this season, or, at the least, 6,000 tons of 2,240lbs. A portion of this will probably avail itself of the Railway to Bombay for the first time. Heretofore the Cotton has gone by the Ahmednuggur and Poona route. This year a part at least will go through Behar to the rail, which will have reached to Sheoguon near Akola in that Province.

9. Prices have risen excessively of late. Last year they ranged at Rupees 70 per bhoja of 262lbs, which showed a higher rate than any previously known. They have now risen to Rupees 120 per bhoja.

10. I am next to refer to the Districts North of the Sathpoora Range forming the Valley of the Nerbudda, they are—

Saugor	...	Saugor Division.
Dumoh	...
Hoshungabad	...
Jubbulpore	...	Jubbulpore Division.
Mundla	...
Nursingpore	...

11. Saugor.—In this District the quantity of land under Cotton cultivation is stated at 28,575 acres in 1861, and 31,519 acres in 1862, the yield being 12,36,724lbs and 12,38,856lbs for those years respectively. This gives about 40lbs of cleaned Cotton to the acre, instead of about half as much again the average yield. The falling off is attributed to the storms of wind and rain which occurred late in October 1862, one Tehseel Sub-Division alone escaping the calamity. It will be seen that the high range of market prices has at Saugor, as at almost every other place, led to a larger extent of land being brought under Cotton cultivation than heretofore.

12. Dumoh.—In this District the quantity of land under Cotton cultivation was 14,349 acres in 1861, and 15,225 acres in 1862, the yield being 8,20,738lbs and 8,32,300lbs in those years respectively. Here, too, the crop has not been in proportion to the increase of land taken up, the cause being unseasonable heavy rains.

13. Hoshungabad.—In this District the quantity of land under Cotton cultivation was 13,000 acres in 1861, and 25,500 in 1862, the yield being 6,49,932lbs and 12,74,936lbs respectively for the two years. The great demand for Cotton has here contributed to double the extent of land being taken under cultivation, happily with better results than in the two preceding Districts. The estimated yield per acre (50lbs) is, if any thing, under the mark.

14. Jubbulpoor.—From the Returns of this District it does not appear that any new land has been taken under Cotton cultivation in 1862; there being 18,268 acres under Cotton in that year against 18,339 acres in the year preceding. The produce, however, has been more successful, the yield in 1861 being 17,82,188lbs, whilst in 1862 it was 2,107,892lbs. The late rains, however, it is reported, caused some injury to the produce. In this District the yield per acre of cleaned Cotton is stated as high as 115lbs, which, though possible under a system of careful picking, is somewhat above the average.

15. Mundla.—The result of Cotton cultivation in this District is insignificant, and will be found in the accompanying Table.

16. Nursingpore.—The most important District in respect to Cotton produce, in the Nerbudda Valley. The extent of land under the cultivation in 1861 was 42,510 acres and 45,000 in 1862, a slight increase, attributed to the demand and high prices offered, the yield being 26,13,750lbs and 32,28,750lbs in 1861 and 1862, respectively, or about 72lbs of cleaned Cotton per acre, a fair average.

17. In the Valley of the Nerbudda then it may be said that there was, in 1861, 1,16,961 acres of land under Cotton cultivation, whilst in 1862 there was 1,35,672 acres, the stimulus to increase cultivation being the rise in prices. The gross produce being 71,32,524lbs in 1861, and 87,04,874

in 1862, or about 65lbs per acre, a very safe average except Hoshungabad in the West, which exports its Cotton to Bombay, the market for the whole Valley of the Nerbudda is Mirzapore; there are no statistics, however, to give the quantity of Cotton exported as compared with the quantity reserved for home consumption. But the Commissioner is of opinion that probably one-half may be exported, and that the dealers have made arrangements for its carriage. Thus, about 1,943, or say 2,000 tons of Cotton may be expected to reach the sea board as the export quota of the Nerbudda Valley.

18. The third and last Geographical Division to be considered is the Plateau of Chutteesgurh and the Valleys of the Mahanuddy and the Godavery, comprising the administrative Sub-Divisions of—

Raepore.
Belaspore.
Sumbulpore.
} Chutteesgurh Division.

Upper Godavery { Under the Agent, Governor General.

19. The first two Sub-Divisions have only recently been separated into independent charges, and will consequently be considered together. In the last Administration Report it was stated that the District Officer, in December 1861, had estimated the Cotton Produce of Raepore, including Belaspore, at 36,750,000lbs per annum, and that this estimate was held to be exaggerated. More recent enquiries have tended to prove it so to a considerable extent, for the present Deputy Commissioner, from the best information locally available, estimates the gross yield at only 3,280,000lbs for 1861 as for the year following. The quantity of land under the crop is also roughly calculated at 40,000 acres, yielding at an average a maund or 82lbs per acre. In the absence of field measurement of any kind, and considering that the produce is raised mainly in the States belonging to petty Chiefs, known as the "Zemindaries," it must be difficult to arrive at any very exact statistical results; but the Officiating Chief Commissioner believes that the present estimate is much too low, judging from the quantity of Cotton exported from Raepore in past years. The season of 1862 has certainly been very unfavorable in Raepore, the rains continuing much longer than usual to the injury of the Cotton crop. The high range of prices has, it is reported, induced the dealers to reserve in store a large quantity of the produce of 1861, all of which, with a large proportion of the current year's out-turn, may be expected to be carried to the Ports for exportation this season, the route being by the Mahanuddy to Cuttack on the Eastern Coast.

20. Sumbulpore, situate further east in the Valley of the Mahanuddy, has also suffered from the heavy and late rains of 1862. The produce of the northern portion of the district is carried on pack bullocks to Cuttack, whilst the produce of the southern portion is taken to Binka on the Mahanuddy in the dependency on Sonpoor, and thence sent down the river to Cuttack. The area under Cotton cultivation in this district and in the dependencies under its control is roughly estimated at 24,000 acres, the yield in 1861 being 2,460,000lbs, and in 1862, owing to bad season, 1,640,000lbs.

21. The Upper Godavery District is not a Cotton producing country at present, and in this Report needs no further remark.

22. From the above description, then, of the Cotton produce in the Chutteesgurh Plateau and Mahanuddy and Godavery Valleys, it may be estimated that about 64,000 acres of land are under the crop, and that the yield, during the season of 1862, amounted to about 5,000,000lbs. Of this about half would be exported, and with the reserve stock of the preceding year, the total quantity that may be expected to reach the sea board at Cuttack would not be under 3½ millions of pounds or about 1,600 tons.

23. The accompanying Table will afford a summary of the statistics already detailed, it will show:—

I.—That, notwithstanding the season having been partly unfavorable, the area under Cotton has increased from 4,96,171 acres in 1861 to 5,86,650 acres in 1862, and the production from 34,523,558lbs in 1861 to 47,344,914lbs in 1862, showing an increase of 18 per cent. in area and of 37 per cent. in produce, which increase is attributable in part, but not entirely, to the enhanced rate of prices.

II.—That the total area under Cotton cultivation in the Central Provinces is about 5,86,650 acres, of which 3,53,310 is in the Valley of the Wurda alone.

III.—That the gross yield of cleaned Cotton is estimated at, (47,344,914lbs) say forty-seven and a half millions of pounds (or 21,000 tons).

IV.—That the average produce per acre of cleaned Cotton is little under a maund, or 82lbs, the highest being 115lbs.

V.—That the total exports for the Central Provinces, inclusive of the balance of stock of the previous year reserved by speculators in the hope of prices rising, may be calculated to amount to from 20 to 22 millions of lbs (9,600 tons), and that this large exportation may be expected to reach the sea board before the close of the season, about 6,000 tons for Bombay, 2,000 tons for Mirzapore and Calcutta, and 1,600 tons for Cuttack on the Eastern Coast.

24. The Officiating Chief Commissioner believes that these results are not exaggerated; they have been arrived at after local enquiry; though estimated, they are as approximate to the truth as the nature of the question admitted of examination. It is to be regretted that the area under Cotton cultivation could not, for all the districts, be given from actual field measurement; but, in the Valley of the Wurda, the Cotton field of the Central Provinces, the area given by the Tehseeldars and Village Putwarees, is, for the most part, corroborated by the Settlement Officer, and may therefore be accepted as correct. In the Valley of the Nerbudda, too, the estimate has been arrived at by Tehseel Officials well acquainted with the local cultivation and exact field measurement. In the Plateau of Chutteesgurh and the Valleys of the Mahanuddy and Godavery alone is the estimate unsupported by any very reliable data, but here it is generally believed the estimate is much within the limit. Before the close of the present working season the Officiating Chief Commissioner hopes to be able to lay before Government more certain statistics of the cultivated area under Cotton in the Central Provinces, based on actual measurement, field by field; meanwhile the present estimate may be accepted as approximate and as near the truth as present means admit of.

25. In conclusion, I am to inform you that an application has been received from the Bengal Chamber of Commerce for information on the points treated on in this Report, and should His Lordship in Council see no objection, Mr. Temple would be glad if the request were complied with. He would also submit that the information might also prove interesting to the Bombay Chamber.

POLITICAL.

Camp Agra, Thursday, 12th February 1863.

Notification.—His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General held a Durbar at Benares on the 7th instant, for the reception of the principal Native Nobility, the Residents of the City and Divison of Benares, and the Divisions of Patna and Allahabad.

The undermentioned Princes and Gentlemen were admitted to private audiences with the Governor General:—

1.—Descendants of Mirza Koorum Bukht, a Member of the ex-Royal family of Delhi—
Mirza Fyazoodeen.
Mirza Laul.
Mirza Nadir Bukht.
Mirza Secunder Bukht.

2.—Descendants of Mirza Shigooftah Bukht of the same family—
Mirza Nasiroodeen Mahomed Munsoor Bukht.
Mirza Ruheemoodeen Bukht.

3.—Descendants of Mirza Ali Kudr of the same family—
Mirza Mohamed Mohsun Bukht.
Mirza Azizoodeen Bukht.

4.—Princes of Nepal—
Runendra Bikram Sah.
Birendra Bikram Sah.

5.—Maharajah Isree Persad Narain Sing Bahadoor, Maharajah of Benares, and his Nephew.

6.—Rajah of Vizianagram.

7.—Sumboo Narain as representative of his Father, the Hon'ble Rajah Deo Narain Sing Bahadoor.

A salute of thirteen Guns was fired on the arrival and departure of the Maharajah of Benares.

Afterwards the Gentlemen abovenamed, with the exception of the Members of the Delhi family and of the Nepal Princes, together with other Native Gentlemen entitled to the privilege, and the principal Civil and Military Officers of Benares and the neighbourhood, assembled in general Durbar. The Viceroy and Governor General entered and took his seat under a Royal Salute.

The Native Gentlemen present were introduced to the Viceroy and Governor General in the order of their precedence, and presented the usual offerings, which were accepted by the Governor General, but returned to those who did not receive Khilluts. His Excellency conferred Khilluts on those who were received in private Durbar, the Chief Nobility of the Patna Division, and the Rajahs of Manda and Bansee from the Allahabad Division.

After the Native Gentlemen had been introduced to the Viceroy, and before the presentation of the Khilluts, His Excellency addressed the Gentlemen assembled in Durbar as follows:

"It affords me much satisfaction to find myself surrounded here by so many Native Gentlemen of high character and influence, Gentlemen who, in times of confusion and trouble, gave proof of their loyalty and fidelity to the British Crown. I welcome more especially the Maharajah of Benares, and I beg to assure him that if I omit to return his visit to-day I shall do so, because the multiplicity of my engagements prevents me from carrying my intention into effect. I welcome also the Maharajah of Vizianagram, who, although he be a visitor here, occupies a high position and enjoys deservedly a high reputation in the part of India where he resides. I welcome, too, the Maharajahs of Doomraon and Bettia, who have come to this place from the District of Patna, which is under the able administration of my esteemed friend, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and I welcome, generally, the Rajahs and Gentlemen who have come here from the Districts of Benares, Patna, and, I believe, Goruckpore and Allahabad. I have, moreover, a special word of welcome for the son of my trusty Councillor, Rajah Deo Narain Sing. The Rajah offered to accompany me from Calcutta to this place in order to be present at this Durbar; but I declined to accept his offer, because I wished him to remain with my Council while it is engaged in the work of legislation. It is the desire of Her Majesty the Queen that the Native Gentlemen of India should be represented in the Council of the Governor General, in order that when Laws are made for India their opinion and wishes and feelings may receive due consideration. It is my intention and duty to do everything in my power to give effect to Her Majesty's gracious intention in this respect. Among the Rajahs and Gentlemen here to-day are many who have large Estates in the neighbourhood and along the line of Railway which we travelled over yesterday. The value of those Estates will be greatly enhanced by the completion of the important work of which we are about to-day to celebrate the opening. I need hardly remind them that that they will owe this advantage to the introduction of British Engineering skill and British Capital into this Country. I trust that the consideration of this fact, and of similar facts which are of daily occurrence, will tend to produce a kindly feeling between the races by shewing them to what an extent they may be mutually useful to each other. Meanwhile I hope that the Gentlemen whom I am addressing will turn these advantages to account by doing their utmost to improve their properties and to promote the happiness and welfare of their Ryots and Dependants."

On the conclusion of the ceremonies His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General left the Durbar under a Royal Salute, and the assembly broke up.

Owing to other engagements the Viceroy and Governor General was unable, on this occasion, to pay the usual return visit to His Highness the Maharajah of Benares.

By Order of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General,

H. M. DURAND, Colonel,

Registration of Assurances.

The Hon'ble Mr. Ellis presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the Registration of Assurances.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington moved for leave to introduce a Bill to provide for the speedy adjudication of claims to waste lands. He said that this Bill had become necessary, or, if not absolutely necessary, that the present legislation was considered to be very desirable in consequence of the measures which had lately been adopted, and which were being carried out for the disposal of waste lands which were believed to be the property of Government. Those measures had for their object the bringing into cultivation of the waste lands situated in different parts of the country by the sale of the lands to European and other Capitalists who were willing to invest their money in the purchase of the same. But it must be obvious that intending purchasers would hesitate to invest their Capital in waste lands unless at the time of sale their right to the land sold was secured to them in such a manner as not to admit of the title being afterwards called in question by persons who claimed an interest in the land, and it was with the object of providing means for the early disposal of such claims which, though unknown to the local Authorities, might still exist in respect to land proposed to be sold or "otherwise disposed of" on account of Government that the present Bill had been framed. The words "otherwise disposed of" had been introduced in the Bill in addition to the word "sold," because the Government might consider it for the interests of the public to construct public buildings on some of the waste lands in their possession, or to plant a portion of such lands with trees the wood of which might be useful at some future time for Railway and other purposes, and it was thought that there would be a convenience in so framing the provisions of the Bill that it would apply to all claims to waste lands whether proposed to be sold or otherwise dealt with. The present Bill was the only legislation considered immediately necessary in connection with the measures for the disposal of waste lands already referred to. As suggested at the commencement of these remarks there might be no absolute necessity for the present Bill. It was not necessary to declare by law that persons who considered that they had claims to any land proposed to be sold or otherwise disposed of as waste, or who objected to the sale or other disposition of such land had a right to prefer their claim or objection in the ordinary Courts of law. This right was clearly already possessed by such persons, and they could neither be deprived of it by an order of the Executive Government, nor would it be just to prevent their exercise of the right in some way. But the consequence of leaving such claimants or objectors to the remedy of a regular suit under the general Regulations, to be followed by the usual regular and special appeals, would be to give them the full period of limitation, extending it might be, in some cases, to twelve years and indefinitely, or for a very considerable period, to delay the final decision of the case, during which interval the land might remain waste, or if the purchaser expended any capital in its improvement he would do so at very considerable risk. The public interests would seem, therefore, to require that these classes of claims and objections should be treated exceptionally, and that some special provision should be made for their speedy determination. The object of the present Bill, as already noticed, was to make such provision. The Bill gave to all Collectors or other Officers exercising the powers of a Collector in Districts in which any waste lands might be situated jurisdiction summarily to hear and determine claims and objections of the nature of those to which the Bill applied if preferred within a certain period. Either of the parties, if dissatisfied with the Collector's decision, that is, the claimant or objector on the one side, and the Government, as representing the public, on the other side, would be at liberty to bring a regular suit to contest the decision before a Court to be constituted for the purpose. The Court would consist of three Judges. It was proposed that the decisions of the Court should be final, but the Court would be at liberty to state any point of law or usage having the force of law, arising in the case for the opinion of the High Court of Judicature, or where there was no such Court of the highest Civil Court of Appeal in the Territory in which the land in dispute was situate. The Bill further provided for the cognizance by the Courts constituted under the Bill of claims and objections which, for any sufficient reason, might not have been preferred to the Collector within the time allowed, but which might be brought in the Court within a period fixed in the Bill. When, however, the lands might have been sold or otherwise disposed of on account of Government, the claimant or objector, though he should succeed in establishing his claim or objection, would not be entitled to the possession of the land; in such case he would receive pecuniary compensation. It had been objected that the time allowed for persons preferring claims and objections under this part of the Bill was too short, and that, although it might be quite proper, looking to all the attendant circumstances that the claimant or objector should not obtain possession of the land which might have passed into other hands, or been disposed of in such a manner as to preclude its being given up without great public loss or injury, there seemed no sufficient reason why such persons should not be allowed the full period of limitation for preferring their claims or objections which was provided by the existing law. There might be some force in this objection, and he (Mr. Harington) should be ready to consider any proposition that might be made for enlarging the period allowed for instituting a suit under Section X. of the Bill. Lastly, the Bill provided for compensation being given by Government to any claimant or objector who might have been prevented from preferring his claim or objection either to the Collector or to a Court competent to hear the same within the time allowed should the Government consider the claim to be a just one. These were the principal provisions of the Bill. The Bill had been framed after consultation with the several Governments. Many of the suggestions received from those Governments had been adopted, or the provisions of the Bill had been so altered as to meet objections taken by the local Governments to the Bill as originally framed. As only waste lands of which it was believed that there were no claimants were proposed to be sold or otherwise dealt with, it might be hoped that the claims cognizable under the Bill would not be very numerous. He (Mr. Harington) thought that the Bill, as framed, would be found to contain suitable provisions for the determination of all claims and objections that might arise in the disposal of waste lands, so as to afford ample protection to the public on the one hand against unfounded claims, and to bonâ fide claimants and objectors on the other hand, or claimants or objectors who really had an interest in the land proposed to be sold or disposed of in some other manner.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

Peons Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington also moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the employment and remuneration of Peons for the service and execution of Civil Process in the Courts of the North-Western Provinces of the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington then said that he had to move the amendments of which he had given notice in the following terms:—That Sections XI. and XII. be transposed, and that the following words be added to Section XI. when so transposed:—"And in any place not subject to the "General Regulations to which the provisions of "this Act extend, or shall hereafter be extended

"as provided in the last preceding Section, the "Judges of the principal Courts of original Civil "Jurisdiction in such place shall be the Judges to "fix the number of Peons necessary to be employ-"ed in such Courts, and in any Courts subordi-"nate to such Courts as provided in Section II. of "this Act, and subject to the approval therein "mentioned." He said that the Act might extend to Territories in which there were no Zillah Judges, and the proposed amendment was necessary to shew by what Officers the power of fixing the number of Peons in those Territories was to be exercised.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON also moved that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

MAHOBA AND JEITPORE BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON also moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to bring the Pergunnahs of Mahoba and Jeitpore, in the District of Humeerpore, under the operation of the General Regulations, be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON then proposed the amendment of which he had given notice that the following Section be added to the Bill:— "This Act shall take effect from such date as the "Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western "Provinces shall fix by an order to be published in "the Official Gazette." He said that this amendment was proposed in consequence of a communication from the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, who stated that some time must transpire before the necessary arrangements were completed for giving effect to the Bill, and that in the mean time the existing system of administration must be continued.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON then moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

HIGH COURT (BOMBAY) BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE applied to the Hon'ble the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business, and, on the suspension of the Rules, moved that the Bill to empower Judges of the High Court and other Authorities at Bombay to direct Convicts to be imprisoned either in the House of Correction or the Common Jail be taken into consideration.

He said that as this Bill had reference solely to the custody of Prisoners in Bombay, and as it had been thoroughly considered in the Local Council, he did not suppose that this Council would consider it necessary to delay its passing.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE then moved that the Bill be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE then moved for leave to introduce a Bill to make provision for the speedy and efficient disposal of the business now pending in the Office of the Master of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, the object of which was to wind up the business in the Master's Office. That Office was the Department of the former Supreme Court on its Equity side, in which its administrative business was chiefly conducted, and to which certain questions, particularly questions of fact, were referred for investigation. The Office of Master in Equity had been abolished in England, and in India, under the altered system of the Court since the fusion of the Supreme and Sudder Courts, it might be said only to survive for the purpose of winding-up the business which was before the Master at the moment of the amalgamation. In order to dispose of this it was necessary that the Master should be armed with additional powers to enable him to bring the matters before him to a conclusion. How urgently such powers were required might be inferred from the fact which he (Mr. Maine) believed he was correct in stating, that there were some suits still pending in the Master's Office in which no step had been taken for twenty years, not from any default on the part of that Officer, but from the unwillingness of the parties to proceed. When the Master's Offices were abolished at home, it was necessary to invest those functionaries with powers to compel parties to proceed, and, if necessary, to proceed without them. The Bill followed the English precedent, and had been drawn with the approval of the Chief Justice, so that he trusted that the Council would not object to pass the Bill at the next Meeting.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON said that similar provisions to those contained in the proposed Bill might be necessary in respect to the Master's Offices attached to the High Courts at Madras and Bombay, and as the local Legislatures had no power to legislate on any matter of procedure in the High Courts of Judicature, he would suggest that the Bill, instead of being restricted in its application to the High Court at Calcutta, should extend to the High Courts at the other two Presidencies also.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE said that he would ask for leave to introduce the Bill with a more enlarged Title, "for the speedy and efficient disposal of the business now pending in the Office of the Masters of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, Madras, and Bombay." If he found that it should be confined to the Court here, it would be easy to correct it before it passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned.

No Recruiter shall engage or attempt to engage laborers in any District of the said Provinces without having first exhibited his license to a Magistrate in such District and obtained the countersignature of the Magistrate thereupon. Such countersignature shall be given, provided that the license is in force at the time.

And have his license countersigned by the Magistrate of the District in which he recruits.

Laborer when called on by Recruiter shall appear before Magistrate for examination and registration.

XI. Every Native inhabitant of India who shall enter into any engagement with a Recruiter to proceed to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet, for the purpose of laboring for hire, shall, when called on by the Recruiter so to do, appear with the Recruiter, before any Magistrate in the District within which the engagement was entered into. Upon so appearing, the Recruiter shall state to the Magistrate to what depôt he intends that the laborer shall proceed, and the Magistrate shall thereupon examine the laborer with reference to his engagement, and if it appears that he comprehends the nature of the engagement he has entered into, and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the Magistrate shall register the name of such laborer and the depôt to which it is intended he shall proceed, in a book to be kept for the purpose in such form as the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall prescribe: but if the Magistrate shall be of opinion that such person does not comprehend the nature of his engagement or that he has been induced to enter into it by fraud or misrepresentation, he shall refuse to register the name of such person. An authentic copy of every registration made under this Section shall be forthwith forwarded by the Magistrate to the Superintendent within the local limits of whose authority the depôt to which such registration relates is situated.

Penalty for forwarding laborers or allowing them to go without being duly registered, &c.

XII. Every Recruiter who shall forward or send any laborer from the District in which he resides or in which he has entered into any engagement, or who shall induce or knowingly permit any laborer to leave such District, for the purpose of proceeding to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet without the laborer being duly registered as provided in Section XI of this Act, and every Recruiter who shall forward or send any laborer or shall induce or knowingly permit any laborer to proceed to any depôt other than the depôt registered under that Section, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees for every laborer so forwarded or sent or induced or permitted, and in default of payment of such fine to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months.

Laborers shall be accompanied to depôt by Recruiter or person approved by Magistrate.

XIII. The registered laborers engaged by any Recruiter shall, while proceeding to a depôt, be accompanied throughout the journey, either by the Recruiter himself or by a competent person appointed by him with the approval of the Magistrate by whom the laborers may have been registered. Every Recruiter by or through whom laborers may be forwarded to a depôt shall throughout their journey provide them with proper and suitable lodging and food. Whenever any such laborer shall not be so provided with lodging or food, the Recruiter shall, whether he accompanied the laborers in person or not, be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees, and in default of payment of such fine to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months.

Recruiter to be responsible for their welfare.

XIV. Every Contractor shall, within twenty-four hours after the arrival of any laborer at his depôt, give to the Superintendent a notice in writing of such arrival, which notice shall be in such form and shall contain such particulars as the Superintendent shall prescribe. Every laborer shall, as soon as may be after his arrival, be examined by the Medical Inspector, who shall give to the Superintendent a certificate of the state of health of every laborer examined.

Contractor to give the Superintendent notice of arrival of laborers at depôt.

Medical Inspector to inspect laborers on arrival.

XV. If the Medical Inspector shall certify that any laborer is not in a state of health which warrants his proceeding to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet for the purpose of laboring, the Superintendent shall either order the Contractor, in whose depôt such laborer may be, forthwith to convey him back to the place at which he was registered, or shall order the Contractor to pay to the laborer such sum as shall to the Superintendent seem necessary to enable him to return there: and the Contractor if so ordered shall, without unreasonable delay, convey the laborer or cause him to be conveyed back to the place at which he was registered. On failure of the Contractor for twenty-four hours to comply with an order of the Superintendent for the payment of such sum of money as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the Superintendent to advance the same to the laborer, and every sum so advanced shall be recoverable by the Superintendent, with six per cent. interest from the date of advance, from the Contractor on whose default it may be advanced, as money paid to the use of such Contractor: and no further proof shall be required by any Court in any such case, than that the Superintendent gave the Contractor such order as aforesaid and that the Contractor for a space of twenty-four hours made default in complying therewith. Provided always that any laborer who from his state of health is, in the Medical Inspector's opinion, unfit to undertake the journey back to the place where he was registered, shall, in addition to his being conveyed back by or at the expense of the Contractor, be entitled to continue in the depôt and to be fed, clothed, and lodged there, by and at the expense of the Contractor, until such time as the Superintendent shall order otherwise.

If unable to proceed to Assam, &c., from bad health, Contractor to send laborer back to where he was registered.

XVI. The Superintendent shall examine separately each laborer, as soon as possible after his arrival at a depôt, as to the treatment that he has received on the journey to the depot; and in case it shall appear that any laborer has suffered any ill-treatment on the journey, the Superintendent may cause him to be removed from the depôt. The Superintendent may thereupon order the Contractor, from whose depôt the laborer is removed, to pay him such a sum of money as to the Superintendent shall seem necessary in order to enable the laborer to return to the place where he was registered: and on failure of the Contractor to pay such sum within twenty-four hours of his being ordered to do so, the Superintendent may advance the amount to the laborer: and all the provisions of the last preceding Section as to sums advanced by the Superintendent shall be applicable, so far as the circumstances of the case will permit, to advances made by him under this Section.

Superintendent to examine all laborers separately as to their engagement, &c.

XVII. It shall not be lawful for any laborer to be conveyed from any depôt to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet, for the purpose of laboring there for hire, unless he shall have first, in the manner hereinafter provided, entered into a duly registered contract with some person, to serve such person there for a fixed period, which shall in no case exceed the term of five years. Every such contract shall be reduced to writing and shall specify the rate of wages the laborer is to receive, and shall contain such particulars and be in such form as the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall prescribe.

Every laborer to enter into a written contract to serve for some period not exceeding five years.

XVIII. Every contract entered into by a laborer shall, in the presence of the Superintendent, be signed in duplicate both by the laborer and by the person with whom he intends to contract or his Agent. Before the laborer signs the contract, the Superintendent shall personally explain it to him and shall satisfy himself that the laborer fully understands all its details. The Superintendent shall attest every contract duly executed in his presence, and certify at the foot thereof that he has personally explained the same and has satisfied himself as aforesaid. An abstract of every such contract shall be entered by the Superintendent in a register to be kept by him for the purpose: and after such abstract has been so entered, one of the duplicates so duly signed and attested as hereinbefore provided, shall be given to the laborer, and the other to the person with whom he has contracted or his Agent.

Contract to be explained by Superintendent and executed in duplicate, and abstract to be entered in a book by Superintendent.

XIX. The Superintendent shall send by post a copy, authenticated under his hand, of every abstract entered by him as in the last preceding Section provided, to the Magistrate of the District in which the service is in such contract agreed to be performed. Every such copy shall be despatched by the Superintendent within seven days after the entry of the abstract. Every abstract and every such copy shall be receivable in evidence in any Court, whether Civil or Criminal, in lieu of the original contract.

Copy of abstract to be sent to Magistrate of District where service is to be performed.

XX. Any laborers whose contracts shall have been executed and entered as hereinbefore provided, may be despatched from time to time to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet, by the Contractors in whose depôts they may be or by the persons whom they may have agreed to serve respectively, but subject always to the provisions of this Act. No laborers shall be so despatched unless the permission of the Superintendent shall have been first obtained, and the laborer shall have received a pass from the Superintendent as hereinafter mentioned.

Laborers whose contracts are duly executed and entered may be despatched with consent of Superintendent.

Coal Mines at Thatay Khyoung.

From LIEUTENANT-COLONEL A. FYTCHE, Commissioner of Tenasserim and Martaban Provinces, to LIEUTENANT-COLONEL H. M. DURAND, C B, Officiating Secretary to the Government of India, Foreign Department,—(No. 214, dated Moulmein, the 6th September 1861.)

I HAVE the honor to submit herewith copy of a letter* to my address from Lieutenant Harrison, Deputy Commissioner, Third Class, Mergui, requesting sanction to an advance of Rupees 1,000 for the purpose of re-working the Coal Field at Thatay Khyoung, situated on the Great Tenasserim River, Mergui Province.

* No. 88, dated 17th August 1861.

2. This Coal Field was worked by Government in 1840, and later also, in 1854, by Lieutenant Chase, Deputy Commissioner of Mergui, when 18 tons of Coal were brought down by him to the town of Mergui, but cost at the rate of Rupees 34 per ton; and its further working was then abandoned on account of its large cost in procuring the mineral. Lieutenant Harrison is of opinion that he could supply Coal at the port of Mergui from this Mine at the rate of Rupees 12 per ton, and if this could be done, and of which he appears tolerably confident, the experiment would be worth a trial, as Coal at this price could be used with advantage by the Steamer employed on the Alguada Reef Light House Establishment and the vessel attached to these Provinces.

3. This Coal Field was visited by Professor Oldham during the month of February 1855, and his Report on the same is printed in pages 37, 38, 39, 40, and 41 of Selections No. X. of Records of the Government of India. Professor Oldham states in this Report that the Coal procured from this Mine has proved equal to ordinary "country" Coal, but the rapid dip of the beds, and the consequent depth to which all shafts would soon have to be sunk, is the most serious objection to the profitable working of this Coal; but in other respects it is well placed. A level road has already been formed from the Coal bed to the Great Tenasserim River, on which the tramway Lieutenant Harrison proposes could be easily laid.

4. The box of specimens of Coal procured from this Mine by Lieutenant Harrison, and mentioned by him in his letter, are forwarded to your address by the Steamer which conveys this communication. I may add that, if the sum of Rupees 1,000 is advanced for the working of the Coal Mine, it cannot be met from this year's Budget.

5. On my visit on circuit to the Southern Provinces during March and April last, it was my intention to have visited several of the broken series of Coal basins which are known to exist in the Province of Mergui, but my time did not then admit of it. I visited, however, several streams, tributaries of the Pak-Chan River, which have tin ore associated with the detritus of their beds; and in the box in which the specimens of Coal are packed, I have taken the opportunity of placing a box containing quartzose gravel intermixed with lumps of quartz and granite, which I took myself out of the bed of the Kulama-Khyoung, one of the numerous small feeders of the Pak-Chan, and which appears to be peculiarly rich in tin ore, as also to contain apparently a quantity of minute scales of gold. I have also enclosed a small block of tin which I saw melted and run from the furnace, from washed tin ore procured from the bed of the same stream from whence I took my sand. The sand and specimen of tin might be presented to the Geological Museum, Calcutta, if it is thought fit, and a report called for on them from Professor Oldham.

6. This stream tin is worked by emigrants or refugees from Siam, and procured by washing the sand in small shallow wooden bowls, and the ore thus obtained sold to the Farmer of the Malewon District, (concerning whom and the terms of his lease a full account was given by me in paragraphs 44 to 49 of my Revenue Report for these Provinces, No. 153, dated the 11th July 1861,) in small bamboo measures, 12 inches long by 3¼ inches in diameter, and for which Rupees 2 each is paid. The bed of the stream from which I took my specimen of sand is reported to be one of the richest yet discovered, and the men whom I saw employed washing there informed me that, if they worked continuously for a whole day, they could fill with ease two of the bamboo measures, or earn Rupees 4 per diem.

7. The Farmer was employed smelting ore when I was at Malewon. He has two large furnaces supplied each with a bellows formed from the hollow trunk of a large tree, in which a piston is inserted and drawn backwards and forwards by two men, and appears to keep up a strong and continuous blast. The ore is run into pigs half a picul, or 71 lbs. in weight, to form which, it is estimated, takes fifteen of the bamboo measures above-mentioned, and gives 40 to 45 per cent. of metal obtained from the ore. The whole of the tin thus obtained is sent to the Penang market for sale; and from the Farmer's own account to me, he was driving a most profitable trade.

8. From a point of latitude about 14° 45′ North, to the extremity of the Tenasserim Provinces in 9° 59′ South, the whole coast is stanniferous. In some localities pits have been sunk through the alluvium of the ancient stream courses, and the tin beds, varying from six to fourteen feet, extensively worked. For ages back the tin deposits of Malewon and Pak-Chan appear to have been worked by Siamese and Chinese, and at a period during the sixteenth century, when the Portuguese established a trading mart at Martaban, the tin of Tenasserim was a celebrated article of commerce. It is also mentioned by an ancestor of mine, Ralph Fitch, who visited the town* of Tenasserim in the middle of the sixteenth century, which he states was then a large and thriving city with an extensive trade.

* The ruined walls and gateways of this old city are overgrown with heavy jungle, but still discernible: the area within them is very extensive.
There are now only a few huts on the site.

9. The Siamese, who at present work this tin, work only for a few weeks in the year, the remainder being spent in hunting and fishing: they have no cultivation, and the rice they eat is imported. It appears strange that the mineral resources of these Provinces have not been availed of by European capitalists during our own times, and no more systematic working adopted for procuring tin ore than the rude, desultory, and wasteful processes described above.

From Lieutenant W. P. Harrison, Deputy Commissioner, Mergui, to Colonel A. Fytche, Commissioner, Tenasserim and Martaban Provinces, Moulmein,—(No. 38, dated the 17th August 1861.)

Having just returned from a visit to Tenasserim and some places above it, I have the honor to bring to your notice the advisability, in my opinion, of re-opening the working of the Coal, which you are aware is abundant in that locality.

2. I spent two days in visiting the old Coal Field at Thatay Khyoung, and as I intend sending you a specimen of the Coal, I will add a brief account of how I obtained it.

3. I went to the old site, situated on the right bank of the Thatay Khyoung, which falls into the Tenasserim River, about fifty miles above, and on the opposite bank to Tenasserim town. Here the old shafts are still visible about half a mile in a straight line from the bank of the Tenasserim River. I started early one morning from a small hut I had built on an island in the main river with six Kareen coolies, two crowbars, two mamoties, and half-a-dozen baskets, and selected a place near one of the old pits for digging. Cutting down through loose soil for about three or four feet, we came upon a stratum of stiff white clay, in which numerous round stones were imbedded. Underneath this we found loose black soil and Coal mixed with clay for about two feet, when we cut into a vein of Coal which had never been touched before, and from which I send you a few specimens. The next day I had to dig down again to the vein, and our work was considerably retarded by water. I could not get more than three or four hours good work out of the Kareens, work which they declared was so hard that they would be laid up with aching bones for a week after it; and notwithstanding this, and the few appliances I had, I managed to bring away in my boat about 7 or 8 cwt. of Coal.

4. I am inclined to think that the principal reason why these Coal Fields were abandoned was, that the expenses incurred were too great. On referring to the books in my Office, I find that Captain Chase, when Deputy Commissioner here, in 1854, brought down 18½ tons of Coal from a place called Himlap, not far from Thatay Khyoung, and that it cost no less a sum than Rupees 34 a ton: at this rate of course no purchasers could be found. Then, again, I am aware that at one time the Mergui Coal had a reputation of being liable to spontaneous combustion, but I believe that Professor Oldham, who visited these Coal Fields, decided that the Coal was no more liable to this objection than any other Coal.

5. The only point, therefore, which remains to be seen is, whether it can be so economically worked as to command a ready sale, and I beg to solicit your sanction to my attempt to show this.

6. It is practical experience only that can tell how to make a reliable estimate, and I fear that the absence of this in me may operate to prevent your entrusting to my hands the development of the trade. Neither can I commence it entirely without funds, and you will, of course, ask for a detail of the plan I intend pursuing. A detail I cannot give, but I shall outline the plan as well as lies in my power.

7. I would lay down a wooden tramway from the pit to the river bank, for the Thatay Khyoung is unavailable for water carriage from its tortuous channel, rocky bed, and shallow water, and on this tramway, I would put trucks capable of conveying half a ton of Coal. The tramway would lead to the bank of the river, and would be made so that the contents of the trucks might be shot directly on to bamboo rafts. Bamboos are numerous in the vicinity, and the sale of them in Mergui would, at first, more than pay the expenses of cutting them and making the rafts.

8. The tramway would have a slight descent towards the river; the general level of the ground would give this advantage, and the timber for it might all be cut up in the neighbourhood.

9. With Rupees 1,000 I think I could make this tramway, and provide trucks, tools, pumps, &c., and I am in great hopes that you will sanction this advance, and allow me to commence work as soon as possible. I know it is wrong for me to speak too confidently, but I cannot help thinking that the advance would not be long outstanding. The sum I ask for is small in proportion to what has already been spent on these Mines. It shall not be exceeded, and I will use my best exertions to see it re-paid as soon as possible.

10. From what I have seen, I think twenty men could, with the aid of the tramway, easily put a ton of Coal a day on the rafts. Coolies I could obtain for six annas a day, giving them their wages partly in rations: this would be only Rupees 7-8 a ton, and bringing the rafts down would cost 8 annas a ton. There must be added sufficient to pay off the advance, to keep up the stock of tools, &c., and to pay for a certain amount of superintendence; and this might all be done for Rupees 3 a ton, or for less, as the quantity of Coal brought down and sold increased. By this estimate, or rather by this outline of a plan, the Coal could be sold in Mergui for Rupees 11 a ton, or say Rupees 12, and at this rate we should never want a market for it.

11. Doubtless, as a rule, the development of trade should be left to private enterprise, but I think this is an exceptional case. I only wish to be enabled to show that Coal can be obtained in Mergui town for Rupees 12 a ton, and could I do so, I have no doubt whatever that many private individuals or Companies would be very glad indeed to take the trade out of the hands of Government. It is to excite this spirit of enterprise by showing that the trade is profitable, that I propose again working these Mines; and to dwell on the advantages of opening the trade would be a very unprofitable waste of your time and my paper.

From C. U. Aitchison, Esq, Under-Secretary to the Government of India, Foreign Department, to the Chief Commissioner, British Burmah,—(No. 621, dated the 20th March 1862.)

In reply to the letter from the Commissioner, Tenasserim and Martaban Provinces, dated 6th September 1861, No. 214, regarding the Coal Mines at Thatay Khyoung, I am directed to inform you that the Governor General in Council considers it inexpedient to sanction the proposal of the Deputy Commissioner of Mergui to work these Mines on account of Government, or to advance him money for the purpose. But Colonel Fytche's letter, and its enclosure, will be published as a selection from the Records of Government, and you are requested to inform that Officer that, if private persons are attracted to the Coal or Tin Mines of Mergui, and are induced to work them on a large scale, both he and the Deputy Commissioner should afford them every facility and encouragement in their undertaking.

2. The specimens of Coal and Tin, forwarded with the letter under acknowledgment, have been received and sent to the Geological Museum.

Government of Bengal.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill, as amended by the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st February 1863, is hereby published for general information, and will be re-considered on the 7th of March next :—

A Bill to regulate the transport of Native Laborers to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to regulate the passage and transport of native laborers, from or through the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal, to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet; and also to regulate the manner of engaging and contracting with native inhabitants of the said Provinces to proceed to the said Districts for the purpose of laboring for hire; It is enacted as follows :—

Laborers shall be conveyed to Assam, &c, only under this Act.

I. From and after the first day of May 1863, whoever shall, otherwise than under the provisions of this Act, engage or convey any Native inhabitant of India in or through any of the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal, to any or either of the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet, for the purpose of laboring there for hire, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred Rupees for every person so engaged or conveyed, and in default of payment of such fine shall be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months. Provided always that nothing in this Act shall apply to any engagement made in any or either of the said Districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet.

Penalty.

Lieutenant-Governor may appoint Superintendents of Labor Transport and Medical Inspectors of Laborers.

II. For the purposes of this Act it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal to appoint Superintendents of Labor Transport, and Medical Inspectors of Laborers at any places where he may think proper: provided that whenever any Superintendent or Medical Inspector shall be appointed, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall, by Notification in the Calcutta Gazette, define the local limits within which such Superintendent or Medical Inspector shall exercise the powers and authority conferred on him by this Act. When such local limits shall have been so defined, no other Superintendent or Medical Inspector shall within those limits exercise any of the powers vested in a Superintendent or Medical Inspector by this Act.

No unlicensed person to act as a Contractor or Recruiter for supplying laborers.

III. It shall not be lawful for any person, who is not duly licensed as a Contractor or Recruiter as hereinafter provided, to engage or induce, save through or by the agency of a licensed Contractor, any native inhabitants of India to proceed to the Districts of Assam, Cachar, or Sylhet for the purpose of laboring for hire.

Penalty.

Any person, other than a Contractor, licensed as hereinafter provided, who shall enter into any contract or agreement to supply any such native inhabitants for the purpose of laboring for hire in those Districts or any or either of them, and any person other than a Recruiter, licensed as hereinafter provided, who shall enter into any contract or agreement to engage or induce, or shall attempt to engage or induce, any such native inhabitants to proceed to any of those Districts for the purpose aforesaid, shall be liable for each offence to a fine not exceeding one thousand Rupees, and in default of payment thereof to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months.

Superintendent may grant licenses to Contractors.

IV. It shall be lawful for any Superintendent appointed under this Act to grant to such persons as he may think fit licenses, in the form set forth in Schedule (A) to this Act annexed, to act as Contractors for engaging or supplying persons for the purpose of laboring for hire in the Districts of Assam, Cachar, and Sylhet, or any or either of them. For every such license a fee not exceeding one hundred Rupees (according to such a scale as may from time to time be fixed by the Government of Bengal) shall be paid to the Superintendent granting the same; and every such license shall be in force for one year and no longer.

V. Every Contractor licensed under this Act shall, if called on to do so by the Superintendent by whom he is licensed, establish a depôt in a place to be approved of by such Superintendent. Every such depôt shall be kept up by the Contractor for the reception of laborers to be supplied or forwarded by or through him. All such laborers shall, on their arrival at or in the neighbourhood of the depôt so established by the Contractor by, through, or for whom they have been engaged or forwarded, be at once taken to, and received into, it, and shall be entitled to receive in such depôt, at the expense of such Contractor, suitable lodging, food, clothing, and medical attendance, until such laborers shall be declared by the Superintendent to be no longer entitled thereto. Every such depôt as aforesaid shall be under the supervision of the Superintendent, and shall be open to his inspection and to the inspection of the Medical Inspector at all times, and shall be managed and regulated by the Contractor in accordance with such rules as the Superintendent may, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, from time to time lay down in that behalf.

Contractors shall keep up depôts, and receive and maintain laborers therein.

VI. It shall be the duty of every Contractor to afford such information to the Superintendent by whom he is licensed, and to make such returns and reports to him, as such Superintendent may from time to time require.

Contractor to give Superintendent such information as he may require.

VII. Upon so appearing, the Recruiter shall state to the Magistrate to what depôt he intends that the laborer shall proceed, and the Magistrate shall thereupon examine the laborer with reference to his engagement, and if it appears that he comprehends the nature of the engagement he has entered into, and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the Magistrate shall register the name of such laborer and the depôt to which it is intended he shall proceed, in a book to be kept for the purpose in such form as the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall prescribe; but if the Magistrate shall be of opinion that such person does not comprehend the nature of his engagement or that he has been induced to enter into it by fraud or misrepresentation, he shall refuse to register the name of such person. Railway,—Head-Quarters.

Benares, the 7th February 1863.

Notification.—His Excellency the Viceroy on his arrival at this City desires to congratulate the Officers of the East Indian Railway Company and the Public on the completion of the additional section of the Grand Trunk line of Railway from Calcutta to the North-Western Provinces that has been recently opened to Benares, and on the prospects of the early opening of the whole line for traffic up to Allahabad and Delhi.

2. The distance from Calcutta by Rail to Benares is 541 miles. Work was begun in 1851. The line to Burdwan was opened in February 1855 ; to the Adjai in October 1858 ; to Rajmehal in October 1859 ; to Bhaugulpore in 1861 ; to Monghyr in February 1862, and to Benares in December 1862. In ten years therefore have been opened (including Branches) a continuous length of 601 miles, being at the rate of 60 miles a year. This is exclusive of the portion of the line already finished between Allahabad and Agra in the North-Western Provinces, and of the section from Agra to Allygurh, which it is expected will be ready in a few weeks. Including this length the progress of the East Indian Railway has not been short of 90 miles a year, a rate which, if it has not come up to the expectations first entertained, is under all the circumstances of the case, satisfactory as regards the past, and encouraging as regards the future.

3. On his journey from Calcutta to Benares His Excellency observed with much interest the numerous striking works that have been so successfully constructed on this Railway by the Company's Engineers, and viewed with particular admiration the great Girder Bridge over the Soane, which, it is believed, is exceeded in magnitude by only one Bridge in the world. The smaller Girder Bridges over the Keeul and Hullohur, the heavy flood arching in the vicinity of these rivers, the masonry Bridges over the Adjai and More, and the Monghyr Tunnel, also attracted the attention of His Excellency the Viceroy, as works of more than ordinary difficulty designed and carried out with signal ability.

4. His Excellency the Governor General gladly accepts this opportunity of acknowledging the services rendered by the Officers of the Railway Company in the prosecution of this great work ; and of expressing more especially the strong sense he entertains of the high engineering skill and the steady devotion to his duties exhibited by Mr. George Turnbull, the Chief Engineer of the Company in Bengal, who in a few days will give up the direction of the works which he has now seen completed. Although not in the immediate employment of the Government, Mr. Turnbull has in the opinion of His Excellency well earned the expression of the thanks of the Governor General for his professional services, which have indeed been rendered as much to the Public as to the Railway Company. In all Mr. Turnbull's dealings with the Officers of the Government he has invariably shown that moderation and desire to conciliate which were essential for the harmonious and successful carrying on of the Railway Works, under the peculiar conditions imposed by the terms of the Government guarantee ; and the Governor General has much satisfaction in signifying in behalf of the Government of India his high estimation of the manner in which all Mr. Turnbull's relations with the Government have been conducted.

5. His Excellency the Viceroy will not fail to bring to the favorable notice of Her Majesty's Government the long and excellent services of Mr. Turnbull, who, having been the first Railway Engineer employed in India, has now happily seen the portion of this great work on which he was more particularly engaged brought to a close after many years of arduous and persevering labor, under circumstances of unusual difficulty, with the most complete satisfaction to his employers, and to the Government, and with the highest credit to himself.

Government of Madras.

Cotton Cultivation in Madras.

From E. B. FOORD, Esq., Acting Collector of Kistna District, to the HON'BLE T. PYCROFT, Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George,—(No. 18, dated Masulipatam, the 13th October 1862.)

I HAVE the honor to acknowledge the receipt of the Proceedings of Government dated 4th instant, No. 2136, and to note in the margin the extent of Cotton cultivation up to the end of September compared with the cultivation up to the same period in last year.

Fuslie.	Land. Acres.	Assessment. Rs.

2. The Cotton cultivation is generally commenced in the month of September, and will be almost completed by the end of November. The crops already grown are in a promising state, but as heavy rains are prejudicial to this crop, the true results and the total area cultivated can only be precisely stated in December

From G. BANBURY, Esq., Acting Collector of Kurnool, to the HON'BLE T. PYCROFT, Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George,—(No. 46, dated Kurnool, the 14th October 1862.)

IN reply to the Proceedings of Government dated 4th instant, No. 2136, I have the honor to transmit a comparative Statement of the Cotton cultivation in each Talook of this District for the previous and present years. The account shews that up to the end of last month there is a net increase in favor of the present year of acres 40,247 thus sown.

2. Had the season been more favorable at the commencement, the expectancy of realizing such remunerative Returns would doubtless have caused a much larger breadth to be sown with this crop. Cotton sowing begins about the middle of August. This year the rains which usually fall in July and August were sadly deficient, and apprehensions of scarcity became rife. In the beginning of September, however, the rains commenced and continued steadily throughout.

3. Cotton sowing is still being carried on, and there is just at present a cessation of rain highly favorable to the young plants now requiring sun and dry weather.

4. We may reasonably expect that the Returns for the present month will prove very satisfactory as regards Cotton cultivation, so that during the current season a large increase over that of last Fuslie may be fairly anticipated. The average price of Cotton ruling throughout the District for the last three months is Rupees 15½ per Candy.

From P. GRANT, Esq., Collector of Coimbatore, to the HON'BLE T. PYCROFT, Chief Secretary to Government, —(No. 67, dated Coimbatore, the 15th October 1862.)

IN reply to the Proceedings of Government of 4th instant, No. 2136, I beg to report that the state and prospects of Cotton cultivation in this District for the current season are very unfavorable.

2. The statistical information regarding the state of the Cotton markets at Home, received from time to time from the Board of Revenue, has been duly published in the District Gazette for the information of the Ryots engaged in the cultivation of Cotton, but the state of the season from want of rain has been so unfavorable that the cultivation of Cotton from July to September is 36,471 acres less than it was in the corresponding period of last year.

3. The accompanying Statement exhibits the present state of Cotton cultivation so far as the actual breadth of land under that crop is concerned, but as to the state of the crop it is silent, and I fear it is useless to look for more than half the usual crop, if even so much. The Province of Coimbatore has always been known in the market as a Cotton producing country. A very considerable change has however come over the spirit of the people in regard to Cotton, laying aside the consideration of the present state of the market with its unnatural prices, for some years the price of Indian Cotton has not been high or certain, whilst the prices of all kinds of cereals have been steadily rising every year, until they have attained a value some 50, 60 and 100 per cent. higher than they were a very few years ago. The consequence is that much land which was formerly ploughed for Cotton is put under cereals, for which there is this high demand in the local markets.

4. The pulsation of a local market the Ryots can understand and grasp, but the sympathy between a foreign and local market requires more knowledge than they possess, the result is that the local market and its requirements receive a readier and more attentive consideration: a Ryot ploughs his land intending to sow Cholum or Raggi, whilst his plough is going he dwells on the pleasing fact ever present to his mind that he used to get eight annas for so much grain, whereas Merchants will now come to his threshing floor at harvest time and be glad to take the same quantity of grain at one Rupee; if he ploughs to raise a Cotton crop he feels that he has entered on an uncertain speculation, the prices he knows not, with the circumstances which influence them he is unacquainted, and the purchaser who comes in contact with him he finds, it is to be feared in very many cases, a too sharp practitioner; all the above are circumstances which bear adversely on the prospect of Cotton cultivation.

From A. HATHAWAY, Esq., Collector of Bellary, to the Hon'ble T. PYCROFT, Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George,—(No. 47, dated Bellary, the 16th October 1862.)

IN reply to the Proceedings of Government, No. 2136 of the 4th instant, I have the honor to state that the extent of land under Cotton cultivation in this District during the current year up to the end of last month was 1,60,253 acres, being an excess of 259 acres as compared with the same period of last year.

2. It is likely that the cultivation will increase during the next two months.

3. The present crops are in a good state, and it is believed that they will yield well.

From A. WEDDERBURN, Esq., Collector of Cuddapah, to the HON'BLE T. PYCROFT, Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George,—(No. 27, dated Cuddapah, the 24th October 1862.)

IN reply to the Order of Government dated 4th October 1862, No. 2136, I have the honor to report that the cultivation of Cotton this season is 34,868 acres against 25,920 in last season, increase 8,948. The anticipation of a rise induced a larger cultivation of last season of 34 per cent. above the previous one. Last year was an unfavorable season for Cotton. After it is sown rain is required to bring up the plant. Now, the rain failed entirely last October, with such drawbacks the increase of cultivation was great, but the crop not a good one.

2. I hope for better prospects this year. In April last I considered that there were sufficient indications of a permanent rise as to assure the Ryots that it would be a profitable crop, they were consequently prepared to sow largely, but unfortunately June, July and August of this year were unfavorable for ploughing, and without rain sowing is a mere waste of seed. In the latter end of August and during September the season was better. The increased price of Cotton is well known to the Ryots.

3. I think it as well to mention that the high price of Cotton is not altogether an unmixed advantage. The District being drained for a foreign market, the local price has raised the price of the people's clothing, and has induced great distress amongst those native weavers, who have not land to fall back upon for their subsistence. Those who cannot afford the enhanced price of cloths will go without, and the weaver's loom follows the same course as the factory. The Railway works in progress fortunately afford a means of employment and subsistence to this distressed class.

From J. W. B. DYKES, Esq., Collector of Nellore, to the HON'BLE T. PYCROFT, Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George,—(No. 36, dated Nellore, the 31st October 1862.)

I HAVE the honor to acknowledge the receipt of Proceedings of the Madras Government* under date 4th instant, No. 2136, and report an increase in Cotton cultivation in the lands held on Pottah up to September of 235 acres. In the Zemindaree Villages a decrease is shewn of 3,707 acres. But neither of these results can, I think, be looked on as giving much indication of the year's outturn. And if present prices continue, unquestionably there will be a large increase in the area under Cotton.

* Revenue Department.

From V. H. LEVINGE, Esq., Collector of Madura, to A. J. ARBUTHNOT, Esq., Chief Secretary to Government, Madras,—(No. 643, dated Madura, the 14th November 1862.)

IN reply to your Official Memorandum No. 189, dated 6th November, I have the honor to report that the delay which has arisen in answering the Proceedings of Government, No. 2136, dated the 6th October, is owing to the whole of the different Zemindars not having as yet sent into me, as directed, the information required to enable me to make the necessary report. However, from personal observation and from enquiries, I can confidently report that Cotton has been more extensively cultivated this year than last, that the crops are very forward and looking splendid. As soon as I get the Returns from the Zemindars who have been again called upon, I will furnish the Statistics required.

From the Hon'ble D. Arbuthnott, Collector of Salem, to J. D. Sim, Esq., Secretary to Government, Revenue Department, Fort St. George,—(No. 64, dated Salem, the 24th November 1862.)

With reference to the Proceedings of the Madras Government dated the 4th October last, No. 2136, I have the honor to enclose a Statement shewing the cultivation of Cotton in the Salem District during the current Fuslie, as compared with the past one. It will be seen from this Statement that the land under Cotton cultivation up to the end of the last month was acres 14,811-5-14 assessed at Rupees 24,332-13-0, or acres 1,100 assesssd at Rupees 2,684 above the past year.

2. The Cotton trade in this District is not large, and the Cotton produced in the District is grown partly for local consumption and partly for Messrs. Fischer and Co., who make advances to Ryots.

From J. Silver, Esq., Collector of Tinnevelly, to A. J. Arbuthnott, Esq., Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George,—(No. 505, dated Tinnevelly, the 27th November 1862.)

With reference to the Proceedings of Government, dated the 4th October last, No. 2136, calling for a report upon the state and prospects of the Cotton cultivation for the current season, and as to whether the cultivation this year is greater than that of the preceding year, I have the honor to state that immediately on the receipt of the above Proceedings I called for the necessary Returns from the Talooks, but I have not yet received the Statements for some of the Zemindaree lands. However, as Government have twice directed in their Memoranda of the 5th and 21st instant to expedite the despatch of my Report, I beg to state, with reference to the Returns I have before me, but which are not yet complete, that the cultivation raised up to the end of October in this year exceeds that raised during the corresponding period of last year by about 40,000 acres. There was favorable rain at the commencement of the season, and the standing plants are thriving well.

2. It will be observed that the above increase is only up to October, and there remain two months in which the cultivation can be carried on.

3. Besides sending repeated orders to the Tehsildars to explain to the Ryots the great demand for Cotton, the high prices obtaining in the market, and the advantage they will derive by extending the cultivation, I have myself explained all this to the Ryots in person during my last Jummabundy tour, and as the season is good, I anticipate that the area that will be brought under Cotton cultivation this year will greatly exceed that of last year.

From J. Silver, Esq., Collector of Tinnevelly, to J. D. Sim, Esq., Secretary to Government, Revenue Department, Fort St. George,—(No. 538, dated Tinnevelly, the 17th December 1862.)

Since reporting to Government on the state and prospects of the Cotton cultivation on the 27th ultimo, I have the honor to inform you that the heavy rains which have since fallen have caused a good deal of injury to the crop. On the night of the 30th November there was a perfect deluge of rain all over the District. Many tanks breached, and portions of roads were swept away. The town of Tinnevelly was in one part completely flooded, and great damage was done in the town of Tuticorin. This deluge fairly washed the late Cotton sowings out of the ground in some localities, and did a good deal of injury to the standing plants. The Ryots, however, are preparing again to sow those lands that have been most damaged.

From V. H. Levinge, Esq., Collector of Madura, to A. J. Arbuthnott, Esq., Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George,—(No. 696, dated Madura, the 16th December 1862.)

As desired in the Government Proceedings of the 4th October last, No. 2136, I have the honor to report that the cultivation of Cotton in the Government Inám and Zemindaree Villages up to November last amounts to 39,568 acres assessed at Rupees 71,277, exceeding that of the same period in the last Fusli by 8,552 acres taxed at Rupees 16,061.

2. The Ramnad Zemindaree Manager reported that owing to a failure of rain at the beginning of the ploughing season in that Zemindaree that Cotton cultivation had not taken place, and that when the rain did begin that it fell so continuously that the people were unable to sow Cotton, which is the cause of the blanks in the columns opposite to Ramnad in the Statement. However, I hope the Returns up to the end of December will shew an extensive cultivation of Cotton undertaken since the rain has begun to hold up.

3. I have every reason to believe that Cotton cultivation is still extending in the other Talooks, &c., and that the Return of this month will shew a great increase over the cultivation of last year.

4. The Cotton crops are in a thriving condition and promise a good crop.

From E. B. Foord, Esq., Acting Collector of the Kistna District, to W. Hudleston, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Revenue,—(No. 287, dated Masulipatam, the 19th November 1862.)

I observe that in the Cotton Map of the Madras Presidency, forwarded to me by the Board, nearly the whole of this District is colored as a "Cotton growing locality."

2. As this is calculated to convey a very erroneous impression, I have the honor to annex, for the information of the Board, a Statement showing the several Talooks of this District in which Cotton is grown, and the number of acres grown in each; and to state that Cotton is not grown at all in the Talooks of Bandar, Gudivada, Repali, and the Nuzid Estate, and (as the Board will observe from the Statement) very little in Bezwada and scarcely any in Bapatla Talooks.

With reference to Circular, Board of Revenue, dated 11th October 1862, No. 6818, I have the honor to state that the 1½lbs of Peruvian Cotton Seed was widely distributed to many persons, European and Native, and that up to this time it appears generally to have sprung up successfully. A further report will be made when the plants come into bearing.

1. The planting season having passed the number of Plants placed out in the Plantations remain as in October, namely, 35,000. These are now well established, and are making satisfactory progress.

2. The increase by propagation during last month is 12,780, being a little above the average results obtained during the last six months.

3. Table II exhibits the growth of eleven Plants planted out by His Excellency the Governor and other Gentlemen on the 30th August 1862. The average growth of these Plants for last month being only 4 inches, or 2½ inches less than in November. This growth is however considerable, as December is one of the coldest months in the year and the season at which most Plants begin to winter. The whole of the Plants in the Nurseries and propagating houses continue in fine health.

When all were assembled the Viceroy and Governor General entered and took his seat under a Royal Salute. His Excellency then addressed the assembled Chiefs in the following words:—

"Princes and Chiefs.—In inviting you to meet me here it was my wish, in the first place, to become acquainted with you personally, and also to convey to you, in obedience to the gracious command which I received from Her Majesty the Queen upon my departure from England, the assurance of the deep interest which Her Majesty takes in the welfare of the Chiefs of India. I have now to thank you for the alacrity with which, in compliance with my request, you have, many of you from considerable distances, assembled at this place.

"Having received during the course of the last few days many of the principal personages among you in private Durbar, where I have had the opportunity of communicating my views on matters of interest and importance, I need not detain you on this occasion by many words.

"Before taking leave of you, however, I desire to address to you collectively a few general remarks upon the present state of affairs in India and upon the duties which that state of affairs imposes upon us all.

"Peace, I need hardly remind you of the fact, now happily prevails throughout the whole extent of this vast Empire. Domestic treason has been crushed, and Foreign enemies have been taught to respect the power of the Arms of England.

"The British Government is desirous to take advantage of this favorable opportunity, not to extend the bounds of its dominions, but to develope the resources and draw forth the natural wealth of India, and thus to promote the well being and happiness both of Rulers and of the people.

"With this view many measures of improvement and progress have already been introduced, and among them I may name as most conspicuous the Railway and Electric Telegraph, those great discoveries of this age which have so largely increased the wealth and power of the mightiest Nations of the West.

"By diffusing education among your vassals and dependants, establishing Schools, promoting the construction of good Roads, and suppressing, with the whole weight of your authority and influence, barbarous usages and crimes, such as Infanticide, Suttee, Thuggee and Dacoitee, you may, Princes and Chiefs, effectually second these endeavors of the British Government, and secure for yourselves and your people a full share of the benefits which the measures to which I have alluded are calculated to confer upon you. I have observed with satisfaction the steps which many of you have already taken in this direction, and more especially the enlightened policy which has induced some of you to remove transit and other duties which obstructed the free course of commerce through your States.

"As representing the paramount power it is my duty to keep the peace in India. For this purpose Her Majesty the Queen has placed at my disposal a large and gallant Army, which, if the necessity should arise, I shall not hesitate to employ for the repression of disorder and the punishment of any who may be rash enough to disturb the general tranquillity. But it is also my duty to extend the hand of encouragement and friendship to all who labor for the good of India, and to assure you that the Chiefs who make their own dependants contented and prosperous establish thereby the strongest claim on the favor and protection of the British Government.

"I bid you now Princes and Chiefs farewell for a time with the expression of my earnest hope that, on your return to your homes, health and happiness may attend you."

After the concluding ceremonies the Viceroy left his seat under a Royal Salute. The Maharajahs of Gwalior and Jyepore and the Secunder Begum of Bhopal having been conducted from the Tent the assembly broke up.

On Wednesday, the 18th February, the Viceroy and Governor General, accompanied by the Secretary to the Government of India and by the Officers of His Excellency's Personal Staff, paid return visits to thirteen of the Princes and Chiefs in succession at their respective encampments.

His Excellency was met by the Chiefs themselves and by their principal Ministers in accordance with established custom, and was received at each encampment, both on arrival and departure, with a Royal Salute.

In each case the usual offerings were presented and accepted, and the customary ceremonies having been observed His Excellency retired.

By Order of His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Viceroy and Governor General of India,

H. M. DURAND, Colonel,
Secy. to the Govt. of India,

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.—No. 324A.—Allahabad, the 27th February 1863.—The following Circular issued by the Government of India, in the Financial Department, No. 188A., dated 31st January last, containing instructions regarding the Budget system, is published for the information and guidance of all Officers concerned :—

Circular.

No. 188A., Fort William, the 31st January 1863.—Propositions having recently been submitted to Government in this Department for charging certain items of expenditure under Debt, in order to exhibit against them the receipts from which they are met, His Excellency the Governor General in Council desires it to be understood that two of the most important objects of the Budget system are—

1st.—To exhibit once in every year a complete Statement of the public income and expenditure, and 2nd.—To subject the whole of that income and expenditure to a thorough revision once in every year, and that neither of these objects can be attained by crediting receipts by deduction, and charging expenditure against special receipts. Further, this practice involves a degree of concealment which is quite incompatible with financial lucidity and control.

2. Funds which have been appropriated to be managed at the discretion of local Authorities for local purposes, in other words, what are technically called "Local Funds," do not, of course, come under this rule; but the entire Public income and expenditure, that is, all receipts and disbursements appertaining to the Fisc, must be shown without deduction on their respective sides of the annual Estimates and Accounts.

3. The Estimates for 1863-64 should, as far as possible, be brought into conformity with this principle, and in this view the Officers of the Audit Department will, as early as convenient, submit a Return of any estimated gross receipts and charges hitherto kept under "Debt," of which the net result only may have been shewn in the Budget Estimate for 1863-64; the necessary additions to the Budget can then be made in this Office.

By Order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces,

J. D. SANDFORD,
Offg. Secy. to Govt., N. W. P.

Government of India.

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Governor-General of India assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament 24 and 25 Vic., Cap. 67.

The Council met at Government House on Wednesday, the 25th February 1863.

Present:

Major-General the Hon'ble Sir R. Napier, K. C. B., presiding.
His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.
The Hon'ble H. B. Harington.
The Hon'ble H. Sumner Maine.
The Hon'ble Sir C. E. Trevelyan, K. C. B.
The Hon'ble C. J. Erskine.
The Hon'ble W. S. Fitzwilliam.
The Hon'ble D. Cowie.

The Hon'ble R. S. Ellis, C. B.
The Hon'ble A. A. Roberts, C. B.

Religious Endowments Bill.

The Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to enable the Government to divest itself of the management of Religious Endowments. He said that the principal change which had been made was in defining more distinctly the two classes of Endowments to which the Bill was applicable. There were some Endowments, the Trustee or Manager of which was nominated by the Government, or in which the nomination of the Trustee or Manager was subject to the confirmation of the Government. And there were others in which the nomination was neither made by, nor subject to, the confirmation of Government. By the Bill as now framed it was provided that, were the Trustees or Managers had, up to the present time, not been appointed or confirmed by the Government, they should in future be left wholly free from Government control or interference, the Trustees exercising their functions and performing the trusts committed to them, subject only to the usual control of the Civil Courts. But where the Government had theretofore nominated or confirmed the appointment of Trustees, the Government should once for all, in the first instance, appoint a Committee to exercise all the powers theretofore exercised by the Government. When vacancies occurred in any of these Committees the Government would have nothing to do with filling them up. The vacancies would be filled up by election under Rules framed by Government. If, when a vacancy occurred, delay was made in proceeding to an election, any party interested might apply to the Civil Court either to order an election to be made or to appoint a new Trustee or Manager. It was unnecessary he should enter further into the details of the Bill, but he might remark that, while the earlier Sections of the Bill affected only the Endowments to which the Regulations repealed by it related, Section XXII. was of general application and wholly dissevered Government from all future connection with these Trusts in all parts of India. Nothing less than this would seem to mark the determination of the Government to rid itself of a burden which had been bequeathed to it by the former Rulers of India, and to abstain from all further concern with Religious Establishments.

His Honor also applied to the Hon'ble the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business, and, on the suspension of the Rules, moved that the Report be taken into consideration.

The Motion being agreed to His Honor moved the omission of the words "except the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca" at the end of Section XXIV.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Erskine moved, in Section III., the omission of the words "in which, at the time of the passing of this Act, the nomination of the Manager, Trustee, or Superintendent shall be vested in, or," and the substitution of the words "to which the provisions of either of the Regulations specified in Section I. of this Act are applicable, and the nomination of the Trustee, Manager, or Superintendent whereof at the time of the passing of this Act is vested in, or may."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor then moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

Works of Public Utility by Private Persons or Companies.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for taking land for works of public utility to be constructed by private persons or Companies, and for regulating the construction and use of works on land so taken. He said that the principal alterations proposed to be made in this Bill by the Select Committee were the omission of some of the works specified in Section II. of the Bill as works of public utility to which the provisions of the Bill might be applied, and the giving power to the local Governments, before ordering a public work to be provisionally registered under the Bill, to appoint a Commission of Inquiry in order to obtain full information on the subject of the projected work, and the grounds of any opposition that might be offered to it. It was thought that the works proposed to be omitted were not of a nature to require general legislation such as that designed in the Bill, and that the Report of a Commission of Inquiry, appointed as proposed, would assist the local Government in coming to a decision as to whether any work proposed to be constructed under the Bill was of sufficient public importance to justify the application of the provisions of the Bill to it. The other alterations proposed by the Select Committee related chiefly to matters of detail and did not affect the principle of the Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington applied to the Hon'ble the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business, and on the Rules having been suspended moved that the Report be taken into consideration.

The Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor, with reference to the proviso at the end of Section XXVIII., wished to ask the Honble Member whether that would have the effect of preventing Government from taking land by private purchase without having recourse to Act VI. of 1857.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington said that the proviso alluded to in Section XXVIII. would not, in his opinion, prevent the local Government from privately purchasing any land required for any work of public utility under the Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington moved the substitution of the word "district" for "country," in line 24 of Section IX.; also the insertion of the words "of India" before the word "in," in line 6 of Section XLVII.; and of the words "of such work" before the word "to," in line 8 of Section LI.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington also moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

Partition of Estates Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Partition of Estates paying Revenue to Government be taken into consideration, and that the Bill be passed with the amendments recommended bo the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

Recovery of Rents (Amendment) Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend Act X. of 1859 (to amend the Law relating to the Recovery of Rent in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal), so far as it relates to the Territories under the Government of the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington then said he did not propose to move the amendment to this Bill, of which notice had been circulated. The Clause proposed to be added to Section I. of the Bill was intended to apply only to advances made by Zemindars and others in receipt of the rent of land to Ryots and other under-tenants for the purchase of seed, bullocks, and the like; but it had been suggested that the Clause as worded would embrace many other classes of advances in respect of which disputes constantly arose, and that it would not be right to exclude such disputes from the cognizance of the Civil Courts. As the extent to which this Clause might properly be carried deserved further consideration than he (Mr. Harington) had been able to give to the subject, he thought it would be better for the present not to disturb the existing law and practice. He would move that the Bill be passed as amended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

Recorders' and Small Cause Courts (British Burmah) Bill.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to constitute Recorders' Courts for the Towns of Akyab, Rangoon, and Moulmein in British Burmah, and to establish Courts of Small Causes in the said Towns, be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington also moved that the Bill be passed with the amendments recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

Abkaree Revenue Law Amendment.

The Hon'ble Mr. Harington moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend Act XXI. of 1856 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Abkaree Revenue of Fort William in Bengal), and Act XXIII. of 1860 (to amend the said Act XXI. of 1856), be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. HARINGTON then said that, before moving that this Bill be passed, he wished to observe that the Bill, as originally framed, applied only to the Presidency of Bengal. In introducing the Bill he stated that, after consulting his Colleagues, the Hon'ble Mr. Erskine and the Hon'ble Mr. Ellis, he had come to the conclusion that it would be better to leave the Legislatures of Madras and Bombay, after obtaining the consent of His Excellency the Governor-General (which was rendered necessary by the character of the legislation), to legislate for their respective Presidencies. But on the publication of the Bill communications were received from the Governments of Madras and Bomby, which led the Select Committee on the Bill to alter it to the form in which it now stands. The Governments of Madras and Bombay stated that, with some slight modifications, the Bill would be adapted to those Presidencies, and the only objection pointed out by the Government of Madras to the extension of the Bill to that Presidency was that it might interfere with the consolidation of the General Abkaree Laws of the Presidencies, which was in contemplation. He (Mr. Harington), however, imagined that, whenever the Madras Legislature felt disposed to undertake the task of consolidating and amending the Abkaree Laws of the Presidency, they would find no difficulty in embodying the provisions of the present Bill in any Bill brought in for the purpose. In the meantime he thought there would be a convenience in the present Bill being made applicable to Madras as well as to the rest of India.

The Hon'ble MR. ERSKINE moved the omission, in the first four lines of Section II., of the words "or other Chief Revenue Authority by whatever "name such Authority is called," and the subtitution of the words "or other Authority specially "authorized in that behalf by the local Government." And in Section III., the omission of the words "Chief Revenue" before the words "Authority" in line 4.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON expressed his concurrence in the amendments proposed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON also moved that the Bill as amended be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

MERCHANT SEAMEN.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill further to amend Act I. of 1859 (for the amendment of the Law relating to Merchant Seamen) be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON also moved that the Bill be passed with the amendments recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

MUNICIPAL ASSESSMENT BILL (STRAITS' SETTLEMENT).

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to authorize the extension of the term of office of the Municipal Commissioners in the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE also moved that the Bill be passed with the amendments recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

REGISTRATION OF ASSURANCES.

The Hon'ble MR. ELLIS moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to provide for the Registration of Assurances be taken into consideration. He said that he trusted that, in connection with this Bill, he might be allowed to remind the Council of the very great service rendered by a late Member of this Council, Mr. Forbes, in originating legislation on this important subject, and in taking a leading part in framing the Bill which was now before the Council. So far back as in 1857 Mr. Forbes urged on the Madras Government the necessity of a legislative enactment to establish throughout the Indian Empire Offices for the registration of all documents, and to provide that unregistered documents should not be admitted as evidence in any Civil Court of Justice. The main object of such a measure was to check the monstrous system of perjury and forgery which had prevailed, and continues to prevail, in all parts of India, in connection with Civil Suits, and which had done so much to bring our Courts into disrepute. The enquiries suggested by Mr. Forbes obtained, from those most competent to form an opinion, a complete confirmation of what Mr. Forbes had advanced in respect to the existence throughout India of these evils, and the Sudder Court at Madras prepared the draft of a law on this subject, which was the foundation of the Bill with which Mr. Forbes' name was so honorably identified, and which was now before the Council. The delay that had occurred in bringing this very important measure to completion was not, he (Mr. Ellis) thought, a matter for regret. The Bill had passed through three Select Committees, and, in its earliest stage, had the advantage of the opinion and suggestions of the learned Chief Justice. The Select Committees had also, in framing this measure, the invaluable assistance of the late Mr. Ritchie, and of so accomplished a jurist as his (Mr. Ellis') Honorable friend, Mr. Maine. What was contemplated and hoped by the originator of this Bill, Mr. Forbes, had accordingly taken place, and while the principles on which the original Bill was based had been preserved, many most important additions and alterations had been made in the Bill. The Select Committees had received most valuable communications on the subject of Registration from the several local Governments, who had also forwarded the opinions of many public Officers of great experience in the administration of justice. Throughout the country there had been the greatest unanimity as to the necessity of some such legislative enactment as that which was now before the Council. It was evident that the Laws regarding Registration at present existing had proved inoperative, this arose chiefly because the compliance with these Laws remained optional, and also, partly, because the machinery for Registration was cumbrous and had not given that facility for Registration which was essential if the system was to become popular.

'Although there was this unanimity of opinion as to the necessity of radical alteration and amendment of the present laws relating to Registration, there was a considerable conflict of opinion as to the extent to which Registration should by law be made compulsory by the exclusion of all unregistered documents as evidence in the Civil Courts. There was a great preponderance of opinion as to making the Registration of all Instruments relating to immoveable property above 100 Rupees in value compulsory, but those who were in favor of making all Registration compulsory urged that the same reasons which applied to making Registration of Instruments referring to landed property compulsory, applied, with very nearly equal force, to transactions relating to moveable property; and it was argued that, even if the measure proposed should entail some hardship and vexation in respect of bonds on the poorer class of borrowers, it would be infinitely less than the ruin to which they were exposed by the present state of the law. On the other hand, to the proposed compulsory Registration, it was objected that if not really and fully carried out the effect would be to invalidate a large proportion of the Deeds on which the transactions of the country were founded, and in the absence of a sufficient machinery this would doubtless be an overwhelming objection. It was also argued that the compulsory Registration of all transfers of moveable property would operate as a check upon trade, and would seriously interfere with the ordinary transactions of life. It had been the duty and the anxious care of the Select Committees to which the Bill had been referred to preserve the principles which it was hoped would make this measure a most valuable addition to the laws of this country, and, at the same time, to guard against the serious evils which might result from a too sudden introduction of a measure of radical reform in the matter of Registration. It was felt that the Act would have to be applied to many and very different countries, and to a people who would be slow to inform themselves of a new law, or to realize at once the very great advantages which might be reasonably expected to result from this measure. With the permission of the Council he (Mr. Ellis) would briefly state the most important provisions contained in the Bill now before the Council. The Registration of all Deeds of Gift relating to immoveable property was rendered compulsory by excluding all such Deeds executed after the passing of this Act, if unregistered, from being received in evidence by the Civil Courts of the country. So also the Registration of all Instruments, not being leases for less than one year, relating to immoveable property of more than 100 Rupees in value, was made compulsory. The Instruments, the Registration of which was, by the Bill, permissive, were Instruments relating to immoveable property of less than 100 Rupees value; leases for periods exceeding one year; and Instruments of various descriptions relating to moveable property. Provision was also made for the Registration on certain conditions of Instruments executed before this Act should come into force. But the Bill, while leaving the Registration of these Instruments permissive, provided that there should be a limit to the time allowed for bringing actions on Instruments, the Registration of which had been provided for permissively in the Bill, but which, after the Bill became law, should not have been so registered. No action would, after the Bill became law, be entertained unless such action should, if it related to immoveable property, be brought within two years, or if it related to moveable property, within six months from the date when the cause of action arose. It was hoped that this limitation would have the effect of making the Registration of such Instruments very general, while at the same time no undue stress would be laid upon the public, who might with justice complain if suddenly, and without sufficient preparation, the Registration of all Instruments whatsoever had been made compulsory; and he (Mr. Ellis) believed a most valuable addition had been made to the Bill by the Sections which provided that registered Bonds for the payment of money not exceeding the sum of 100 Rupees might be enforced without the expense and delay attending a Regular Suit, and also that registered Bonds for the payment of sums exceeding 100 Rupees should, in like manner, be enforced, provided that the parties to such Bonds at the time of their Registration had signified and recorded their assent to those Bonds being enforced in this manner. This summary method of enforcing such Bonds would very greatly and most advantageously diminish the number of Suits for small amounts which now occupied the Civil Courts of the country would save much time and expense to Suitors, and would, while affording all reasonable protection to alleged debtors who were enabled to shew cause against the issue of execution, greatly facilitate the recovery of debts. Many of the alterations in the Bill were of such great importance that, however anxious the Select Committee might have been to hasten the promulgation of a law so urgently required, they had considered it more prudent not to recommend that the Bill should at once be passed. They considered it very desirable that this Bill, in its present complete form, should again be published, so that the local Governments and the public generally, who were so deeply interested in a law of this nature, should be well acquainted with its provisions, and that opportunity should be afforded for the expression of public opinion on the whole Bill as it now stood. The delay as to the time at which the law would actually come into force throughout the whole of India would not, by this postponement, be as great as might at first sight appear. If the Bill were to be now passed, it would have been necessary to leave it to the local Governments to determine the date at which the Act should come into force in each Territory, and as the arrangements to be made for the thorough organization and establishment of Registration Offices would have been attended with more difficulty in some than in other parts of India, the Act would have come into force irregularly at different times in the several parts of India. It was proposed in the Bill as it then stood that the Act should come into force throughout the whole of India simultaneously on the 1st May 1864, or in a little more thna a year from the present time. The Committee had also had under their consideration the advantage which would result if the provisons of the Act were extended to the local jurisdiction of all Courts established by Royal Charter, whether in the Presidency Towns, or in the Straits' Settlement; but they felt that it would be very desirable to obtain on this subject the opinions of the Judges of those Courts,

The delay in the passing of the Bill would, it was hoped, enable the Committee to recommend the removal from the Bill of those Sections by which it was provided that the Act should not apply to unregistered Instruments relating to immoveable property situate within the limits of the jurisdiction of Courts established by Royal Charter, and would thus render the Act universally applicable throughout India. With these remarks he had the honor to move that the Bill for the Registration of Assurances be re-published as recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. ELLIS then moved that the Bill be re-published as recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

WASTE LANDS BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON introduced the Bill to provide for the speedy adjudication of claims to Waste Lands, &c. He said that, since he obtained the permission of the Council to introduce this Bill, he had had the advantage of conferring with several of his Hon'ble Colleagues on the subject of the Bill, and the result had been that many important alterations had been made in the Bill as originally drawn. He (Mr. Harington) thought these alterations were great improvements, and that they would be generally concured in;—first, the period of the advertisement mentioned in Section I. of the Bill had been extended from thirty days to three months. It was considered by the Hon'ble Rajah Deó Narain and the Hon'ble Rajah Dinkur Rao that if the shorter period were retained many persons having an interest in the land proposed to be sold or otherwise disposed of might be prevented, by absence or other cause, from hearing of the advertisement in time to admit of their appearing to prefer their claims or objections, and that injustice might in consequence often be done. These objections coming from such a source were entitled to much consideration. In Section V. words had been introduced giving the Collectors or other Officers power to extend the time within which persons intending to contest by a Regular Suit, orders rejecting their claims or objections should notify such intention, and the period allowed in Section XVIII. for instituting a Suit for compensation after any land had been sold or otherwise disposed of on account of Government had been enlarged from twelve months to three years. In Section VI. the word "persons" had been substituted for the word "Judges," in order to shew clearly that the Local Governments were not to be considered as restricted to official persons in constituting a Court under the Section. The local Government would no doubt deem it advisable that one or more of the persons appointed to be Judges of such Courts should be persons not in the service of Government.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON then applied to the Hon'ble the President to suspend the Rules for the Conduct of Business, and, on the suspension of the Rules, moved that the Bill be taken into consideration.

The Hon'ble MR. COWIE said that, from the nature and objects of this Bill, it undoubtedly ought to have been subjected to public criticism by publication in the Gazette in the ordinary way. But being introduced at this very late period of our legislative year the result of such publication would have been to postpone the passing of the Bill for several months; and, believing that those interested or likely to be interested in the purchase of Waste Lands would much prefer the passing of such a Bill at once, he would offer no objection to the measure, though he thought it right to point out this departure from the usual wholesome rule of publication.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON expressed his entire concurrence in what had fallen from the Hon'ble Mr. Cowie. The Bill would have been brought in on a very much earlier date, but before it was introduced it was thought advisable to consult the various local Governments upon its provisions. The replies of some of these Governments had only lately been received, which had caused the delay that had taken place in the introduction of the Bill, and which the Government very much regretted.

The Hon'ble the PRESIDENT said he quite concurred in the remarks of the Hon'ble Mr. Cowie, and he thought it would have been much better if the Bill could have been brought forward in time for being published; but, considering the important interests awaiting a decision, it was very desirable that the Bill should be passed without further delay. In regard to the extension of the period during which claims might be submitted for possession of the land, it must be remembered that on one side the interests of the intending purchaser and Government were identical, the one in obtaining the land, the other in bringing it under cultivation, and their influence would be much weightier than that of any probable claimants: the Government, therefore, could not be too careful in guarding the rights of any just claimants. It would be the duty of the Executive Government to make it thoroughly known in every part of the country that Waste Lands were under sale, and in the instructions for the composition of the Courts of Adjustment to convey their desire that the interests of all parties should be fairly represented.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN said it occurred to him to suggest the adoption of a practice which was found very useful in Ceylon, and was likely to prevent lands, which had rightful owners, being offered for sale by the Government. The practice he referred to was that all lands which were supposed to belong to the Government, and were considered suitable for sale, were surveyed and their boundaries marked out beforehand, so that there always was a stock of land ready prepared for the market. This previous survey and demarcation of the land was a matter of local notoriety, giving all who were interested an opportunity of coming forward before the lands were offered for sale at all; and, moreover, it prevented persons who were desirous of purchasing lands from being subjected to any unnecessary inconvenience or delay. The adoption of a simple expedient like this in India would let the public know what lands were available, and would enable intending settlers to make their arrangements much more easily than they could at present. Although the land Rules in Ceylon presumed that a special preliminary application was made in reference to each lot of ground requesting that it might be surveyed and the boundaries marked out previously to its sale, and that a regulated advance was made for the expenses which was to be returned if the land was not knocked down to the applicant, the actual fact was that the lands available for sale by Government were all first surveyed and demarcated, and then advertised from time to time, after which intending purchasers chose for themselves.

His Honor the LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR said that the following steps had been taken in Bengal with reference to the survey and measurement of Waste Lands:—It had been found asyet impossible to undertake a general survey of all the Districts in which Waste Lands were situated. Such a survey could not be commenced in Assam until some of the survey parties now employed in Bengal were available. But even in Assam Surveyors had been sent to survey and mark off all such lands as had been applied for by purchasers. In Cachar, where demarcation preparatory to a general survey had commenced, the Officers engaged in the operation were instructed first to survey and lay down the boundaries of all lands actually granted and sold, and then, as to the remainder, to divide them off in blocks of convenient size with distinct land marks, natural where they were to be had, and pillars built of masonry if natural boundaries did not exist. In Darjeeling, which consisted chiefly of Waste Lands, a topographical survey had been completed some time ago, and a map was now in the possession of the Superintendent, shewing the position of the various streams and spurs of mountains. This map was accessible to intending purchasers, and on reference to it any land applied for could be approximately marked off and disposed of under the rules for the sale of Waste Lands. Occasionally, uncertainty as to the exact boundary might arise from deficiencies in the map, or rather from its not being fully understood by those using it, but in any such case the matter was practically settled without difficulty by the Superintendent, the purchaser being willing to abide by his decision.

The Hon'ble SIR CHARLES TREVELYAN explained that, in the observations which he had made, he had not contemplated that all the Waste Lands of a Province should be surveyed and marked out in anticipation. Certain parts of a District were usually peculiarly suited for early settlement as being the most eligible. What he meant to suggest was that each local Government should ascertain what lands were more immediately desirable for settlement, and should have them surveyed so as to prepare a stock of land beforehand ready for the market, all questions of title, boundary, and the like would thus be settled before the sale. He thought it was hardly becoming that any land should be brought by the Government into the market the right to which might be reasonably questioned. The Bill before the Council was quite in harmony with the practice to which he had referred, and he had made these suggestions only because he thought they were likely to be of public utility. In India an intending purchaser often did not know where Government lands suited to his purpose were to be found. In Ceylon, although the law was much the same as here in practice, all the land was surveyed and mapped out beforehand, and intending settlers became aware by the Government advertisements what lands were to be had, and waited till the next periodical sale.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. HARINGTON then moved that the Bill be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

MASTER'S OFFICE, HIGH COURT BILL.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE introduced the Bill to make provision for the speedy and efficient disposal of the business now pending in the Office of the Master of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal. He said that, before he asked the President to suspend the Rules, the Council would expect him to say something of the additions made to the Bill since the description he gave of it at the last sitting. They would recollect that he moved for a Bill limited to the High Court of Calcutta, but the Hon'ble Mr. Harington had suggested that some such measure might be required at Madras and Bombay. The Government had been in telegraphic communication with the Governments of Madras and Bombay, and the answer of Bombay had been that they would be glad to have such a measure; of Madras that they did not require it. In that state of things he proposed to follow a legislative precedent of last year to make the Bill primarily applicable to Bengal, but, as in Act XVIII. of 1862, to give the Governors in Council of Madras and Bombay a power of extending it to the High Courts of those Presidencies. The other additional Clauses had been inserted with the full concurrence of the Chief Justice and other Judges of the High Court at Calcutta. Act V. of 1840 had substituted solemn affirmations for the old mode of swearing Hindoos and Mahomedans by the Ganges water and the Koran, but it was confined to the Mofussil; it would now be extended to High Courts exercising original jurisdiction, and some words would be added embracing affidavits. Sections X. and XI. had reference to the system of signing and serving process introduced by the Code of Civil Procedure. Under that Code judicial process issuing from the High Court when exercising original jurisdiction was signed by the Judge and served by a particular Officer of the Court. It was found, however, in Calcutta that there was evil in distracting the attention of the Judge, while engaged on important judicial business, by compelling him to go through the formal act of signing process; and indeed, the Small Cause Court's Act allowed process to be signed by the Clerk of the Court. The system again of serving writs by the Officer of the Court was more adapted to the Mofussil, where individuals were (so to speak) farther apart from each other, and were easily indentified, than to great Cities like Calcutta and Bombay, where the serving Officer had much difficulty in identfying the person upon whom service was to be effected. Moreover this Officer had inconsistent duties. He was at once expected to be abroad serving writs, and in Court proving the service. There seemed, therefore, to be strong reason for reverting to the English practice of allowing process to be served by the parties or their Attorneys. These changes were strongly recommended by Sir Mordaunt Wells, the Judge who had been most concerned with that part of the original jurisdiction which had most to do with the matters adverted to. It was well known to all who had watched the working of the new system that Sir Mordaunt had most faithfully carried out the application of the Code of Civil Procedure to the High Court, and to his energy and assiduity was attributable, in great measure, the really extraordinary dispatch of business (as it appeared to an English Lawyer) in that branch of jurisdiction. The recommendation of this Judge, concurred in by the Chief Justice, would doubtless have much weight with the Council.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE then moved, under the suspension of the Rules, that the Bill be taken into consideration.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble MR. MAINE also moved that the Bill be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The PRESIDENT said he was sure that the Members of this Council would join him in congratulating their Hon'ble Colleague, Mr. Harington, on the mark of confidence, and of the sense of the valuable services he had rendered to the Government, shewn by the Governor-General in appointing him to be Lieutenant-Governor of the North-West Provinces. Whilst regretting the loss of Mr. Harington's valuable assistance they heartily rejoiced and wished him every honor and success in his new appointment.

MR. HARINGTON expressed his grateful acknowledgments to the Hon'ble the President for the manner in which he had noticed his (Mr. Harington's) services in that Council, and his appointment to the office of Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, which His Excellency the Viceroy had done him the honor to confer upon him.

The Council adjourned.

Provided that, if during the currency of the said period of three years any new building shall be erected on any land, or any substantial alteration and improvement shall be made in any premises, it shall be lawful for the Justices to cause the land or premises to be again assessed, even though the three years shall not have expired, and such last mentioned assessment shall be in force, and the rate shall be levied according to it, until the expiry of the said three years.

Description of owner or occupier if name unknown.

LIII. In order to enable the Justices to arrive at a fair valuation or measurement of any houses, buildings, or lands liable to the rate, it shall be lawful for the Justices to require the owner or occupier of such houses, buildings, or lands to furnish them with returns of the measurements and of the rent or annual value thereof; and for the like purpose, it shall be lawful for the Justices, or any person or persons appointed by them for that purpose, at any time to enter and inspect and measure such houses, buildings, or lands after having given forty-eight hours' previous notice of such their intention to the occupier thereof; and whoever refuses or fails to furnish any such return for the space of one week from the day on which he shall have been required so to do, or knowingly makes a false or incorrect return; and whoever hinders, obstructs, or prevents any one of the resident Justices, or any person appointed by the Justices as aforesaid, from entering or inspecting or measuring any such houses, buildings, or lands, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees.

Any person in charge of such book who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to permit the same to be inspected, or wilfully neglect or refuse to permit extracts to be made therefrom as aforesaid, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees.

LVII. Provided always that the Chairman or Vice-Chairman, upon the representation of parties or other information, may at any time amend the said book, by inserting therein the name of any person whose name ought to be so inserted, or any property liable to the rate; or by striking out the name of any person or any property not liable to the rate, or by reducing the amount of the rate: and in all cases in which any property is inserted as liable to the rate, the amendment shall be considered to have been made at the time when the person interested first received notice thereof.

New assessment book need not be prepared every three years.

LVIII. It shall not be necessary to prepare a new book every three years, but the Justices may adopt the valuation or measurement and assessment contained in the book for any period of three years, with such alterations as may, in particular cases, be deemed necessary, as the valuation or measurement and assessment for the three years next following. Provided always that public notice of such valuation or measurement and assessment shall be given in the manner prescribed in Section LIV of this Act; and the provisions of that and the three following Sections shall be applicable to the said valuation or measurement and assessment, and to the book or books in which it is contained.
